ULSTER TO STAND PAT ON RIGHTS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BELFAST, Dec. 7.—Premier Sir James Craig, accompanied by the Marquis of Londonedrry, leader of the Senate, and Col. Spender, secretary of the Ulster cabinet, started for London tonight bearing an address to the king contracting Ulster out of the Irish Free State.

The address was voted unanimously by both Houses of the Ulster Parliament today in less than half an hour.

In his explanatory speech in the House of Commons Premier Craig declared it was useless to hold out any present hopes that Ulster would go under the Dublin Parliament, and added that the moment such a question arose he would refuse to remain premier.

GO SEPARATE WAYS

The only possible course to secure happiness in Ireland was for the north and south each to go its own way.

The Premier's whole attitude was against any accommodation with the south. He said the northern Parliament would have nothing whatever to do with the boundary commission provided for under an agreement which he described as a bargain entered into by the wrong people behind the back of the northern government. He admitted that, if the representatives in the northern Parliament of the border counties could arrive at an agreement, that something could be done in the border arrangements, he would not stand in the way of approving such an arrangement.

He insisted, however, that nothing could be done in the way of bringing an amendment act through the British House of Commons.

HAILES MURDERED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, Dec. 7.—Sean Hailes, a deputy of the Irish Parliament, was shot and killed today as he was leaving the Ormond Hotel for Parliament, accompanied by Brig.-Gen. Patrick O'Maille, who was sworn in as a deputy speaker of the House yesterday. Gen. O'Maille was seriously wounded, being shot in the head and arm.

Gen. O'Maille underwent an immediate operation ad tonight was reported as doing as well as could be expected. An official statement from army headquarters said that his condition was not critical.

The shooting of the deputies is in fulfillment of a constant threat. The names not only of the Ministers who ordered the recent executions, but of all members of the Dail Eireann who voted in favor of repressive measures, were published in a blacklist and the men were warned that they would be held responsible.

HAILES A FIGHTER

Hailes was a prominent supporter of the government and has been a strenuous fighter against the English. He was one of Michael Collins's closest peronsal friends. In 1916 he was arrested by the British at Cork and kept in prison nine months. He was the chief agent in holding the Irish volunteers together in southwest and west Cork, and took part in many ambushes against the British.

He was in charge of the Bandon battalion from 1917 to 1922, and in April took office as Brigadier-General in the same area. Since that time he had been a Derricks in the vicinity and other oil in storage are said to be menaced by the flames, which are raging unchecked at midnight.

ALLIES MAKE LAST GREAT EFFORT TO REACH AGREEMENT

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 7.—Premier Poincare will leave tomorrow for London to attend the conference of Allied premiers, which is regarded by many here as the last great effort of the Entente to reach an agreement on Germany's reparations bill before France sets out independently to collect in her own way.

The meeting is looked upon as in many respects the most important since the armistice involving as it does the continuance of friendly co-operation between France and Great Britain. A lesser, but none the less important, factor, is the prevailing impression that Poincare's political existence is at stake in the policy for which the proposed Brussels financial conference stands.

OPTIMISM WANES

French optimism over the make-up of the new British government has given way lately to a feeling of pessimism in view of certain definite indications that Premier Bonar Law holds to substantially the same views on reparations as did Lloyd-George.

Although the British have disclosed no stated policy since the resignation of Lloyd-George, Premier Bonar Law seems to agree with his predecessor that Germany should be given a long moratorium from cash payments, that the total of the indemnity should be reduced and that no military measures should be used in attempts to force Germany to pay.

M. Poincare's much discussed plan of settlement is expected to be placed before the present meeting, but it appears that he will reveal it only in its broad outlines, reserving the detailed plan for the Brussels conference.

However, it is learned that the following definite propositions, while not constituting the plan, will probably guide the French in their arguments in London:

WIFE WINS HUGE BALM SUIT AWARD

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BURLINGTON (Vt.) Dec. 7.—A jury of farmers today set at $465,000 the damages due Mrs. Dorrit S. Woodhouse, from her wealthy parents-at-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo E. Woodhouse of New York and this city. She had sued them for a million dollars, alleging that they had alienated the affections of her young husband, C. Douglas Woodhouse, who is no wat Reno, Nev., seeking a divorce. The award is one of the largest ever returned in such a case.

Counsel for the elder Woodhouses immediately moved that the verdict be set aside. Arguments on their appeal will be heard later. Of the $465,000 awarded, $400,000 was given as actual damages to the young wife, and $65,000 as a punitive award.

The romance of young Woodhouse with the "poor little girl" who lived next door was fairly familiar to Burlington people before the trial in which was retold the circumstances of their meeting at a college prom, the courtship and marriage while Woodhouse was at an army camp in 1918, and their separation a little more than a year later.

PLAN TAX ON GASOLINE

Automobile Clubs Propose Cent-a-Mile Levy in Place of License Fee

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—A tax of 1 cent a gallon on gasoline to take the place of the present automobile tax based upon the piston displacement and horsepower of motor cars, looms as a probability for the new year. This plan of putting the cost of the upkeep of the highways upon those who use them most has been indorsed by the California State Automobile Association with headquarters in this city and, it is understood, will likewise be recommended to the Legislature by the Automobile Club of Southern California, the southern motoring organization.

The cent-a-gallon tax is favored as being the most equitable means of distributing the cost of highway upkeep for the obvious reason that the automobile burning the largest amount of gasoline is making the greatest use of the highways and the automobile owner under this means of taxation is forced to bear his share of the upkeep in exact proportion to his use of the roads.

There are already eighteen States in which this method of taxation is used in amounts varying from 1 to 3 cents per gallon. It has been estimated that a tax of 1 cent per gallon would raise during 1923 a total of more than $7,500,000, which is slightly in excess of the sum that would be raised by the present method of taxation on horsepower.

The exact form of the proposal to the Legislature has not yet been arrived at but in all probability the users of gasoline in stationary and marine engines and in airplanes would be exempted from the tax. The method of collection would be simplified by having the consumer pay the tax as he purchased the fuel and the source of supply in turn handing the money over to the State. The only additional proposed tax on the motorist would be a flat fee of $2 on each vehicle to cover the cost of the license plates and the overhead machinery of the State department charged with handling of highway funds.

TROLLEYS CRASH ON BROADWAY; 14 PASSENGERS HURT

Fourteen persons were injured last night when two street cars crashed in a collision at the intersection of Ninth street and Broadway.

The injured are:

Mrs. Luella Phillips, 1309 Constance street, badly cut by glass about the throat and face.

Mrs. Rebecca Haskell, 1507 West Pico street, cuts on hands and legs.

Frances Trenan, 1734 South Vermont avenue, bruises and abrasions.

Mrs. Leota Bell, 1041½ Bond street, wrenched back.

Mrs. Helen Morrison, 1316 South Vermont avenue, cuts and bruises.

Miss Rose Kulnitz, 1048 South Normandie avenue, head and shoulders hurt.

John B. Tobias, 2903 West Pico street, pianist of the Orpheum orchestra for many years, badly mangled right hand.

John H. Callahan, clerk, 1310 Albany street, head, legs and feet cut.

J. L. Rodgers, 1526 Arapahoe street, head and back injured.

M. L. Joseph, student, 1416 West Eighteenth street, back hurt and hands cut.

Floyd Bowers, clerk, 552 Stanford street, abrasions.

A. M. Rush, mechanic, 1401 Bond street, head hurt and hands cut. John Honing, student, 2042 Harrington avenue, left eye injured.

Manny Lichtenstein, salesman, Alexandria Hotel, bruises and abrasions.

MOTORMAN INJURED

A West Ninth street car, traveling east on Ninth, driven by Motorman H. P. O'Reilly, crashed into a West Pico street car going south on Broadway, toppling it over.

The West Pico street car was struck in the rear section with a crash that broke most of the windows, showering the passengers with broken glass. A driving rain hampered the work of the rescuers, who were forced to lift the injured out one by one after smashing in the front and rear vestibules. The injured were rushed to the Receiving Hospital and treated.

Motorman J. P. Robinson and Conductor N. H. Greene of the overturned car, were both slightly injured and were treated at a near-by drug store. No one on the other car was hurt.

Two wrecking crews rushed to the scene of the accident and started to jack up the car. Running a hawser around the base of a trolley pole, the wrecking car on Ninth street took the hauling end of a block and pulled the car right side up.

WORK ON TRAFFIC

The accident occurred at 10:45 p.m., when traffic home-bound from the theaters was at its peak. The overturned car contained sixty passengers. Downtown traffic was blocked as far north as Sixth street, with dozens of automobiles and street cars held in the jam.

All southbound street-car traffic was diverted at Seventh street and a squad of officers worked to straighten out the tangle of machines caught on Broadway and side streets.

Alvah Beaton, 1430 Arapahoe street, who was riding in the rear part of the overturned car, declared that Motorman O'Reilly of the West Ninth street car failed to stop at Broadway.

O'Reilly is said to have stated after the accident that, because of the slippery tracks, the wheels of his car locked when he applied the brakes in an effort to stop, causing the car to slide.

Armada Chiefs FLEETS WILL HAVE HOME PORT HERE

Rear Admiral Hilary P. Jones

Admiral Eberle.

With Los Angeles Harbor as its base, the United States fleet, which up to yesterday was the Pacific and Atlantic fleets, will guard the Atlantic Coast under the command of Admiral Hilary P. Jones, it was announced last night by the Navy Department at Washington.

Admiral E. W. Eberle, who commanded the Pacific Fleet, will be commander-in-chief of the battle fleet unit, composed of first-line fighting ships. This battle fleet, with its supporting base force, will be concentrated here, it is expected.

NEW FLAGSHIP

For his flagship, Admiral Eberle will have the Seattle, a new superdreadnaught now being commissioned at Bremerton, which will replace the Connecticut, one of the battleships to be scrapped. Other first-line battleships which will probably have Los Angeles as their home port are the Maryland, West Virginia and Colorado.

The consolidation of the two major divisions of the Navy groups the forces into a battle fleet, a scouting fleet, a control force and a fleet base force. According to naval authorities, the fighting strength of the fleet will be stationed in Pacific waters, and the balance in the Atlantic.

Ten new cruisers, now in construction, also will come to this coast if the scouting fleet has its base here. They are the Omaha, the Cincinnati, the Concord, the Detroit, the Marblehead, the Memphis, the Milwaukee, the Raleigh, the Richmond and the Trenton.

Because of the necessity of making the Pacific Coast impregnable from attack, plane for the consolidation have been maturing for the past eighteen months. The consolidation was hastened because of the maneuvers to be held off the coast of Panama in February, March and April.

Commerce Secretary Explains Colorado River Pact to Imperial Citizens; Supercorporation Plan

BY J. E. MITCHELL
"Times" Staff Correspondent

EL CENTRO, Dec. 7.—The establishment of a superirrigation corporation for the lower basin of the Colorado River was the chief feature of the compromise plan evolved today at the conference between Secretary of Commerce Hoover and irrigation district directors from opposing factions agreed in principle on this method of solving the...

The proposed corporation will be a Federal organization backed by $100,000,000 Congressional appropriation for the construction of a dam at Boulder Creek on the Colorado River. Its nature will be similar to that of a Federal reserve bank and the corporation's subsequent revenues will be derived principally from the sale of power.

As the result of the conference's tentative agreement the acceptance of the Santa Fe seven-State compact providing for the allocation of the river's waters by Imperial Valley interests seemed assured.

Before the compromise was explained to the Imperial Irrigation Board that if action upon the $70,000,000 bill, the States in favor of the Colorado pact was urged upon the 500 farmers who came from the length and breadth of the valley to hear Secretary Hoover in his address to their mass meeting held at the conclusion of the conference.

"We have a great deal of contention among the people of the lower basin themselves," he said. "There are groups who would see development of the water power carried out at the hands of the government. There are other groups of people who would have it carried out at the hands of municipalities. There are other groups who wish to carry it out themselves at the hands of private enterprises and in many of these groups is a spirit of opposition to any form of development unless they can have their own particular way.

OUSTS SUMMERLIN AT MEXICO CITY

AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVE IS SUPPLANTED BY LANIER WINSLOW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7.—It was announced semiofficially here today that George T. Summerlin, the United States representative, had been supplanted by Lanier L. Winslow, first secretary of the legation. Apparently Summerlin's recall is due to the unskillful manner in which he handled matters in the department of foreign relations, especially the mix-up over the Hughes note to Foreign Minister Pani concerning the reforms to Article 27, relative to the oil question.

It is reported today by the War Department that Manager Grave of the Aguila Oil Company, was kidnaped yesterday by the rebels at El Hule, Vera Cruz, and is being held for ransom. This is the third kidnaping case in the past few days. The government is hurrying troops to the district to protect the towns and the oil companies.

The Department of Foreign Relations has received two official notes, one from the United States and the other from the British government, protesting against the dispoiling of the water rights of the Tlahualilo company, and others in favor of the city of Lerdo.

OFFICERS AND PLANE LOST

Rockwell Field Authorities Fear for Men Because of Stormy Conditions Over Mountains

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 7.—Fears for the safety of Col. Francis C. Marshall, attached to the staff of the chief of cavalry at Washington, and Lieut. Charles L. Webber of the Air Service, were expressed tonight at Rockwell Field here. The officers left San Diego at 9:15 a.m. today for Fort Huachuca, near Tucson, with instructions to report by wire on arrival, which was expected within five hours, but had not reported up to 7:30 p.m.

Col. Marshall and Lieut. Webber left in a De Haviland plane. Col. Marshall had been here for several days inspecting the Eleventh Cavalry troops at Camp Hearn and investigating border conditions.

He was on an inspection tour of various cavalry camps in the United States and had used a military airplane in covering much of the ground. Lieut. Webber, who acted as pilot, has been regarded as one of the most experienced cross-country flyers in the Air Service.

A telegram received here from the Western Union office at Nogales at 7:30 p.m. said no airplane had been seen there today.

Lieut. Webber had been instructed in case of accident to proceed if possible to Nogales or Tucson and report immediately by telegraph to Rockwell Field.

OTHER FLYERS SAFE

Some anxiety was felt early this evening for Lieut. C. MacMullen and Capt. Charles Rust, westbound in airplanes from San Antonio with the squadron of De Havilands commanded by Maj. Ralph Royce, but word came from El Centro that they had remained there for the night because of stormy conditions.

Lieut. C. MacMullen, who left Tucson this morning with Maj. Royce and Lieut Webster, stopped at El Ceitro for fuel and then started for San Diego, but was forced to return to El Centro to wait overnight.

Maj. Royce said that flying between this city and Imperial Valley was very difficult, especially over the Jacumba Mountains. A twenty-mile wind was encountered over virtually the whole distance from Tucson to San Diego, with violent winds in the mountains.

GERMANY TWISTS TREATY TO EVADE HARSH TERMS

The Tiger of France Recalls That His Country in 1870 Went to Work to Pay Obligations

[This article is the fourth of a series written exclusively for the North American Newspaper Alliance by Georges Clemenceau. The series breaks a silence which dates back to the signing of the Treaty of Versailles. Not until the present visit has the "Tiger of France" expressed himself upon international affairs in either speech or writing, not even in the pages of his own journal, Echo Nationale. His words are being read eagerly today in France, England, Holland, Switzerland, Argentina, Japan and many other countries where these articles are being released simultaneously for publication.—Editor's Note.]

"THE GERMAN REVOLT"

IV

BY GEORGES CLEMENCEAU

[Copyright, 1922, United States, Great Britain, Canada and South America by New York World (Press Publishing Company) and North American Newspaper Alliance. All reserved. Unlicensed reproduction in full or in part expressly prohibited.]

On May 7, 1919, fourth anniversary of the torpedoing of the Lusitania, we handed the German plenipotentiaries the peace conditions. In presenting them I said: "This second peace of Versailles, which is about to be the object of our debates, was too dearly brought by the peoples represented here for us not to be unanimously resolved to obtain legitimate satisfaction by all the means in our power."

This satisfaction had been allowed for in the treaty, and Germany had signed it. But whoever could have thought that that would be sufficient? One may insert into a solemn pact all sorts of clauses duly agreed upon; one cannot insert the will to respect and to execute them. That is partly a question of loyalty, honor and good will, and partly a matter of confidence, guarantees and sanctions.

After the war of 1870 France scrupulously and rapidly fulfilled all her obligations. Pressing deep down in her heart the despair caused by the loss of Alsace and Lorraine, she understood that she could only get on her feet again by work, and she set about working with a view to acquiring compensation in a more intense production for the loss of her two rich provinces. All the world knows how she succeeded. Ever since 1878, at the time of the great success of her international exhibition, she began to enjoy a moral revenge.

EVASION, REACTION

Scarcely four years have elapsed since the second Treaty of Versailles, and, with the exception of its territorial clause, the treaty has been outrageously turned and twisted. By a tragic coincidence, having nothing whatever to do with chance, the German reaction hits France just where she is most directly threatened. Whereas France requires reparation and security, what one sees across the Rhine is an economic evasion and military reaction.

First the economic evasion. The American public is too well informed to credit Germany's plea—in justification of her incapacity to pay—that the collapse of the mark is exclusively due to the obligations imposed upon her by the treaty.

The American public knows that actual gold payments made by Germany to the Reparations Commission have only amounted to $375,000,000, and that in the internal budget of the Reich the total sum paid out under the treaty is less than the figure spent by the German government in the purchase of raw materials and on railways and in the postal administration.

The collapse of the mark was wished for and precipitated because it was at one and the same time a means of eluding the reparational payments in rendering the execution of the treaty more and more difficult and secondly, it set up competition with Allied industry, Germany being immensely facilitated by the condition of the exchange.

In effect there exists only two ways of transferring German riches and property; the direct handing over of merchandise or the surrender of bonds, on a gold basis. But how can one procure these bonds in a continuous manner unless by a surplus of exportations?

REASON FOR HALT

At all events, whatever Germany delivers or sells outside would be so much less to furnish the creditor countries and their industries.

That is the reason there was such a delay in France in applying that section of the treaty relative to reparations in kind; that is why the Weisbaden accord encountered hostility on all sides; that is why certain of the Allies, only scheduled to draw a small part of the reparational payments, were more desirous of proposing a reduction in the German debt than of voting measures to hasten the execution of the payments.

Did not Mr. McKenna come here to say frankly that if England had sought to reduce Germany's payment she had done so because of her own strikers, for whose benefit she wanted to get the merchandise asked for from Germany? Measures however, imposed themselves when it was seen that Germany, violating that clause in the treaty specifying that Germans were to be at least as heavily taxed as the Allies, not only abstained from all serious fiscal effort but practised a policy of mad waste and prodigality—305,000 railroad employees more than in 1914, and the like. The printing press never ceased turning and a fiduciary inflation without precedent contributed to the desire for collapse of the mark.

Finally, whereas, in 1918, a law was voted in France strictly prohibiting the export of capital, the purchase of foreign bonds by individuals was tolerated, even encouraged by the Reich, so much so that one may say without exaggeration that only foreigners now possess marks and that the Germans hold almost exclusively dollars, pounds sterling, florins and Swiss francs! German investments in foreign countries amount apparently to at least a milliard of dollars.

SEEK NOT TO PAY

Have I not the right to conclude that the German failure arises not so much from an incapacity to pay as from a determination not to pay?

How to make Germany pay? Above everything else it is necessary to remove the pretext beneath which she is escaping her liabilities, namely, the continuous decrease in the value of her money. The marks needs to be stabilized. I do not know if the thing is possible; I shall simply make two observations. First, that the Germans have in the end become the victims of the movement which they engineered.

The collapse of the mark has gone so far that today they are alarmed at the prospect of forthcoming social consequences. Perhaps now they are disposed to make the effort at recovery that should have been made long ago. Secondly, we cannot afford to lament over those who speculated in the mark.

Consideration of their situation should not hold up any decisions that are necessary. In order to facilitate stabilization, experts ask for a moratorium for Germany. I believe this postponement has not yet been officially accorded, but in point of fact Germany has been enjoying it for more than a year.

Such a policy should only be countenanced if guarantees touching the execution of the treaty are increased to double those which already exist. Are we in possession of these guarantees? I doubt it. The last London conference broke up without an accord being reached and the Brussels conference is still but a project.

HOPES IN FRANCE

I hope that all the measures necessary will be taken now, to the end that France, most affected by the moratorium, may not have to bear the consequences alone and that she shall obtain proportionate aid from her allies. Such would be but pure justice, since if Germany is to be given breathing space France ought not to be allowed to expire in consequence.

It will be objected that the moratorium ought not apply to reparations in kind. That is exact, and I am glad of the recent agreements come to directly between German industrial heads and residents of the devastated districts of France, as allowed for since 1910 in the treaty. Our devastated regions will thus probably come by more raw materials than they require, but our budget will continue to show a deficit; the franc will continue to fall and it will be necessary to rely on a loan in order to advance the sums which Germany owes us, with the result that our responsibilities will become increasingly heavy.

Yes, but it is argued that during that time we can control the finances of the Reich, reduce her expenditure, limit her inflation and forbid the export of her capital. Very good. But, unfortunately, this fine program arrives too late, when the ill is already done and there is nothing more to control, and when the major portion of Germany's capital has been exported. We have allowed Germany's economic evasion to go too far for such measures now to produce any sensible improvement.

FOREIGN BONDS

Rather than always to defer the payments, would it not be more rational to work positively at assuring them? A good portion of Germany's fortune is in foreign bonds. Why doesn't the Reich requisition them in order to pay a part at least of her debt? I presume the Allies would not hesitate to help her in such a task. Could not a project be further envisaged of giving Germany's creditors an interest in Germany's big industrial and financial organizations?

Would this not be a first realization of the general mortgage on German wealth written into the treaty, and which in state property alone amounts to forty milliards of gold marks? Such solutions seem more hopeful than the volume for a moratorium, purely a negative measure.

Many, however, look for the cure elsewhere. Only an international loan can regulate the question of reparations, and France is accused of not supporting this loan. In point of fact, no one desires the mobilization of Allied credit more than we, for we would thus have at our disposal sums which we are at present obliged to borrow from our own people in order to advance such sums in turn to our bankrupt debtor.

To facilitate this operation and to contribute to the ecoromic reconstruction of Europe, we would probably be even prepared to forfeit some of our claim. Did we not show it to be so in signing the accord of London in May, 1921?

But such a reduction must be held within reasonable limits and be covered by an absolute certainty of payment. The figures suggested by the eminent bankers assembled in Paris some months ago, and postulating the maximum possible sum that could be raised by an international loan, do not give our country even the half of the sum we have already spent in reconstruction and pensions, and we have still to spend as much again. If we are to ratify an agreement by which we would renounce three-quarters of the debt which is due us, it is indispensable that we should be certain of being paid the balance without question.

WILL PUBLIC BUY?

And however much the sum may be reduced what reason is there to think that a gold loan on which Germany was responsible for the interest and amortization would be subscribed by the public when Germany proclaims her inability to pay? And would it be prudent under these conditions to give up the real guarantees provided by the treaty in favor of the bondholders of all countries who would become the privileged creditors?

In reality, on this point, as on many others, there has been too much delay. Each nation, after the signing of peace, pursued its own policy. If we had continued in union, the international loan might have been floated in 1920 and the problem of reparations would not have weighed on the world. Did I not obtain from the British government in 1919 the promise of a loan? That was the first step after the war in the direction of financial solidarity. Why was it not followed up? I do not know.

Do not let us lose sight of this question of an international loan which remains, it would appear, the one practical means of regulating the payments, but let us bear in mind that it will only become possible when Germany will have re-established order and restored confidence by a rigorous financial cleaning up and when the Allies have reverted to a policy of interdependence.

In regard to sanctions, here again we have allowed the hour to slip by.

PEOPLE HESITATED

I am one of those who believe that if they had been taken at the very start and energetically applied, sanctions would have brought Germany to a sterner comprehension of her duties. But people hesitated and debated; England and Belgium even renounced one of the measures most feared by Germany, namely, the seizure of German property in foreign countries. Even with us, the project for the occupation of the Ruhr had partisans and detractors.

In short, the power of sanctions has been lost, and now if we consider the measures which have retained the name of "sanctions," it will be found that we are dealing with the seizure and relations of productive guarantees attributed to creditor nations without restriction or reserve by Article CCIII. of the treaty. If we are driven to such measures we should at least be sure of obtaining something tangible at least, but should we have recourse to this policy?

France does not conceal from herself the gravity of such a decision. She would much prefer not to go to such an extreme, but she cannot agree to her bill being torn up entirely after already having been considerably reduced. It does not depend on her whether the idea of seizure and sanctions shall prevail or not prevail; it is a matter of good will on the side of Germany, and of determination, quite shortly, on the side of the Allies.

ENERGY NOW LOST

After a long and sustained effort, nervous depression is inevitable. It would seem that the peoples and governments of the Entente lost the better part of their energy once the war had been won and peace concluded, and that they became only capable of improvisation, abandoned as lightly as elaborated. I shall not retract in detail the national conferences since 1920; I shall not enumerate all the renunciations agreed to.

Under the pressure of England, France lent herself to all kinds of combinations even when these were most prejudicial to her. What has resulted if not more chaos? At each meeting the negotiators, working out some new formula, proceeded to make resolutions which worked more harm than good even for those of the Allies who backed such resolutions, even to Germany, whom they were intended to save.

There is no longer any united front or continuity of outlook. Before the vast problems to be regulated the Allied representatives have only been able to put forward solutions that were no solutions at all, because they were unable to rise above themselves to look at the situation in general and to march straight in step and toward a common goal. These economic difficulties would have been surmounted if the Allies had followed a policy of clearness and authority.

The instability not to say incoherency, of the "principles" successively applied since 1920 have been the cause of the present chaos. Now the Commission of Reparations is all-powerful; now it is held in check or condemned to purely clerical role. Without an Allied protest Russians and Germans, convoked to co-operate in the work of general pacification, are permitted to sign the separate Treaty of Rapallo under the very nose of the Allies.

HELPING GERMANY

The Allies, now by their sterile agitation, now by their inertia, have not only played the German game, they have deprived the victors of that confidence in the present and that tranquillity in regard to the future which are so necessary in building up the peace. The Treaty of Versailles carries the signature of twenty-seven states. It was to have been their charter. In openly disavowing it, or in trying indirectly to revise it, have we not suggested that the idea of national obligations has ceased to be of any consequence? Is not that a serious symptom in a world which dreamed of justice upon earth and harmony between civilized nations?

I would say more; when we probe the secret motives of such dangerous attitudes we all too often discover commercial influences. Markets to gain or to keep—as in the case of oil—that is what holds the center of the political scene.

Take care! Gold threatening to become the real imperialism. Did millions of men die for that? They thought they were contributing to the triumph of an ideal, they wished to abolish all rivalry for supremacy, and we seem to have reached so different a situation!

We would seem to have abolished military imperialism only to be erecting in its stead an economic imperialism. We are happily not yet descended so far, but the economic chaos of these last years, the disorder of the exchanges, tend to give to the richer nations a hegemony no less perilous to themselves than to others. That is where we have arrived—at a most critical crossroads.

Are the people, after so noble a showing, going to allow themselves to slip into a ferocious and absolute egotism? Has not commercial domination provoked as many wars as the domination of arms? Either this will happen or else remembering the sacrifices made for a common ideal, will civilized men make the further indispensible effort toward the reerection of the ruin, even if they have to show self-denial in the process?

In that case there would be more liberty in the world and less threats of war, and we can visit the tombs of our dead without shame, for they will be satisfied.

PENSION COST IS DECREASING

Payments Cut Almost in Half in Fiscal Year

Civil War Veteran Deaths Over 25,000 in Period

Plan More Liberal Rates for Federal Employees

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—The American pension system cost the public $255,201,662 during the fiscal year ended last June 30, according to the annual report of the Commissioner of Pensions sent today to President Harding. Of this amount $253,807,583 was paid out for pensions, the cost of maintenance of the system being $1,394,079.

That the number of pensions in this country is rapidly diminishing is shown in the statement that $4,906,259 less was paid in pensions during the last fiscal year than during the previous year; that 25,082 Civil War veterans died, as against 24,775 for the previous year, and that 21,259 widows died, as against 19,451 the year previous.

SHOWS DECREASE

The number of pensioners on the rolls June 30, 1922, was 547,016, compared with 566,053 on June 30 the previous year. Of these 193,881 were Civil War veterans, 272,194 Civil War widows, 45,955 veterans of the Spanish War, and 9195 widows of Spanish War veterans. There were seventy-three soldiers drawing pensions for service in the war with Mexico and forty-nine widows of soldiers of the War of 1812.

Several important modifications of the practice of the Pension Bureau were brought about during the year by departmental decisions. One decision held that a person who enlisted in the Regular Army subsequent to April 22, 1898, and was discharged on or before April 11, 1899, or who enlisted in the Navy or Marine Corps after May 4, 1898, and was discharged prior to April 11, 1899, could be considered a "volunteer." This holding favorably affected hundreds of claims filed by widows and minors of soldiers of the Spanish War.

Instructions, approved in August, last year, provided a more liberal system of rating claims of Spanish War soldiers under the act of June, 1920.

ACT SETS RATE

The practice originally laid down under act of May, 1920, made the $72 rate for helpless Civil War veterans commence from the date of medical examination of pensioners by a surgeon or a board of surgeons of the Pension Bureau. More than 52,000 claims for the $72 rate have been allowed and $4,537 were drawing that rate per month on June 30, 1922.

In the past fiscal year, 180,736 pension claims were disposed of and 2,269,767 checks prepared and sent out. At the close of the year 52,615 claims under various pension laws were pending.

Under the act of May, 1920, providing for the retirement of civil service employees, there were 7576 annuitants on the roll, of whom 6667 were retired for age, the remainder for disability. The retirement law, with several broadening and liberalizing acts has been in operation for two years, the commissioner declared, and experience indicates it needs but few changes.

It was suggested that employees eligible for retirement at the age of 70 should have the option of retiring at 65; that retention beyond 65 should be by agreement between employee and head of his department; and that no employee should be retained beyond the age of 70. Similar provisions were suggested for those eligible for retirement at 62 and 65 years of age. The present scale of annuities should be enlarged to provide a somewhat larger annuity for all classes, the commissioner said, and particularly for those receiving less than $30 per month.

POISON LIQUOR DEATHS GAIN

Alarming Increase Shown in Mortality in Denver Over Last Year

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DENVER, Dec. 7.—Poisonous liquor in eleven months of 1922 killed more persons in Denver than any other year since national prohibition became effective, according to figures compiled today by Miss Florence Leach, registrar of the bureau of vital statistics. Up to the 1st inst., twenty-six persons had died in Denver from drinking poisonous liquor, according to the bureau records. During 1921 poisonous liquor was responsible for fifteen deaths.

WILLIAM ALLEN WHITE CASE TO BE DROPPED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

TOPEKA, Dec. 7.—A telegram was sent tonight from the office of Richard J. Hopkins, Attorney General of Kansas, to Roland Boynton, Lyon county attorney, directing him to have an order of dismissal entered tomorrow when the case of the State vs. William Allen White is called for trial. Mr. White is charged with violating the Kansas industrial-court law, by posting in the window of the Emporia Gazette, of which newspaper he is editor, a card expressing sympathy for the striking shopmen during the recent railroad strike.

GEN. WOOD TO REMAIN IN ISLANDS

Report Declares He Will Not Become Provost of University

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, Governor-General of the Philippines, has decided to remain at his present post and not to accept the offer made by the University of Pennsylvania to be the provost of that institution, according to information received here today by administration officials.

War Department officials declined to make formal announcement of Gen. Wood's decision, but it was said at Secretary Weeks's office that an announcement probably would be made tomorrow.

Previously Gen. Wood had made request of the university for an extension of time before assuming the office of provost, to allow completion of the legislative program he had sponsored in the Philippines. It is expected that the Philippine Legislature will enact certain reorganization proposals soon after January 1, but it is now understood that the Legislature and other governmental machinery have failed to function as rapidly as was anticipated. Certain features of the program which Gen. Wood put forward, it is believed, will be under consideration for some time before they are finally made effective.

SURPRISED AT REPORT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7.—The information from Washington that Gen. Leonard Wood had decided not to become the head of the University of Pennsylvania was received with surprise by university authorities. He was expected here early next year. No word of his intention has been received.

CORN BORER FIGHT BEGUN IN CAPITAL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Means of preventing the migration across the United States of the destructive corn borer was the principal topic of discussion today before the National Association of Commissioners, secretaries and Departments of Agriculture, which is meeting here in its fifth annual convention.

The corn borer now takes a toll of almost 25 per cent of the [illegible] in which it works, and if it [illegible] ages to make its way [illegible] South or the great corn [illegible] ther Middle West it will [illegible] increase its depredations, [illegible] sioner Gilbert of Massachusetts declared.

Royal Electric For Christmas

Most Christmas Presents Are Forgotten by Feb. 1st

THE age-old habit of giving dewdads and [illegible] cracks at Christmas [illegible] all right from a sentimental standpoint, but it ought to be tempered with a little judgment, too, don't you think?

One worth while present on a Christmas tree will make the giver stand [illegible] as a person of good judgment and thought.

Can you imagine anything more useful, more acceptable, more worth while than a ROYAL Electric Cleaner? Any one who gets a ROYAL for Christmas will appreciate YOU, as well as the cleaner, for it will give her time for tennis, bridge parties, and enjoyments of every kind that have been impossible because of house cleaning tasks.

The ROYAL is the best cleaner to give because it gets ALL the dirt, and what good is a cleaner that DOESN'T!

The ROYAL Man will gladly demonstrate to you and arrange for secret delivery to aid the surprise.

MIDDLE WEST NEWS IN BRIEF

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 7.—One or two sticks of dynamite were exploded on the porch of a house occupied by eight employees of the Kansas City Southern shops at Pittsburg, Kan., last night. This is the first open violence in the city since the beginning of the railway shopmen's strike July 1. No one was injured.

Fire which threatened almost all of the town swept the business section of Clarence, twelve miles east of Macon, yesterday. The fire-fighting equipment of Macon aided in fighting the flames. The origin of the fire is unknown. The damage is estimated at $100,000.

Work at Carey Coal Mining Company's shaft at Leavenworth, Kan., was suspended yesterday and officers of the company announced they would apply to the Kansas Industrial Court for an order making the shut-down indefinite. The mine has furnished employment for 135 men.

MILWAUKEE

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 7.—Following recent complaints from St. Nazans and intermittent reports from other quarters, official investigation will soon be made of dance halls in Manitowoc county. Conditions which prevail in some halls call for drastic action, it is said, and it is expected that a general clean-up will result.

Edgar Conroy's home at Marshfield was raided by police officers. A gallon of moonshine in the making was found. Upon pleading guilty, Conroy was assessed a fine of $250 by the man who defeated him a few years ago in the race for Municipal Judge.

Andrew Lewis, 69, for many years a prominent citizen of Green county, died suddenly at his home at Monroe from heart trouble.

ST. PAUL

ST. PAUL, Dec. 7.—Sudden and violent deaths in Ramsey county in the past eleven months claimed 402 victims, one more than the total of last year, according to statistics given out by Coroner Ingerson. Of these deaths, natural causes took a toll of 204 lives, while homicides, suicides, automobile accidents, street car, railroad and miscellaneous other accidents caused death to 199 persons.

Farmers and others living in the vicinity of Jasper still are repairing damages caused by heavy winds last week which wrecked many small buildings in that section. Nearly everyone had at least a chimney damaged.

MINNEAPOLIS

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 7.—Settlers who lost everything in the forest fires which swept parts of Northwestern Minnesota late in the summer will have to shoot what few cattle and other lives stock survived the flames, due to lack of housing facilities, unless aid is received soon. At least twelve families lost their homes farm buildings and entire stores of stock feed in the fires.

The State fish car when it returned from La Crosse last week on its last trip until Feb. 1, 1923, had distributed in ten months 350,000,000 fish among Minnesota lakes and streams, according to E. W. Cobb, State Superintendent of Fisheries.

Lake Okabena, near Worthington, claimed its first skating victim of the season when Everett Loverink, 7-year-old, skated on thin ice. The boy was drowned, before help from shore could reach him.

ST. LOUIS

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 7.—The United States Bus Transit Company of St. Louis presented its plans in regard to East St. Louis territory yesterday to the East St. Louis Council. It declares its intention is to run buses over the free bridge and to make a loop over streets recommended by the Council, charging 10 cent fare from East St. Louis to the St. Louis business district.

Louis Bardot, 60, a wealthy farmer if Luebbering, Mo., about fifteen miles south of Pacific, was murdered by three unidentified men who attacked him in front of his home. They robbed the body of $100 and all valuables, then entered the house, locked Miss Bardot in a closet and ransacked the house.

NEW YORK REPUBLICANS AROUSED BY "TRADING"

Overthrow of Bosses Forecast in Charges of Dickering With Tammany Boss

BY RAYMOND G. CARROLL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—A few political echoes from the "Al" Smith landslide in the last election and an announcement of an important upheaval soon to take place among the young Republicans in New York City against the existing "organization ring" of their party are pertinent at this time. The official recapitulation of the city vote last month from the board of elections a few days ago brings to the fore the subject of "trading" between the heads of the dominant political parties.

Samuel S. Koenig, president of the New York County Republican Committee, and Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, officially resent any public suggestion that under the surface they are in cahoots and frequently engage in an exchange of political courtesies.

But the current facts are as follows:

Case One—Nathan D. Perlman, brother-in-law of Koenig, was the Republican candidate for re-election to Congress in the Fourteenth District. The district is normally Democratic and has a vote four-fifths Jewish and Italian. If either an Italian or a Jew had been nominated by Tammany he would not have been defeated. Instead Murphy ran David H. Knott, formerly sheriff and a wealthy hotel owner, who was simply put up to be knocked down. Perlman received approximately 8500 votes and had a margin of 800 votes over Knott.

Case Two—David Lazarus is the Tammany leader of the Sixth Assembly District and he is on friendly personal terms with Koenig, the Republican local boss and leader of that same district. Lazarus has a son, Lester Lazarus, who was nominated for Municipal Court Justice on the Tammany ticket. The Judicial District seeps through several assembly districts, but the sixth is the key area. Morris D. Reiss was the Republican candidate, but like Knott, put up for Congress by the Democrats to be sacrificed, he was the official goat for the Republicans against Lazarus. Lazarus received 24,000 votes, a Socialist named Block 10,800 and Reiss 8900. If Reiss had been faithfully supported by his party leaders he would have h. * as good a chance to win as Lazarus.

Case Three—Morris Koenig, brother of the Republican boss, was nominated for general sessions judge and Tammany indorsed him, making his election an absolute certainty before a ballot was cast. In return for that indorsement by Tammany, Koenig delivered the Republican indorsement for the Tammany candidate for the other vacancy on the general sessions bench. In a few days the two "successful candidates" are going to have a joint jollification dinner with their friends.

The instances of "trading" given above relate to but a handful of districts on the lower East Side. With the example of the President of the New York County Republican Committee openly engaging in deals with Tammany, it is safe to assume that similar "combinations" were effected and put through all over the city. That is politics in the metropolis.

All that and more has convinced hundreds of young Republicans that their party in New York under its present leaderships is only a decoy, a trading machine for men who are in politics solely to get what they can out of it; leaders content to take a few crumbs from the gift hand of Tammany in return for their failure to put up a real fight for all the candidates of their party. When young Republicans, or Democrats for that matter, get on the firing line and express themselves as opposed to the "double ring" that runs political New York, they are simply "read out of the party."

As an example, only Tuesday night Professor Leslie J. Tompkins, of New York University, was kicked out of the Board of Governors of the National Democratic Club for his activities in the independent campaign to re-elect Surrogate John P. Cohalan, whom Tammany had turned down for renomination because of a personal difference between Cohalan and Murphy. Tompkins received twenty-eight votes against 302 for the man with the Tammany indorsement.

REVOLT NEAR

"It is exactly the same in the organization of the Republican party of New York City," said one of the insurgents today. "Let one of us speak up for a man like Hoover as many of us did two years, and the clamp is put on. That sort of thing has gone far enough. The spirit of revolt that is spreading is shortly to be revealed at a public meeting. I cannot say more of the movement, for we are pledged to secrecy, but when the psychological moment arrives, it will all be in print.

"We are Republicans and we are going to stay Republicans. If necessary we shall form an independent Republican party organized in every assembly district and constitute a balance of power and that will at least do one thing—break up the trading between men who call themselves Republicans and Tammany."

The bitterness one hears among young Republicans is principally lodged in the shameful way Gov. Miller was traded right and left all through the city last election day.

As a matter of fact Miller was badly advised and waged the wrong kind of campaign. He was eager to get the votes in New York City of Wilson Democrats, the supposed readers of such metropolitan dailies as the World, The Times, the Evening Post and the Brooklyn Eagle. The Governor was looking for Wilson Democratic votes below the Harlem River and while he was keeping off national issues and lightly hitting Tammany in his speeches, Smith came in behind him and captured the foreign vote in all the large up-State cities with promises of light wines and beers.

The late "Gum Shoe" Bill Stone of Missouri, on one occasion when running for governor of Missouri, made his campaign on the political iniquities of St. Louis, never once entering that city. He won by a large majority. Theodore Roosevelt made his campaign for governor of New York on similar lines and came to the Harlem River with a majority that could not be overcome by Tammany.

It is estimated that 200,000 Republicans in New York State did not register, let alone vote, in the last election. Our informant said: "If Miller had brought as independent Republican like Gifford Pinchot into the State to speak for him before registration he would have captured 50,000 votes, and with Senator Borah and McCormick to follow up later, he would have grabbed an additional 100,000. And counting his gains down as losses to Smith he then might have got somewhere in the contest."

RIVERS AND HARBORS MEETING CONCLUDED

SECRETARY WEEKS TELLS CONGRESS ECONOMIES ARE WATCHWORD NOW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Necessity to "concentrate our funds on completion of our month's current projects" was emphasized by Secretary of War Weeks in an address tonight at the concluding session of the annual Rivers and Harbors Congress. He assured the delegates that "while harbors appear to occupy the greater portion of our energies, we are no less cognizant of the potential importance of our great rivers."

"Our country has passed through a crisis," he explained, "and we are not yet able to look ahead with disregard for the condition of financial stringency which has threatened us. Many points of national importance are being left untouched because of the urgent demand for economies. We are not even maintaining our forces for national defense at the point which is considered the minimum consistent with security."

Co-ordination of utilization of railroads, waterways, highways and even airways, to reduce industrial costs and obviate shortage of transportation facilities, was advocated by Maj.-Gen. W. M. Black, former Chief of Engineers. "The shortage of freight cars has cost industry greatly," he said, "and threatens to cause suffering in many communities during the winter because of inadequate coal supplies."

LOVE THEFT CHARGED; HUSBAND ASKS $15,000

Suit for $15,000 for asserted alienation of affections was filed yesterday by C. G. Litteer against Emanuel F. Farriss.

Litteer asserts that he was living happily with his wife, Mrs. Aimee Litteer, when Farriss came on the scene. Farriss Litteer declared, exercised "undue influence" upon his wife and won her away, and he is still exercising such "undue influence."

Face of Beauty Came Next, She Asserts

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Bare knees, according to Mrs. Eleanor V. Brewster, caused the affections of her millionaire husband, Eugene Brewster, to shift from herself to Corliss Palmer, screen actress and winner of a film contest. The prettily dimpled knees of the beautiful actress, she asserts, first attracted the attention of the wealthy film magazine publisher, and if it had not been for these same bare knees he would never have noticed her love rival's face.

Mrs. Brewster is suing her husband for divorce, asserting that the actress has won his love and that he has been living with her at Morristown, N. J. Pending the outcome of the divorce action she asks an increase in alimony to $1500 a month. Decision on this point has been reserved for the present.

The suit was brought in Brooklyn. It was replete with sensational charges against the magazine magnate, who also is associated with many other screen enterprises. The wife declared that her husband first noticed the actress when she was a candidate for the beauty prize offered by the Brewster publications. Miss Palmer, before winning the prize, was a cigar-stand girl in a Macon (Ga.) hotel.

The husband admits that Miss Palmer lives at his home. However, he says that she is living there under the terms of the agreement in the contest. He says he will marry Corliss as soon as possible after the divorce decree. Brewster has been married twice, his present wife being the second.

Thieves Haul Booty Away in Motor Truck

Deputy sheriffs today are trailing a gang of up-to-date thieves who early yesterday morning robbed three stores in three different towns near Los Angeles, piled the stolen articles in a large motor truck and made good their getaway.

At Carpinteria the thieves broke into the Carpinteria Walnut Growers Association warehouse and stole twenty-five sacks of walnuts valued at $500. Dry goods, bedding and clothing valued at several hundred dollars was stolen from the Ira L. Houser store at Fimi and at Moore Park they ransacked a store owned by L. M. Young, taking several dozen women's hose.

The thieves used the same method in each case, scouting ahead in a machine with the truck following.

HOLLYWOOD REALTY MEN PLAN DINNER

Announcement was made yesterday by a group of sixteen Hollywood real estate men, members of the Los Angeles Realty Board, that a "get-together" dinner of huge proportions has been planned for the night of the 14th inst. at the Assembly Tea Rooms on Hollywood Boulevard.

Members of the realty board, together with all real estate men and those interested in allied lines, have been invited to attend. A total of 300 tickets to the dinner will be available, according to information made public today by A. G. Gibson prominent real estate man of Hollywood.

Among those who have charge of the arrangements for the big dinner are George H. Coffin, R. C. Jones, Allan Shore, A. G. Gibson and other realtors of Hollywood.

Mr. Gibson also declared that the Los Angeles Realty Board has decided that Hollywood should have two additional representatives on the governing committee of the board. Allan Shore of Shore Brothers Realty Company, is now a member of the committee and is expected to retain his seat, giving Hollywood three representatives.

WOMAN WIDOWED BY AUTO ACCIDENT SUES

A damage suit for $57,000 was filed yesterday by Mrs. Helen Harris against Omar A. Kyger for injuries received in an accident on September 3 from which her husband, George Frederick Harris, died.

Mr. Harris died three days after the accident, Mrs. Harris asserts, and a month later, a daughter, Gloria Helen, now two months old, was born. The accident happened at Sixteenth street and Western avenue. Mrs. Harris charges that Kyger was driving forty-five miles an hour. She is represented by Attorney T. Frank Courtney.

High Blood Pressure
Why People Die
In One Record No. 3261, Massachu General Hospital, Dr. Richard Cabot, makes an interesting statement. In effect, he says that the three causes of death are: First, high blood pressure; second, disease; third, injuries.
If you had diphtheria or smallpox, you would immediately take steps to cure your condition. If you were hurt in an accident, you would seek relief at once. Yet—says Dr. Cabot—many people die from such causes as result from high blood pressure.
Why It Is Dangerous
In spite of this, the average person with high blood pressure will go on doing anything about it. He continues to drift along, allowing his heart to become enlarged, hardening his arteries to harden, allowing the tiny blood vessels of the brain to become strained until finally one of them bursts.
That is what eventually happens to every person who does not take measures to have his high blood pressure reduced. The crash might not come this week or next month. But it is certain to come sometime. No one knows.
Symptoms Are Slight
The symptoms of high blood pressure are slight. Dr. F. A. Faught describes them as vague, unpleasant feelings of fullness in the head, slight momentary dizziness, persistent headaches. They seem harmless enough, but day after day the damage goes on. And, according to Fisher's Mortality Statistics, out of every three persons with high blood pressure, one dies each year.
The above are not mere opinions of high blood pressure. They are medical statements made by the ablest medical authorities. Now, putting it squarely up to you, what are you going to do about it? Are you going to continue those people who drift along to certain serious consequences?
The Witter Water Treatment has been successful in hundreds of high blood pressure cases. There is no reason why it will not be successful in yours. At least, hadn't you better find out about Witter Water? An investigation costs nothing. It only takes a moment to fill out the coupon.

PREMIER PLACE FOR PROBLEMS

World Economic, Political Conditions Discussed

Divers Solutions Advanced at Lecturers' Meeting

Clemenceau to Address Conference Today

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—World problems, economic and political, had a dominant place in the discussion at the lecturers' conference on public opinion and world peace which was opened here today by the International Lyceum and Chautauqua Association. Various solutions were advanced, with some of the principal speakers contending that a guarantee to France against possible German aggression was the first essential step in starting the nations of the world back on the road to normal commercial relations. The views of M. Clemenceau, former French premier, on this subject, will be presented to the conference tomorrow in the only formal address he is to deliver in his four days stay in Washington.

President Harding, in a letter of welcome, read at the opening of the conference, expressed the wish that this "beginning might point the way toward a new advance into the light of understanding by which alone we may safely lay our course in such times as these in which we live."

He declared the conference suggested "a certain parallel to the intellectual movements in which the universities of Europe were founded and the renaissance of learning and humanism had its beginning."

Guarantees for France were first suggested to the conference by Harold G. Moulton, professor of political economy at Chicago University, and emphasized in an address by Edward E. Filene of Boston, former president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Mr. Moulton was discussing the necessity for the balancing of national budgets and contended that this could not be accomplished until there was world disarmament.

DISARMAMENT ROAD

Asserting that the road to disarmament obviously was through Paris, Mr. Moulton said this country must recognize that unless and until France was given some sort of "genuine assurance" that she was not to be left to the mercy of "revengeful Germany" there would be no general reduction of military expenditures in Europe. This involves, he added, either an alliance between England, the United States and France, or else some kind of association of nations in which the former enemy powers, as well as the United States shall be represented.

Mr. Filene suggested an agreement for an economic boycott on condition that Great Britain, Italy and the other powers give France "the necessary guarantees required to bring about European tranquility."

Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, in a discussion of money, exchange and the depression of trade, declared the need of the times was for stabilization of the dollar with the first step a stoppage of inflation and deflation. No government could halt inflation until it balanced its budget, he asserted, adding that this called for a reduction in the burden of militarism which in turn would require peace guarantees. In his judgment such guarantees could come only through a league of nations.

FORCED TO BURN BALES OF MONEY

Reichsbank Creates Job of Official Destroyer; General Gets Job

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Dec. 7.—The Reichsbank has created the job of "official money destroyer." The position offers possibilities of steady employment, as the tremendous output of paper money, 8,000,000,000 to 10,000,000,000 marks daily, and the poor quality of the paper on which the notes are printed, bring back disreputable paper money in a stream of steadily swelling proportions to the Reichsbank for retirement.

The bank has literally such vast quantities of "money to burn" that it is no longer practicable to delegate one of the regular directors, as prescribed by the statutes, to be present personally during the incineration of the canceled bills. It therefore decided to appoint an acting director with no other function than that of being present during the daily eight-hour shift at the incinerator, and has selected for this post a retired army general who won distinction as a commander in the late war.

KIPLING CAN'T RECALL STORY CREDITED HIM

PUBLISHER ASSERTS IT WAS POLISHED IN 1894 BY WOMAN AUTHOR

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The efforts of a London bookseller to dispose of a hitherto unpublished Kipling manuscript which the famous author does not remember having written is likely to complish," he continued, "is to result in legal action to prevent the document from being published. The manuscript is "At the Pit's Mouth; Personal Recollections of Duncan Parrenness, Translated from his Diary by R. K."

The price asked for the manuscript, which it is said Kipling produced thirty-eight years ago, is $4000. The manuscript is written for the most part in parallel columns, one containing the story and the other instructions and suggestions from a person to whom the manuscript was sent for revision. The statement of the present holder is that the manuscript was prepared when Kipling was a journalist in India, and that after writing it he gave it to a woman to "embroider" and have published. She, it is said, attempted to get Kipling's permission to publish it a few years ago, but he refused to "give permission for the publication of a work written by me more than a generation ago, which I cannot even recall," but he offered to buy it from her.

The manuscript is the earliest of Kipling's known to exist. It consists of a satire on Anglo-Indian society, and although in a series the same as the stories in "Wee Willie Winkie," it resembles the latter only slightly.

Hippodrome of New York May be Torn Down

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Reports that the New York Hippodrome, the world's largest playhouse, is nearing the end of its unique career were revived yesterday by insistent rumors that the big building would give place either to a department store or a hotel at the end of the present season, early next summer.

H. O. Winsor, vice-president of the United States Realty and Improvement Company, refused to deny reports of negotiations under way looking toward a change in the status of the big building. He admitted that the Hippodrome "eventually" would be devoted to some purpose other than that of a show house but added that "at this time" it was inadvisable to say anything definite. The site and building are owned by Forty-third street Realty Capital, subsidiary of the United States Realty and Improvement Company.

The Hippodrome site is one of the most valuable, as well as one of the largest, single pieces of real estate in its section. In the 1922 tax rolls the land is assessed at $1,870,000. Building and land together are assessed at $2,400,000.

TRIAL IS DELAYED

Death in Judge's Family Causes Recess in Irrigation Case

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 7.—Because of a death in the family of Judge William Schloss, chief counsel for the defendants, another recess was taken today in the trial of the Tulare Irrigation District vs. The Lindsay-Strathmore Irrigation District over waters of the Kaweah Delta, in process at Visalia before Judge Stephens of Los Angeles.

This recess will permit plaintiff counsel to study the mass of evidence thus far introduced so that a later delay for this purpose before cross-examination will not be necessary. The case will be resumed Monday.

LOMA LINDA BOY IS DROWNED IN FLUME

REDLANDS, Dec. 7.—Mathew Edwin, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Reinhart of Loma Linda, was drowned in a water flume at the farm. The father thought the boy was with the mother and the mother thought he was with the father. A search was made and the little fellow could not be found. Water was turned out of the flume and the body was found in the bottom of the waterway.

"it pays 5 ways"

1. What? The Pacific Mutual Life!
2. How? Through Its Multiple Income Policy!
3. Why? It Gives You More for Less Money!
4. When? Now or Any Time!
5. Where? Here or Elsewhere!

"It Pays 5 Ways"

1. Sickness: Pays YOU $200 a month while ill.
2. Accident: If YOU are injured, $200 a month while YOU are laid up.
3. Permanent Disability: $300 a month to YOU for ONE WHOLE YEAR, then $100 a month as long as you live.
4. Old Age: Pays YOU a monthly income for life, after you reach 65 years of age.
5. Death: Your beneficiary receives $100 a month throughout life and $10,000 EXTRA if you die by accident.

There is tremendous difference between Life (Death) Insurance as your grandfather knew it and the present day Pacific Mutual Multiple Income Insurance.

Years ago Life Insurance merely insured against your "death," and so was not Life Insurance in the strictest sense at all.

But today the Pacific Mutual not only insures your family against your "death," but it insures YOU, while you're alive and well, against loss of income due to illness, accident, permanent disability, or old age.

The Pacific Mutual does business in 44 States. It has more than 25,000 policy holders in Southern California. Its assets exceed $60,000,000. It has $400,000,000 of insurance.

During October, 1922, five and one-third millions in new business was written in Southern California alone—probably a world's record considering population.

GOODING WANTS MERGED ROADS

Idaho Senator Fears for Dissolution Result

Southern - Central Pacific Views Given Airing

Judge Lovett States That Separation is Needed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Opposing arguments on the advisability of separating the Southern Pacific and Central Pacific Railroads were again before the Interstate Commerce Commission today where there is pending an application to keep the roads together notwithstanding a Supreme Court decree ordering their divorce.

Senator Gooding, Republican, Idaho, declared the dissolution already decreed, "would blast the last hopes of the people of my State" for sufficient and competitive railroad service, while Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of the Union Pacific system, insisted that interests of the entire country required their unmerging.

The Southern Pacific, with its own Southern transcontinental route, would always discriminate against the Central Pacific's northern line in disposing of traffic, Judge Lovett asserted. The Union Pacific, he declared, had entered the case because the development of the northern line was vital to it, as well as all transcontinental shippers.

HITS AT PROCEDURE

He likewise characterized the Southern Pacific's application to retain control of the Central's system as an attempt at "recall of Supreme Court decisions and an unprecedented attempt to nullify a final judicial ruling."

Fred H. Wood, counsel for the Southern Pacific Company, cited previous statements of Judge Lovett which, he intimated, showed that the witness had favored the association of the Southern and Central systems. Judge Lovett insisted there was no discrepancy in the view as given.

Senator Gooding's stand in favor of a continued merger of the two companies was based, he said, on the ground that Idaho had to endure a complete monopoly of transportation in the hands of the Union Pacific and its subsidiaries. Freight rates were the highest in the country in consequence, he asserted, and the only hope left to shippers in the territory was that the Southern Central system some day might build through and compete with the Union Pacific. The Central Pacific, if separated, he declared, would be thrown into association with the Union Pacific.

ASSOCIATION VIEWS

Traffic associations in the middle-west, led by the Chicago Association of Commerce, also called several technical witnesses to support their view that the Supreme Court's separation decree should be put into effect against the Southern Central combination.

J. J. Waite, chairman of the freight traffic committee of the association, and a number of other shippers or representatives of shipping corporations, testified. All of them advanced the argument that the Southern Pacific, by reason of its rail and water routes, was encouraging traffic between the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts at the expense of the Middle-west and the Mississippi Valley producing area generally. An independent Central Pacific line entering San Francisco, they contended, was necessary to give them proper competitive transportation service.

MUSSOLINI, D'ANNUNZIO ARE HAPPY

Italian Premier and Poet Bury Hatchet; Aid to Fascisti Promised

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MILAN, Dec. 7.—Premier Mussolini, onthe eve of his departure for London, has made peace with Sig. D'Annunzio. It is his greatest success.

D'Annunzio has written to the chieftain of the Fascisti expressing his great satisfaction with the policies of the government and the fact that the country is now in the hands of a man like Mussolini. He adds that henceforth he will devote all his efforts to help the Mussolini government.

Although D'Annunzio was one of the spiritual fathers of the Fascisti movement, it went faster than he thought it should have done, according to reports, and in consequence he and Sig. Mussolini have not been so cordial in spite of their old friendship. Under secretary of the Interior Finzi has been instrumental in getting them together.

D'Annunzio's wish is that the Fascisti should be a great brotherhood including the Socialists and radicals. He is working now to bring about a reconciliation between the Socialists and the Fascisti. To this end he received last week the Socialist Deputies Signors Baldesi and Zaniboni who were afterward received by the Premier.

SAN BERNARDINO BOY SUSPECTED OF THEFT

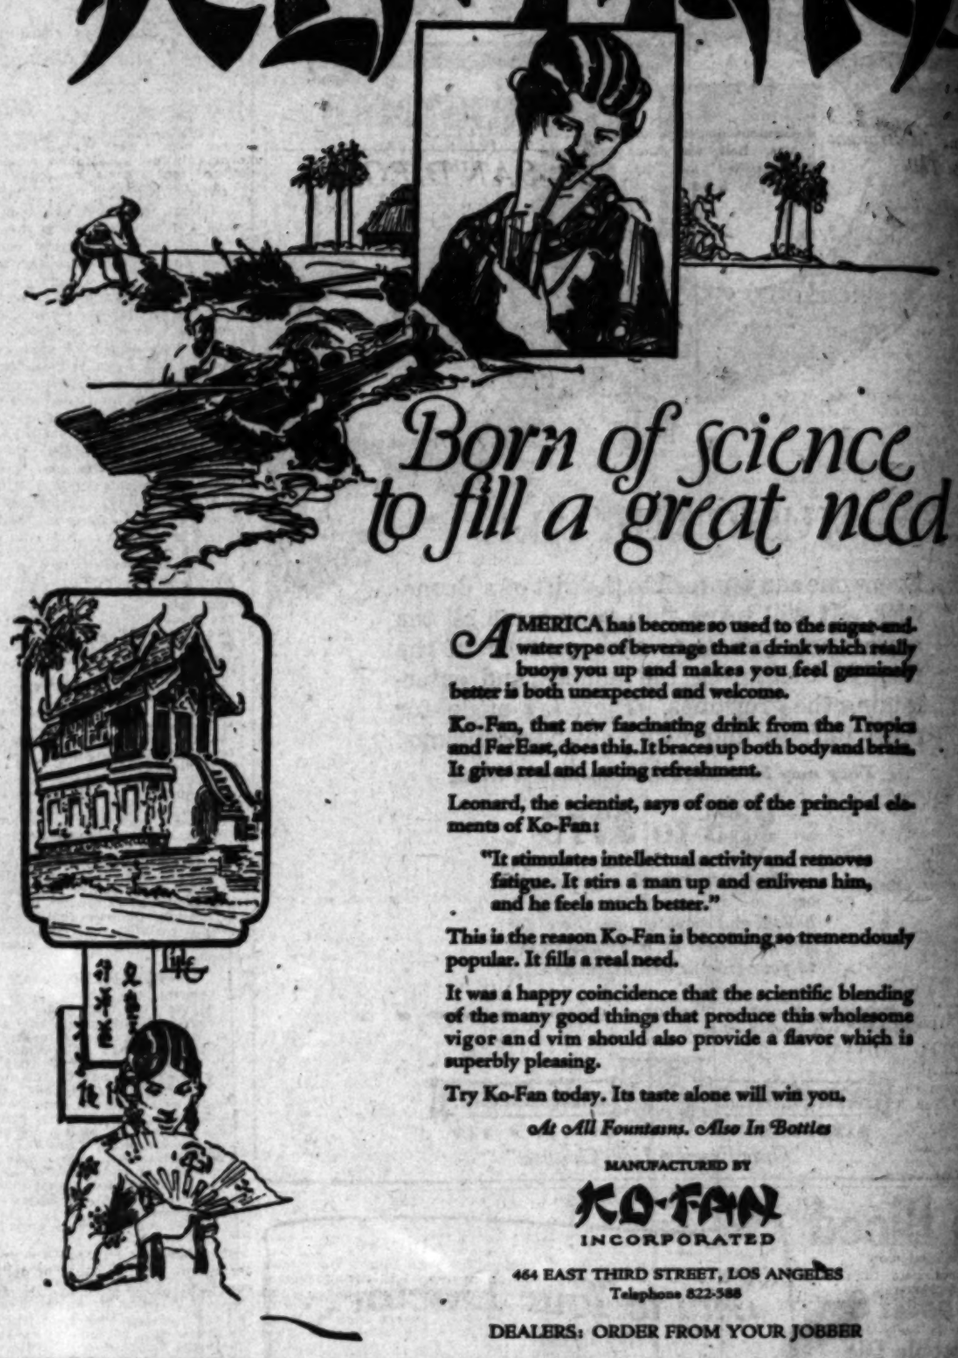
KO-FAN



Born of science to fill a great need

AMERICA has become so used to the sugar-and-water type of beverage that a drink which really buoys you up and makes you feel gaminely better is both unexpected and welcome.

Ko-Fan, that new fascinating drink from the Tropics and Far East, does this. It braces up both body and brain. It gives real and lasting refreshment.

Leonard, the scientist, says of one of the principal elements of Ko-Fan:

"It stimulates intellectual activity and removes fatigue. It stirs a man up and enlivens him, and he feels much better."

This is the reason Ko-Fan is becoming so tremendously popular. It fills a real need.

It was a happy coincidence that the scientific blending of the many good things that produce this wholesome vigor and vim should also provide a flavor which is superbly pleasing.

Try Ko-Fan today. Its taste alone will win you.

OLD RESIDENT DIES

Services Held for Mrs. Thompson, White River Pioneer

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Dec. 7.—Funeral services were held this afternoon from the Evangelical Church for Mrs. Elenore Thompson, aged 61, pioneer resident of the White River District. Interment was in Home of Peace cemetery.

Mrs. Thompson died Tuesday night on her sixty-first birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. J. Althouse of this city, following a lingering illness. Mrs. Thompson was born in Germany and came to Stockton thirty-seven years ago, a little later settling at White River. During the World War she was an active Red Cross and welfare worker. She leaves two daughters, one son and one brother.

DRUGS ENTER WILL FIGHT

Los Angeles Woman's Deposition Important Feature of Fight for $2,000,000 Bell Estate

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—Drugs and liquor so undermined the mentality of Mrs. Teresa Bell that she was irresponsible when she made her will, according to depositions and statements before a Superior Court jury, which today began hearing of a suit brought by five persons, who declare they are her children, and who seek to break the instrument disposing of Mrs. Bell's $2,000,000 estate.

Mrs. Bell was the widow of Thomas Bell and the estate is comprised largely of oil holdings near Santa Barbara. Mrs. Bell, in her will, repudiated parentage of the five who were believed to be her children, and bequeathed her property to blood relatives "if any are found, and if not, to the State of California."

TOLD SHE WAS CRAZY

"Teresa was crazy; I told her in 1917 that she was crazy; she kissed me goodbye and wished me good luck; we never spoke to each other again," said Mrs. Kate Gray of Los Angeles, 78-year-old sister of Mrs. Bell, in a deposition which was read in court today.

That incident, Mrs. Gray said, terminated more than fifty years of love and correspondence between the sisters. "We were very fond of each other and exchanged letters nearly every week," the witness asserted.

"In 1908 Teresa came to me in Los Angeles," the deposition continued, "and told me she wasn't my sister. That was the first time she had ever discussed the subject with me. She said she was the daughter of Wessel Harris, with whom she had lived as a child. Teresa asked me to swear she was Harris's daughter so she could obtain his estate.

INSANE ON ONE SUBJECT

"I told her I wouldn't lie. She remained firm and said she couldn't die until she was proven to be Harris's daughter. She appeared to be crazy on the subject."

Attorney John L. McNab, chief of counsel for the contestants, in his opening statement to the jury declared he would show Mrs. Bell suffered from weird hallucinations and delusions.

"She told persons she could float in the air," he said. "On one occasion she said she had soared over New York City and looked down into a sea of faces.

"Mrs. Bell purchased some land near Glen Ellyn in Sonoma county which she believed contained diamonds, platinum and gold in unlimited quantities. She engaged a mining engineer to inspect the property and chased him from the property when he told her it was valueless as to minerals."

Attorney McNab asserted he will prove the five contestants really are children of Mrs. Bell by introducing baptismal records.

FILIPINOS INCREASE IN HAWAIIAN ISLES

THEIR PRESENCE DECLARED TO NEUTRALIZE INFLUX OF JAPANESE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HONOLULU (T. H.) Dec. 7.—That "the growth of Filipino population in Hawaii has more than balanced possible control of the labor situation by the Japanese," and that there is no labor shortage in the islands, despite statements to the contrary, were declarations made today before the Federal Labor Investigating Commission by Pablo Manlapit, Filipino lawyer of Honolulu, and president of the Filipino Labor Union.

Manlapit submitted a lengthy statement denying the existence of a labor shortage and asserting that there were between 1500 and 2000 unemployed Filipinos at present in Honolulu, most of whom were former plantation workers.

He branded as a myth the possibility of Japanese "industrial control" in Hawaii, adding that, so far as plantation labor was concerned, there were about 4000 more Filipinos employed in the sugar plantations than Japanese.

The labor commission, to which Manlapit submitted his statement was appointed by the Federal government to investigate the situation in Hawaii, after a plea from the territory that, owing to a shortage of unskilled agricultural help, the importation of Chinese labor should be permitted. The territory's appeal to Congress for the desired legislation, also, declared the Chinese influx would remove possibility of Japanese domination of industry.

SAN DIEGO HARSH ON SORORITIES

Several Girls Suspended and One Expelled for Violating State Law

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 7.—Suspension for one week was the punishment given several popular girl students at the San Diego High School and one young lady was expelled today by Principal T. A. Russell, following an investigation of sorority activities at the institution in violation of the State law.

Among those under suspension are Miss Jane MacRae and Miss Marion Baird, who have attained much prominence as yell leaders for the student body at football games. They must also resign from all school activities.

The name of the girl who was expelled was withheld.

Principal Russell declared sororities or fraternities have no place in the high schools here and that any student found to be interested in these extraneous activities would be summarily dealt with.

Second Perkins Will Revealed in Probate Case

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

MONROVIA, Dec. 7.—A new angle in the will protest case that has aroused considerable interest here was disclosed this afternoon when Lincoln G. Backus, attorney for Irving G. Bigelow, chief beneficiary in the will of the late Anna Clara Perkins, declared that he had in his possession a second will which he will offer for probate if the first is declared invalid. In the will now being attacked by Benjamin F. Bentley and Mattie Belle Fink, brother and sister of the deceased, bequests of $250 are left to each out of an estate said to aggregate $50,000. Property and cash is left to others and friends and $1000 to the Monrovia Christian Science church. The residue of the estate goes to Bigelow, a local contractor and friend, but by the terms of the second will, says the attorney, Bigelow is given all of the estate.

CONVICTED FORGER TO BE SENTENCED

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA ANA, Dec. 7.—Next Monday morning is set as the time for pronouncing judgment upon Samuel Hansen, convicted by a Superior Court jury here of forging the name of T. R. Kinmouth of Joplin, Mo., to a deed to valuable lands in the Fairview district near here. Attorneys for the defense will probably move for a new trial. Hansen was convicted after a three-day trial, during which evidence was introduced regarding alleged similar operations at Modesto, as a result of which Hansen is alleged to have been indicted by a county grand jury there.

THIS MAN'S JINX JUST LIKE FAIRY

Max Believed He Was in Hard Luck, but—He's All in One Piece, Anyhow

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ARVERNE (L. I.) Dec. 7.—Max Sandak rode two blocks this morning in an automobile which had no front wheels, no radiator and no steering gear that would work. He doesn't yet clearly understand how the thing was done.

Sandak tried to drive an automobile across the Long Island Railroad tracks, failing to notice the approach of the 10:20 express until it was too late. He could not get across and he could not stop. The best he could do was to swerve and try to parallel the train, but he could not quite clear the rail. The third rail brush caught in the wheel of the automobile and held on, dragging the auto alongside the train for two blocks before the motorman could bring the train to a stop.

All this time Sandak was sitting at the wheel of the auto. His outside front wheel was snapped off as it jolted along the roadside. Then the radiator disappeared and finally, just as the train came to a halt, the other front wheel came off. As the motorman ran back he saw Sandak climbing out of the wrecked car. Sandak tried his legs and arms and found them unimpaired. He had not a scratch. But he was downcast.

"Look at that car," he bewailed. "Hardly enough left to fix up and I'll have to walk home, too."

RAILROAD EARNINGS LOWER IN OCTOBER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Earnings of Class 1 railroads during October, according to Interstate Commerce Commission reports compiled for the Association of Railway Executives, amounted to $85,234,000, it was announced today.

In October, 1921, railroads of that class, which operate nearly all the rail mileage in the country, earned $105,425,000.

The association calculated that the earnings this year represented an annual return of 4.05 per cent on the value of property used in railroad service, as this value has been tentatively fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

—to purchase a year old vineyard at Fontana for

$500.00 Per Acre

The price will never be as low again and beginning January 1st the Fontana Farms Company will commence selling their vineyards to be planted in spring of 1923 at $500 per acre.

Prices at Fontana will continue to increase, because constant development and the aging of the vines and general demand make this imperative. While your vineyard is increasing in value you will be deriving a splendid profit from your crops.

There can be no second Fontana.

A Fontana with wonderful soil—and water—and millions of dollars of improvements—and good roads and shipping and marketing facilities.

A Fontana with its schools and comfortable homes and healthful climate and excellent living conditions.

IRRIGATED VINEYARDS in Southern California are at a premium. Irrigated vineyards ONLY will produce from six to eight and ten tons per acre. No other land can possibly yield this much. Estimate your prices as low as you may, but grapes sold this season from $75 to $140 per ton and more.

But 10 acres, producing six tons at only $50 per ton, which is most conservative, equals $3000, and this same vineyard, if purchased now will only cost $125 per acre cash and the balance in easy payments extended over a period of five years.

Every Fontana Vineyard is readily being sold. Select YOURS today before it is too late or write at once for full particulars and general information.

RECLAMATION MAKES "STATE"

Work Done in Twenty Years is Reviewed

Salvaged Land Production Worth Millions

Federal Government Report Just Filed

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A twenty-year review of government reclamation work is contained in the annual report for the fiscal year ended last June of Director Arthur P. Davis, of the United States Reclamation Service, of the Department of the Interior, as the 17th day of June, 1922, marked the completion of twenty years of operation of the National Reclamation Act.

The investment of the government during this period has been in round numbers $125,000,000, which has accomplished the construction of works by which about 1,675,000 acres of former arid land, in the West has been furnished with a complete water supply, and about 1,100,000 additional acres in private projects has received a supplemental supply. On government projects the area comprises 31,462 farms, at an average area per farm of about 53 acres, supplying more than 30,000 families.

WORK ACCOMPLISHED

With the investment mentioned the Service has excavated more than 300,000,000 cubic yards of earth and rock, of which about 14,000,000 cubic yards have been placed in dams. Canals aggregating more than 12,000 miles have been built, including 37 miles of tunnels and 125 miles of flumes. Structures of all kinds and sizes, to the number of 110,000 have been erected in connection with the work.

Some of the large projects constructed are the Roosevelt Dam, in Arizona, which is 200 feet high; the Arrowrock Dam in Idaho, 349 feet high; Elephant Butte Dam in Mexico, 306 feet high; and the Pathfinder and Shoshone Dams in Wyoming, 218 and 238 feet high respectively.

ACTIVITIES VARIED

Reclamation work also included the erection of many other dams, canals and tunnels, flumes, drains, power plants, transmission and telephone lines, roads, railroads, pumping plants and a variety of other classes of incidental work.

From an agricultural standpoint, the report said, the Reclamation Service has added another State to the Union, equal in value to its agricultural products to that of the state of West Virginia or the combined values of the crops of Vermont and Connecticut. The value of crops raised on farms on Government projects in 1921 amounted to $49,620,200, exclusive of about $45,000,000 additional raised on private projects which were furnished water from works erected by the service.

San Franciscan's Bail Made $20,000 When He Shuns Court

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7. When the case of Harvey Spence, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated, was called in police court today, he did not answer to his name. His bail was increased from $2500 to $20,000, and a bench warrant issued for him. The court announced that if he did not appear within a week the $2500 would be forfeited.

MEXICO WHIPS REBEL BAND

Hernandez is Badly Defeated at Santa Barbara

Notorious Carlos Green to Seek Amnesty

Congress Passes Treasury Estimates

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 7.—The rebels, under Lindoro Hernandez, who have been terrorizing a part of the State of Hidalgo for several months and who lately sacked the town of Zacultipan, were badly defeated Wednesday by Federal troops at Santa Barbara, in the State of Tamaulipas, where they congregated when driven out of the State of Hidalgo by the activity of the new commander of Hidalgo.

ENTER TUXTEPEC

Wednesday rebels entered Tuxtepec, in the State of Vera Cruz, and held up the telegraph and express offices, making them at their leisure after they had bound and gagged everyone connected with them. They took advantage of the absence of the greater part of the Federal troops, who were pursuing various bands of the rebels.

The War Department announces Carlos Green, self-styled Governor the notorious southern rebel, of the States of Chiapas, Campeche and Yucatan, has informed the government he will take advantage of the amnesty offered the rebels. A government agent is on the way to meet him.

Orders have been issued by the Puebla government, after consultation with President Obregon, for the disarming of the Indians in the mountain regions.

It is reported semiofficially the same order may be issued in other States. The method is the same as that employed many years ago with good results by Gen. Porfirio Diaz.

BUDGET REDUCED

Congress has passed the Treasury estimates for the incoming year with the enormous reduction of nearly $4,500,000 over the expenses for the present year.

The Governor of the State of Vera Cruz has been called here by President Obregon to thrash out the question of the right of the States to impose taxes on petroleum. He was closeted for several hours Wednesday with the President and the Minister of the Treasury. The settlement of the question is of great interest to the oil proprietors who are in danger of having to pay both State and Federal taxes.

COURT SYSTEM CHANGE URGED

Atty.-Gen. Daugherty Files Annual Report

Says Judicial Machinery Must be Revamped

Foreign Ships Seized for Dry Law Violation

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—A new basic judicial organization, to meet the augmented work which has resulted from "the ever-increasing complexity of government," was suggested by Atty.-Gen. Daugherty in his annual report, made public here today, on the operations of the Department of Justice. Noting that 60,722 criminal cases were begun in the last fiscal year, the report declared the point was being approached "where a revamping of the machinery used in this work is inevitable."

Adoption of some method by which the government could retain attorneys who have special knowledge of government matters in addition to legal training was one of the several suggestions advanced by Daugherty. The recently enacted legislation providing additional judges should help the situation, he said, but probably will not entirely remedy it.

LOCAL FAILURES

"The failure of local self-government in parts of the country," the report said, "results in the insistence of the citizens of those communities that the Federal government perform that function in which the local government has failed, and frequently in matters where there is concurrent jurisdiction between the State and Federal government it is difficult to establish a policy as to the extent to which the Federal government should take jurisdiction.

"This is peculiarly true of offenses arising under the Federal Reserve Act, the Narcotic Act, the Volstead Act, and the Postal Frauds Act. There has been an effort on the part of this division during this fiscal year to have the United States attorneys and the State prosecuting attorneys meet from time to time for the purpose of cooperation. Evidence of the benefits of these meetings is overwhelming.

"The existing procedure for the removal of a defendant to the jurisdiction where the crime was committed is unduly cumbersome and results in unjustified delay and injustice. Under such procedure the trial is frequently delayed from one to two years."

Announcement was made in the report of the "desire of the department to return, or to recommend for return" all property seized under the Trading with the Enemy Act in cases where the owners come within "the enabling section (Paragraph 9") of the act.

SEIZED ESTATES

"The question in almost all of these cases," Daugherty reported, "is either of title or of citizenship. For instance, the Alien Property Custodian has seized and now holds the property of estates, which are quite complicated, by reason of the rights of United States citizens, alleged to have been acquired subsequent to the war. Oftentimes the question becomes one of the validity of an assignment or the acquisition of title prior to the war, and in this connection it is exceedingly difficult at times to distinguish between the prewar ownership of a claimant and a simple claim of indebtedness, and it is then necessary to have the question submitted to the courts.

"It may be expected that the future will see any number of interpretations by the courts of the provisions of Section 9 and of the question as to whether the litigant is a proper party claimant under this section. The questions of law arising are many, and while, in general, it may be said that the provisions of Section 9 do not conflict, it must be recognized that there exist some exceedingly close questions as to which of the provisions of Section 9 control in certain cases. The greater majority of the precedents established by the courts during the past year have been favorable to the government."

RAILROAD INJUNCTION

The report made no comment on the railroad injunction case and merely noted the legal situation arising out of enforcement of the prohibition statutes outside the continental limits of the United States.

"Since the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution and Title 2 of the National Prohibition Act became effective," it said, "rum-running vessels of American and foreign registry, carrying liquor from foreign ports to our shores, have swarmed along our seaboards, smuggling liquors into the United States in violation of our laws.

"Eighteen vessels of foreign registry and eleven of American registry, with their cargoes of liquor have been seized. No American-owned vessel can transport beverage liquors. Foreign-registered vessels cannot transport beverage liquors within American territorial waters. Of the eighteen foreign-registered vessels seized, ten were found transporting and smuggling liquors within the three-mile limit of our shores. The remaining eight foreign vessels seized were hovering off our shores beyond the three-mile limit, but within the four-league zone of our shore line, and unloading their cargoes to other boats to be brought ashore in violation of our statutes known as the hovering act.

"The hovering statutes (Rev. Stat., 2867, and others) provide that no vessel bound to our ports shall unload merchandise within four leagues of our shores unless by a permit without incurring a penalty against the captain, to satisfy which the vessel may be subjected to forfeiture.

FOREIGN PROTESTS

"Foreign governments protest seizures of their vessels thus violating our revenue laws, and smuggling liquors to our shores, because international law does not recognize our hovering acts as valid outside the three-mile limit, except as they may be applicable to our own nationals."

The Attorney-General then called attention to the litigation over seizures on which the courts have ruled, or which are now pending.

Only general reference, also, was made to litigation involving patents seized by the Alien Property Custodian, such as the Bosch magneto and Chemical Foundation suits. "A number of suits" have been filed, the report said, to determine title to these patents and to decide the ownership of the funds which have accumulated from use of patent rights.

Postwar espionage by unnamed foreign governments was hinted at in the report submitted by the department's bureau of investigation.

"The attention has been directed," Director W. J. Burns reported, "to investigations of several individuals who have posed as representatives of foreign governments, resulting in the apprehension of the persons under investigation."

Daugherty said work was being pushed on the war contract investigation of the department, and that action was being taken, as warranted, with the completion of the audit of each project.

AMBASSADORS HOLD UP CONFERENCE

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The conversations between George Harvey, Alanson B. Houghton and Henry P. Fletcher, American Ambassadors to Great Britain, Germany and Belgium, have been postponed until tomorrow, and perhaps will not take place until later owing to Mr. Harvey's inability to come to London because of his wife's illness. Mrs. Harvey continues to improve rapidly.

It is expected that the Ambassadors will discuss the general lines of the American procedure at the forthcoming Brussels financial conference.

CHURCH BLOC LATEST POLITICAL PROJECT

MINISTERIAL EDITOR WANTS RELIGIOUS FORCES TO BAND TOGETHER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Encouraged by the success of the farm bloc, the labor bloc and many other factional bodies, it is now proposed to organize a church bloc. The plan contemplates banding together of all Christian forces in the United States "to get a man in the Presidential chair who places principles above politics and who will not hesitate to stand decidedly for the practical application of Christian principles."

The sponsor of the new bloc is Rev. J. Clover Monsma, editor of the Ministers Monthly and the movement is based on the refusal of President Harding to indorse the convention of a national peace council in Chicago, which had been urged by some churches. The President said that while such a conference had his deepest sympathies, he could not be responsible for it.

Rev. Mr. Monsma says there are more than 40,000,000 names on church rolls in this country and if this force can be welded together to work in one direction, it can accomplish its desires.

GIGANTIC WASTES OF AMERICA SHOWN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—"To the world at large the United States has long appeared the most wasteful nation on earth," asserted Lewis E. Pierson, president of the Merchants' Association of New York, to the national convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents today. Supporting his statement with statistics gathered by the Hoover committee on waste, Mr. Pierson said that an annual loss through waste in five leading industries in this country reached a total of approximately $1,405,000,000. Another $500,000,000 was lost annually by American investors in bucket shops and fraudulent stocks.

Comparing forms of government, Justice William R. Riddell of the Supreme Court of Ontario, asserted that Canada's was more representative than that of the United States, since in Canada the ministry is responsible to the people and removable at the will of the majority.

UNIVERSITY REGENTS ASK FOR MORE MONEY

INCREASE OF $285,000 ASKED FOR SOUTHERN BRANCH EXPENSES

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 7.—An increase of $285,000 per year in its next biennial budget over the appropriations of two years ago, was asked today by the regents of the University of California. The regents requested a total of $10,508,947.77 as compared with $9,935,904.15 appropriated by the last Legislature.

The regents asked nothing additional for the University at Berkeley or at San Francisco, declaring that the growth of the southern branch of the University and the teachers' colleges had taken a burden from the under-class pressure at the institution.

An increase of 25 per cent in the appropriation for the Southern Branch was requested, including $450,000 for campus extension. According to the statement of the regents, there were 2935 students in the Southern Branch in 1921 which increased to 3800 in 1922.

A total of $575,000 for the College of Agriculture and [illegible] which includes [illegible] tal expenses.

Remarkable Tonic Brings New Strength to Thousands of Weak and Ailing

Discovery of Lyko, the Great General Tonic, Gives Aid of Science to Run-Down People

As you watch the crowd going along the street, how easy it is to see the difference in the people who make it up.

Some are well, strong, vigorous, full of the vim and energy that win in social and business life. Others are weak, emaciated, lacking in all that counts for power and success—mere nobodies in active affairs.

And yet most of these run-down people could quickly become well and strong if they would only help Nature to restore their bodies to a normal condition. What they need is an efficient general tonic and regulator. If they will do what thousands of other people once weak and lacking in energy—now strong and well—have done, they will use Lyko to get on their feet again.

It is simply amazing to read of the wonderful help Lyko has given to people who had become worn out in mind and body, many of them discouraged, hopeless of regaining their health and strength.

Mr. Johnson, a resident of Kansas City, was amazed at the way Lyko built up his run-down constitution. He says, "When I began taking Lyko I was thin and gaunt, weighed only 130 pounds, and felt a great lack of 'pep.' Now I weigh 147 pounds, am full of energy and never feel tired."

H. Jenkins, of Chicago, is another to whom Lyko has meant renewed strength and vigor. The following is from his letter: "My business keeps me closely confined to the office and at a desk all day long. As a result, my system became all clogged up, I was always tired, rested poorly at night and grew nervous and irritable. I began using Lyko and now I am in fine shape again, feel cheerful, and am able to do much more work without fatigue or nervous strain."

Mitchell Murray, of Missouri, sends a letter which says: "When I began to take Lyko I was so weak I could hardly walk across the room. Now I am able to do a pretty fair day's work, and my neighbors are amazed at the effect."

J. D. Miller of Chicago writes: "We have been using Lyko in our family and find it the best tonic for stomach and bowels we have ever used."

F. B. Barker of Florida is another who writes in praise of Lyko. He says: "My wife's health was all run down and she has greatly improved since taking Lyko."

Lyko is a scientific preparation containing pure medicinal ingredients each of which has a beneficial action on some part of the system. It has a mild but effective laxative action which gets rid of constipation. It also stimulates a lazy stomach to normal action and improves digestion so that the body absorbs the full strength from the food. As many ailments come from a disordered digestive system or from a clogged up condition of the bowels, Lyko helps to remove one of the great causes of discomfort and illness.

Certain ingredients in Lyko have a direct and beneficial action on the kidneys and liver; others give strength to the nervous system and prevent what is known as nervous fatigue and mental exhaustion. Practically every part of the body is helped to return to its full health and strength by Lyko. And a healthy body means physical and mental power, magnetic personality, the appearance that brings admiration and confidence.

If you are frail, weak, suffering from a "breakdown" or if you feel inactive, lacking in energy, unable to compete with active people, if you look and feel old, let Lyko give you new vim and vigor. Do not delay. Begin at once. Let Lyko do for you what it has done for so many others.

PHILLIPS HUNT TURNS TO CITY

Police Believe She May be Hiding in Chinatown

Trio Who Talked With Her Husband Ordered Held

day that the elusive murderess was in hiding in the city and had the protection of the underworld.

Chief Criminal Deputy Manning made a trip ..lone to the oriental section of the city late in the evening but would not divulge his destination or the identity of the person he sought. It was believed, however, that he received a tip regarding the whereabouts of Mrs. Phillips and was to meet the informer for further details.

WILL QUESTION MEN

Three men known to have talked with Armour Phillips the night his wife escaped from the County Jail will be taken to the Sheriff's office this morning for questioning. These men, it was stated, left for Tijuana the same evening they met and conversed with Phillips and an attempt will be made to check up on their movements there.

They are now back in the city, and in addition to questioning them concerning their own actions they will be quizzed regarding Phillips's actions Monday night.

Sheriff Traeger and Undersheriff Biscailus returned to the city early this morning after combing the border and Lower California. Deputy Sheriff Nolan, who also went to the border, remained in San Diego during the night and will continue the investigation on the border today.

SHERIFF GETS CLEW

It is Sheriff Traeger who discovered that the three men who had been with Phillips the night preceding the escape had been in Tijuana and the information was transmitted to the Sheriff's office here, with instructions to question these men.

He got the names of the three and certain information about them which was not made public, and telephoned it immediately to Deputy Manning.

Until last evening it was supposed the three men who talked with Phillips remained in Los Angeles.

Sheriff Traeger began his search of the Johnson rancho at daybreak and continued all day long on that and on investigation of other clews leading below the border.

Johnson's information led the Sheriff to Montecosta, about fifteen miles from Tijuana. After his search there the Sheriff telephoned to order Johnson's release.

One of the leads that interested the Sheriff, it is believed, was the arrest in Brawley yesterday of Rex Smith, former Los Angeles aviator, who made a forced landing Wednesday with a passenger who quickly disappeared.

The passenger, a youth, may have been Clara Phillips dressed in a boy's clothing, it was said. Smith was jailed by order of Collector Brown of Calexico for Federal investigation. His arrest followed the finding of a touring car stolen from Frank De Armon of Brawley Wednesday night. It was rammed against the wire fence marking the international boundary.

KEEPS SILENT

Smith, Brawley police declared, had attempted to get thirty gallons of gasoline after his plane was forced down. He applied at the Standard Oil Company station. The attendant, becoming suspicious, refused and notified the police. Smith, the police assert, refuses to answer questions. He had made inquiries after his landing as to whether there was a landing field in Mexicali.

The stolen automobile, with its hood thrust through the wire fence, was found a short distance from the city.

ORDERED RELEASE

It was first believed that it was "Goldie" Bennett, former Los Angeles aviator, who was being held in Brawley. This proved erroneous, however, when Bennett walked in to the Sheriff's office last night with a telegram from Smith who, he stated, worked for him, asking that some effort be made to secure his release. After conferring with Chief Criminal Deputy Manning, Bennett was told that the Sheriff's office here had nothing to do with Smith's arrest at Brawley, but that the matter would be investigated.

SCOUTS SENT OUT

Gov. Jose Innocente Lugo at Mexicali late yesterday sent out scouting parties, consisting of police, soldiers and guides, to aid Los Angeles authorities in the search for Mrs. Phillips. This is on the theory that she was the passenger who fled from the airplane dressed in male attire and reached the border in the stolen touring car.

The search all over the country waxed more vigorous yesterday.

All Union Pacific trains between Ogden and Omaha are being searched and checked for a trace of the elusive hammer-case murderess.

L. J. Rauss, 427 Huntington Hotel, supplied information to Dep. Sheriff Fox that inspired a hunt in Fresno. He said that while eating in a Main-street restaurant he heard two men discussing the escape in low tones. He repeated this asserted conversation:

"How about the money in that Clara Phillips deal?"

"Well, I got part of it, but I'll have to go to Fresno to meet the rest of the gang before I get the rest of it. Then I'll give you your share."

Deputy Fox said Rauss identified one of the men as an ex-convict from Arizona. He gave the man's name and offered to assist in the Fresno search. This angle is being investigated.

Detective Sergt. Edward King, attached to the District Attorney's office, is investigating a message from Jack Frankel at San Luis Obispo that a woman resembling Clara Phillips attempted to secure a hotel room there Wednesday night.

KIDNAPING PLOT

Victoria Cross, former chorus girl, and at one time an acquaintance of Clara, visited Al Manning late yesterday afternoon to report an asserted kidnaping plot. She was a witness in the murder trial. Miss Cross asserted that three men drove up to her home between Los Angeles and Pasadena Wednesday afternoon, posed in an official capacity, and attempted to force her, under threats, to accompany them for "an interview" on the escape.

One of the men had what appeared to be a canvas sack in the machine. She refused to discuss matters with them, and asked the Sheriffs' forces for protection. Deputy Sheriff Stensland was detailed to investigate this phase of the case.

PEGGY HAS THEORY

Peggy Caffee, star prosecution witness against Clara, conferred with Al Manning for an hour yesterday afternoon. She expressed the opinion that Clara was being hidden by underworld friends in Chinatown.

Peggy was accompanied by Mrs. Roy Harrington of Long Beach. She declared she held no fear of Clara's vengeance and did not request that authorities take steps to safeguard her.

"Gold-Tooth" Johnson, promoter of a resort enterprise at Montecosta, just over the Mexican line, who was held in the County Jail Wednesday night while Sheriff Traeger with a posse made a fast dash below the border, was found to have no connection with Clara's escape and walked out smiling. Sheriff Traeger had been informed that Clara might have been offered the hospitality of Johnson's Montecosta cabin.

The cabin, near Point of Rocks, was found. Badillo Brothers, who own the ranch property there, asserted that they had not seen Johnson for a year. They said he had some time ago negotiated with them to purchase their property for a race track and gambling resort. They scoffed at rumors that Clara had sought refuge there, and did not object to a search of the vicinity.

TREMAINE ANXIOUS

Fred A. Tremaine, father of Alberta Meadows, for whose murder Clara Phillips was convicted and sentenced to prison, appeared at the Sheriff's office yesterday several times to demand that the escaped murderess be captured. He asked that every possible effort be expended.

Armour Phillips, husband of Clara, reported to Chief Dep. Manning at 3:30 p.m., as he had been ordered to do. This is part of the surveillance directed by Sheriff Traeger.

A wrangle developed over the fact that "blood and feathers" were found on the windshield of Phillips's automobile. He said a night bird had flown against the Wilshire Boulevard, smearing blood and feathers across the top part of the glass.

Deputy Stensland left to inspect the windshield. The machine was parked near the Hall of Records on Broadway. Stensland returned with the information that the blood and feathers were on the lower portion of the windshield. An argument followed. Phillips was permitted to leave, with instructions to report each day until notified otherwise.

Deputies Fox and Modie investigated a report made by Joseph Hackney, 807 Fourth avenue, Alhambra, that a girl dressed in men's clothing had stopped for food in an Alhambra restaurant Tuesday night. He thought it might have been Clara, but after comparing her description with Clara's photographs the clew was dropped as of no value.

A rumor was current yesterday that an investigation was under way among prisoners in the County Jail to check up indications of "inside aid" in Clara's escape. A far-reaching investigation will be made by Sheriff Traeger upon his return to the city, it was intimated.

CLARA KEEPS LONG BEACH POLICE BUSY

Officers Are Busy Tracing Wild Rumors; All Tips Prove to be Groundless

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 7.—If Clara Phillips, hammer murderess and escaped convict, is not recaptured soon, a score or more Long Beach policemen will seek leave of absence and the seclusion of a sanatorium. Telephones at Central Station here have been kept busy night and day since Mrs. Phillips escaped, and from every section of the city have come tips that she had been seen here.

Last night police and deputy sheriffs surrounded a house on Coronado avenue following a report that Mrs. Phillips and two men had spent the previous night there. Another squad of officers rushed to Bixby Park yesterday following receipt of a report that Clara had been seen on a bench there in the rain.

Another tip offered the local police was that she had been seen to purchase another hammer in a local hardware store. Still another zealous Long Beacher phoned police that a veiled woman had been seen pacing the sidewalk in front of the home of Peggy Caffee, star witness against Mrs. Phillips at her trial.

From a local theater came the report that Mrs. Phillips had just purchased a ticket and had entered to enjoy a vaudeville performance. Another one received by the police this morning was to the effect that a woman said to resemble Mrs. Phillips was camping a few miles east of the city with two men.

TITLED STAGE RECRUIT

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 7.—London has another titled recruit to the stage in the person of the Hon. Lois Stewart, sister of Lord Arlington, who is to appear in a musical comedy opening just before Christmas.

LOOK AT US WITH GREEN EYES

An Editorial From the Chicago "Tribune," Published Yesterday Under the Title, "The Rose Garden of Romance"

The winsome young woman whose smile induced sentimental jurors to let her off with ten years' imprisonment after they had agreed that she had beaten a rival to death with a hammer has hung another wreath upon the Los Angeles statue of Civic Entertainment. This time she has sawed her way out of jail, fled with bare feet across a roof like Eliza crossing the ice, escaped in a waiting automobile, and is now being sought in the wilds of Mexico.

Los Angeles leaves nothing undone to contribute to the zest of life, to the literature of romance, to the thrill of adventure, to the allurements of luxury. It is the City of the Angels, the Sunny Rose Garden of Romance. Princes and Sheiks tread its streets. Houris and Kings' daughters dance in its gardens. Everywhere is the glint of sunlight, the perfume of orange blossoms, the sparkle of blue sea, and the rosy glow of reflection from a distant snow-capped peak.

Only for contrast do we have the Obenchain-Burch-Kennedy cases, the Taylor murder, the Fatty Arbuckles, and similar things too numerous to mention. It is the light that never was on sea or land—before.

in supreme command, and Admiral E. W. Eberle as commander-in-chief of the "battle fleet" unit, was announced tonight by the Navy Department. The reorganization, the department said, involved no change in any present assignment of ships or Navy personnel, but was chiefly for the purpose of effecting a peace-time organization that could be carried into a war emergency without change.

Under the new plan, the United States Fleet will consist of the battle fleet, composing the main fighting strength of the Navy prepared to engage an enemy fleet; the scouting fleet, the duty of which would be to locate the enemy preparatory to engagement of the battle fleet; the control force, organized to exercise control of the sea after this had been obtained by action of the battle fleet, and the fleet base force, extended to support the operations of the fighting forces.

UNDER ONE COMMAND

The whole organization for purposes of administration in peace or war would be under command of a single officer with the rank of Admiral, no matter how far scattered its elements might be.

Admiral Jones, now commanding the Atlantic Fleet, is the first to command the United States Fleet, while Admiral Eberle, now commanding the Pacific Fleet, takes the rank of Vice-Admiral and command of the battle fleet.

In explanation of the purposes of the reorganization, the Navy Department made the following statement:

"It facilitates passing from peace to war conditions, thereby saving time at the beginning of the war when time is vital.

TRAIN FOR DUTIES

"It allows the various units to be trained in peace for the duties which they must perform in war by the officers who are to command during the war.

"It places the whole fleet under the command of the officer who is to command it in time of war and gives him and the officers in command of the major units opportunity to gain necessary experience in command and making plans to carry out their assigned tasks.

"It creates an organized fighting force, which has only to be expanded in emergency to be ready for any campaign."

The battle fleet will be composed of battleship divisions under a vice-admiral, light cruiser divisions, destroyer squadrons, aircraft squadrons and such submarine divisions as may be assigned.

SCOUTING FLEET

The scouting fleet will be under command of Vice Admiral J. D. McDonald and will be composed of battleship divisions, light cruiser divisions, destroyer squadrons, aircraft squadrons, submarine divisions and train.

The control force will be under command of a rear admiral to be assigned as the relief of Rear Admiral N. A. McCully, just ordered as president of board of inspection and survey, and will be composed of cruiser divisions, destroyer squadrons and mine squadrons.

The fleet base force will be under command of Read Admiral J. V. Chase and will be composed of mine squadrons, destroyer squadrons, aircraft squadrons and train.

TWO SUSPECTS ARE SET FREE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—Search for Mrs. Clara Phillips, hammer slayer, of Los Angeles, on a Chicago train which left the Pacific Coast the day before the woman sawed her way out of jail, proved fruitless today, when a pair of suspects easily proved an alibi. Miss Elsie Coe and Miss Clara Hutchins of Baltimore were taken off the Los Angeles Limited of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway after the train had been stopped, and searched at Maywood by detectives. They were released five minutes later.

Chicago authorities were called into the case when Sheriff Traeger of Los Angeles received information that two women wearing tan polo coats similar to that worn by Mrs. Phillips had been seen aboard the Limited as it passed through Cheyenne. He telegraphed to Omaha and Chicago, asking that the pair be intercepted.

The message was received too late in Omaha and relayed to the chief of detectives here, who assigned a squad to canvass the train at Maywood. Inasmuch as the only Polo coats on the train were worn by Miss Cole and Miss Hutchins, they were taken into temporary custody.

The innocent victims were detrained at the Northwestern Terminal to face an excited platoon of camera men.

Detectives protected the women from impromptu interviews, but were unable to stop the barrage of flash guns.

En route to a taxicab more than a dozen photographs were taken.

The innocence of the women was proved by letters, engraved jewelry, initialed linen, bank books, receipted bills and a diary.

Miss Coe explained that she and Miss Hutchins had left Baltimore in April and had lived in Los Angeles until Monday.

The women, after their first embarrassment over the arrest, accepted the situation philosophically and laughed over the mistake.

STRAITS PLAN OF TURKS

Kemalists Decide on Proposals After Session With Tchitcherin; Soviets Approve

BY HENRY WALES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LAUSANNE, Dec. 7.—The Turks tonight decided upon proposals regarding the future regime of the straits, which they will present to the conference tomorrow. The proposals were drafted at a long conference between Ismet Pasha and M. Tchitcherin. It is understood that they meet the Russian demands regarding the straits. These are their principal features:

Free passage through the straits for merchant vessels.

The passage of warships singly at intervals of not less than one month between ships.

An international commission to deal with technical questions in connection with the control of the straits.

Turkey, however, will insist on maintaining full sovereignty of all its territory.

DEMILITARIZE ZONE

An agreement to demilitarize the zone along the straits, Turkey being prepared to rely on its defense batteries to be brought up for use when and where needed.

Turkey will insist on its right to defend Constantinople, its capital, but this right will not interfere with the demilitarization of the Bosporus.

The Turks believe their plan is not opposed to the principles laid down by the American statement to the conference. They believe further that it is capable to being made to conform with the Allied proposals if the great powers make minor concessions.

The Russians point out what they consider serious discrepancies in the Allied plan, which permits any outside power to send into the Black Sea a tonnage equal to that possessed by the strongest Black Sea riparian power. If the Black Sea powers disarm navally then an outside power may send in three warships, one exceeding 10,000 tons.

INCREASE NAVAL STRENGTH

If thereafter they should disarm and scrap their small gunboats the Allied powers have the right to increase their naval strength on the Black Sea to three warships, of which two could not be more than 10,000 tons, and third of a larger size. The possible maximum thus would be for the three principal powers 55,000 tons each, since the Washington conference limits capital ships to 35,000 tons. Thus, say the Russians, a premium is placed on naval disarmament of the Black Sea.

The Russians object further to tonnage instead of by class of ship. If the strongest Black Sea naval power were to have six gunboats of four thousand tons the British, for example, could send a single cruiser of 24,000 tons, which would be more than a match for six gunboats.

CONFERENCE ON REPARATIONS

(1.) No moratorium to Germany without the surrender of productive guarantees, such as mines and forests.

(2.) Reduction of the German indemnity to from 40,000,000,000 to 50,000,000,000 gold marks only on condition that there be a parallel reduction in the French and other Allied debts.

(3.) Revision of the percentages of the German payments in favor of France. France at present is entitled to 52 per cent but would claim Great Britain's 22 per cent in return for fixing the indemnity at the suggested amount.

(4.) When the voluntary default of Germany is definitely established, or when Germany refuses to carry out the financial reforms of balancing her budget and stabilizing the mark, penalties would be imposed. These would include extension of the Allied occupation of the Ruhr so as to permit a customs cordon around that territory, and the economic exploitation and general administration of the Rhineland.

On the other hand, the British, backed by Italy and Belgium, hold that it is useless to convene the Brussels meeting unless there is a clear preliminary understanding on certain points which Poincare would leave for consideration at Brussels.

These are the fixing of a reasonable sum of indemnity and the method of its payment; redistribution of the payments among the Allies, cancelation of the Allied debts so far as possible without affecting America, methods by which Germany's finances can be restored under Allied control, and the raising of a loan for Germany.

OIL DETERMINING FATE OF NATIONS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST LOUIS (Mo.) Dec. 7.—"Petroleum is determining the fate of nations," declared Robert W. Stewart of Chicago, tonight inan address before the annual convention of the American Petroleum Institute.

Stewart asserted that with statistics indicating that the world's supply of petroleum is limited, "there is danger in this automotive age of its being exhausted before a practicable substitute is found."

The British, French, Russia, the United States and all the nations are concerned about petroleum," he said.

A. L. Beatty, president of the Texas Company, declared "crude oil by the million barrels is taken from the ground before it is needed, often by the drilling of numerous expensive wells when a much less number would suffice."

He urged co-operation among companies in constructing pipe lines, emphasizing joint ownership of pipe line was needed particularly in connection with new fields remote from established plants.

All officers of the institute were re-elected this afternoon. They are: Thomas A. O'Donnell, Los Angeles, president; R. D. Benson and H. L. Doherty, New York, and J. W. Van Dyke, Philadelphia, vice-presidents; E. F. Sinclair, New York, treasurer and R. L. Welch, New York, secretary.

NAME ARCHITECTS FOR LIBRARY JOBS

PALMS WILL HAVE BUNGALOW STRUCTURE; FURNITURE IS PURCHASED

At yesterday's meeting of the library board Elmer Gray was appointed architect for the Pico Heights branch, and C. E. Noerenberg was appointed architect for the new Jefferson branch, to be erected at the corner of Jefferson avenue and Prescot Court. At the same meeting a contract for the Palms bungalow library was awarded to the Pacific Ready-Cut Homes, Inc. This library building is to be at the corner of Vinton and Woodbine streets in Palms.

A contract for supplying the furniture for the interior of the new Hollywood branch, to be erected at the corner of Hollywood Boulevard and Ivar street, was awarded to the Library Bureau.

The librarian was instructed also to advertise for bids covering the construction of the university and Figueroa branches, two buildings which were recently approved by both the board and the art commission.

Burglar Drops Plunder When Girl Screams

A saleswoman's scream saved $1500 for Jacoby Brothers, whose department store at 331 South Broadway was robbed last night. The burglar escaped when the girl screamed, without stopping to take with him a large sack filled with valuable coats and other apparel.

The noise of the sack being dumped down a chute used for bundles frightened the girl, who was working late, and after her shout she notified the detective bureau.

Detectives Wilde and Dryden, who investigated, found that one of the upper floors had been broken into and that the thief had escaped by running across two roofs and climbing down a fire escape.

"BIG BOSS" OF ROADS REPORTS

Interstate Commerce Body in Annual Review

Rate Slashes and Strikes Considered

Commission Complains of Budget Trimming

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—An increased scope of activities, due partially to enlarged responsibility put upon it by legislation of recent years, and partially to use of emergency powers required by industrial disturbances in recent months, were described today in the annual report of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Together with its usual work in regulation of railroad rates and service, the commission reviewed operations by which it assumed some degree of actual control of railroads during the summer period of emergency occasioned by the double strike in the coal mines and in the railroad shops; presented summaries of results in its supervision of railroad securities, and forecast the outlook for final conclusion of the protracted settlements of financial accounts between the government and the railroads arising out of the Federal control during the war.

Its major action in the rate fixing field, the report said, was the 10 per cent reduction in freight charges ordered last July.

TONNAGE INCREASES

"Manifestly, the existing rates are no longer interfering with the free flow of commerce as a whole," the report said. "The tonnage moving has been steadily increasing in recent months. Little opportunity has been afforded for determination of the effect of the reduced rate level upon the net earnings of carriers because of freight congestion and other abnormal conditions which have resulted from the coal strike, the shopmen's strike and other causes."

The report reviewed how the commission, to meet the "menacing domestic and industrial consequences of the strikes" had put priority orders into effect, and cooperated with the emergency organization of the Federal fuel distribution office. Though conditions of disrepair of equipment grew "most serious on some important trunk lines," before the strikes were out, it was said, the commission had not found it necessary to lay embargoes, or resort to the more extreme of measures which Congress legalized while the danger was greatest.

SUCCESS HOPED FOR

In its more traditional field, the regulation of rates and service, the commission was enabled during the year to reach a basis of cooperative understanding with State commissions and regulative bodies, the report said, and for the plan devised, hope of ultimate success was expressed. It had also moved to require experimental installation of automatic train control systems by a large number of railroads, for accident prevention, and had laid the basis for comparative studies of efficiency in railroad operation.

Control of railroad security issues, vested in the commission, resulted in its approval during the year of stocks and bonds having a total par valuation of $889,719,710, with some additional issues having no par value, or a value expressed in foreign currencies. The Illinois Central and Chesapeake and Ohio railroads, the commission said, had given "encouraging indications" in the field of railroad finance by demonstrating that new capital could be secured for their expansions by issuance of stock, instead of by increases of bond indebtedness.

Discussing the reimbursement of railroads which incurred losses in operations during the first six months after their return from government to private control, the report said that up to October 31, last, total payments of $466,073,045 on that account had been authorized from the Treasury.

MONEY STILL DUE

Sums still payable to the carriers, who were guaranteed reimbursement for such losses, the commission estimated at $85,926,000. The report also expressed the conclusion that the further loans to railroads, authorized by the Transportation Act, would not involve much money.

Reductions in its estimates for appropriations, made by the Bureau of the Budget, occasioned the commission to recommend formally to Congress that amounts be given it "sufficient to meet our absolutely necessary requirements." For the current fiscal year, its appropriations were $5,042,650, the commission said, and for next year, it would require $5,204,500, though the budget director had recommended that the amount be reduced to $4,494,500. With this smaller amount the report said, the commission would be "forced to defer or greatly restrict work."

Congress was further requested to enact legislation to make it criminal to bribe railroad employees to give preference in car supply; to increase use of all-steel passenger cars by railroads, and to clarify sections of the existing Transportation Act in relation to proposed consolidation of railroads.

Centenarians Miss Cole Who Has Busy Day

Ex-Senator Cornelius Cole wasn't able to be present yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Los Angeles Centenarians' Club, held in the First Methodist Church, Pasadena.

The Senator was in Santa Ana telling the realtors assembled in convention there the opportunities they might have had in 1849.

Sixty members and guests attended the meeting, however, and prominent Pasadena ministers gave addresses. Gen. J. S. Wilcox, 90 years old, of Hollywood, gave a talk about U. S. Grant, whose personal friend he was. G. M. Cole, 96 years old, of Pasadena, presided.

EUROPE NEARS TRADE CLIMAX

English Banker Sees Storm Clouds Forming

America Will Feel Effects of Readjustment

Export Trade Grows in Face of Economic Chaos

BY G. B. EVANS
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—When sterling moved up close to 4.57 today a thrill came over the wires, for it was thought that the rise meant an improvement in the European situation. A proper interpretation would no doubt have caused dejection, for the rise appears to have been due to the purchase of English bills by the holders of the moneys of the Central European countries, who desired to move their wealth to a safer place an? one where, under the worst conditions, there would be less likelihood of decline in value. This idea is confirmed by the recent strength of the moneys of those European countries which were not in the World War—Holland, Scandinavia, Switzerland—while marks were within an eighth of the lowest price ever quoted.

The disposition of Central Europe to move out of itself financially is very pronounced. Recent public statements, including one today by an officer of Barclay's Bank, indicate the feeling that the European storm will break very soon. It is the more alarming in advance of its arrival from the fact that the best of the authorities are unable to say just what its form will be. One might suggest that bankruptcy of governments will be followed by bankruptcy of individuals and corporations, but that is only one aspect. And whereas France will be able possibly to recover herself from financial devastation, it will take the world and time to cure Germany.

"SPLENDID ISOLATION"

In our isolation and, if you please, selfishness we cannot get a full impression of what this would mean. In this country we are concerning ourselves with the question whether this or that American stock will declare a dividend, whether the sales of steel will increase and business in general will score again, but we have no comprehension of the magnitude of any calamity befalling a third of the human race with its incidental effects on remote peoples. But when a Johnstown flood on a world scale starts on its course we probably shall not give a very important place in our thinking to the question whether we are going to have roast beef or pork and beans for dinner.

This on the assumption that there will be effects in the United States, which, indeed, would be mild in comparison with those at the principal scene of the disturbance. Is a portrayal of these things a work of the imagination, a disposition of observers to be sensational? If anybody takes that view it might be recommended that he carefully examine the facts. If a situation of a tenth of the menace of the present one existed in the United States we should have plenty of first-class American convulsions.

The financial conditions vastly overshadow any danger of war arising out of the Turkish affair, although war may come from that cause. It is announced today, by the way, that our Ambassador Child has told the Lausanne conference that this country expects to send its war vessels wherever Americans may be, which means that we shall insist on the freedom of the straits. This will help out in preventing the Turks from being too fresh.

STILL THEY BUY

In commercial Chicago all these things take a commercial form, sometimes seemingly in preference to thought of the world's weal. Talk with a packer and you are surprised at the amount of food we are sending across to people who are supposed not to have enough money to buy a dinner. Then you turn to the government statistics and find out that the aggregate of our exports of all articles is astonishingly large, considering all the circumstances. The totals for recent months are far ahead of those for the corresponding period of 1913, which indicates that the world grows in spite of its sins.

And we find a sense of the rewards of such virtue as we have when we talk with the Board of Trade folk regarding the help we have given to Europe. Last year the government appropriated $20,000,000 for relief of the sufferings in Russia and largely to this action is attributed a liberal advance in the price of corn, which has contributed to the prosperity of our farmers. There is hope in some quarters that similar action will be taken this year, that is, that our surplus shall be dumped into the digestive organs of the unfortunates of the world. There is a lot of disinterested generosity and charity in the hearts of Americans and if some incidental benefit accrues to them they will not turn their backs upon it. The agricultural bloc will take due notice. And if Europeans will make a rational start and help themselves, America will help them.

MOVEMENT IN LUMBER IS ACTIVE

Short Mill Stocks and Poor Transportation; Meats and Live Stock

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 7. — Strength continues to feature the lumber market in all its branches. Some building items have declined slightly, but much less than could be expected at this period. Building has held up remarkably throughout the country, especially on the east and west coasts and in the South. Great shortage of mill stocks and poor transportation facilities also influenced prices noticeably. Big business is looked for by the lumbermen in the spring and distributors are advising their customers to buy their spring needs early to avoid what American Lumberman designates "the coming great rush for lumber and the consequent intensified stock shortage and higher prices."

The mills as a rule are heavily overbooked, and some authorities claim orders booked now can not be shipped before spring. Industrial business is big, with railroads among the principal purchasers. Furniture, automobile and other hardwood consumers still have large requirements and keep the hardwood market strong. Low grades are having a good movement to box and crating manufacturers, and export trade holds up well, in hardwoods, the best for more than two years.

The Institute of American Meat Packers reports wholesale prices of all meats, except lamb, relatively low. Carcass beef at wholesale the last month averaged practically the same as a year ago and only slightly exceeded nine years ago. Wholesale pork loins declined 20 to 25 per cent and butts and fresh pork shoulders 10 to 15. Despite increased consumption, hams remain relatively low. A feature has been unusually heavy demand, both at home and abroad, for lard and cuts yielding high percentage of fat. Canada bought large quantities of barreled pork for lumber camps. Liverpool lard stocks November 1 were only 159 tons, against 1420 a month ago. Demand for fat backs from the continent has been heavy, but supplies are relatively short; also for neutral lard used in oleomargarine manufacture. England has bought lard liberally and a fair amount of all classes of meats.

Some orders from abroad for meats and lard for delivery in three to six months indicates confidence in values here.

Live-stock prices continued relatively high, native beeves averaging 33 per cent above a year ago, and hogs 15 per cent, although both were slightly under October. Sheep and lambs both averaged higher than October and greatly higher than a year ago, over 50 per cent for lambs and nearly 70 per cent for sheep. Cattle receipts were the heaviest in two years, while muttons ran light for this season. Wool trade was very active all month, with good demand at advancing prices, but hide business was marked by almost complete stoppage of trading and consequent increase in stocks.

THE COUNTRY OVER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PITTSBURG, Dec. 7. — Price apparently is not being considered where entertainment is concerned in this district, which is in the midst of a period of amusement spending. The city paid $11,000 to hear one opera. The leading theaters are sold out for at least two weeks in advance, and every seat for the big football game last week was sold.

The department stores are so crowded that entrance is difficult. Buying is on a liberal scale, and on a parity with the big moneyed war days. Buying is as heavy in apparel and other lines, especially gift goods. Dealers say women will not buy low-priced gowns, dresses or coats.

ST PAUL, Dec. 7.—Christmas shoppers are crowding the department stores of the Twin Cities and are buying more high-priced articles than last year. Merchants say the volume of holiday business will be in excess of last year's record. Employment has been at or above normal for many months and wage levels have been high. Buying power is strong as a consequence. Banks report that workers are drawing on their reserves for Yuletide purchases on a larger extent than last year.

In the country districts wholesalers and manufacturers report a heavy movement of goods. Shoes and winter garments are especially brisk. Candy factories continue to operate at capacity.

SEATTLE, Dec. 7.—With banners of evergreens, autumn leaves and autumn blooms covering the principal business streets, Seattle has begun its 1922 Christmas trade. The merchants in co-operation with the city authorities are giving wonderful electrical displays at night and the stores are crowded with eager buyers.

The October sales of department stores and furniture houses were well above last year. November showed a still greater improvement, with labor fully employed in building, lumber, manufacturing and shipping lines. Merchants therefore believe December business will break all records since the 1919 post-war boom.

DOBLE STEAM MOTOR CAR AT YOUR SERVICE

On Saturday, December 9th, 1922, the Doble Steam Motor Car Will Be at Your Service

From 10:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M. the Doble Car, now on exhibit at 828 South Broadway, Los Angeles, will be devoted to demonstrating to stockholders, prospective stockholders and others just what the car will do.

This will be your chance to ride in Abner Doble's master motor car—the most sensational motor car ever built because of its amazing simplicity, efficiency and performance.

I want you to ride in this motor car with

A HUNDRED THOUSAND MILE GUARANTEE

Then I'LL LEAVE IT TO YOU

After you ride in the Doble Steam Motor Car, pass your own judgment on it and I'll leave it to you if Abner Doble has not built the perfect automobile—a car that is in a class alone with the field all to itself.

I'll leave it to you if this car isn't the greatest achievement of this generation in the automotive field—an idea out of which the brain of Abner Doble has created the CAR OF THE AGE.

I'll leave it to you if the huge profit possibilities in manufacturing and selling a car possessing so many distinctive features are not instantly apparent and truly amazing.

I'll leave it to you if these possibilities do not open up to your ambition and conception vistas which spread out before you in a veritable panorama of unparalleled opportunity, sensational success and huge investment profits.

I'll leave it to you if the manufacture and sale of this superb motor car does not offer the opportunity to make profits for shareholders equal to the greatest profits that have ever been made in the motor car industry of America.

I'll leave it to you if the huge volume of business in sight for DOBLE STEAM CARS—based on present demand and also on the actual experience of the Doble Detroit Steam Motors Company in 1917, when it received orders for 11,000 cars within 90 days—is not a solid foundation on which to build confidence in the unusually large profits which are predicted for this outstanding and progressive organization.

I'll leave it to you if stock in SUCH an organization is not the ONE INVESTMENT FOR YOU and every other person whose plans for the future include an INCREASE IN INCOME.

I'll leave it to you if such a combination of remarkable circumstances is not conclusive reason for your becoming associated with this organization.

After you ride in this master motor car I'll leave it to you if you can AFFORD NOT TO buy Doble stock when it has such huge profit possibilities.

I'll leave it to you, but I tell you that I am firmly convinced and earnestly believe that the stock of the Doble Steam Motors Corporation at $12.50 per share is the greatest investment opportunity that you will ever have. And I tell you frankly that you should go to the Doble salesroom NOW and place your order for Doble stock today.

Salesroom open from 10:00 A. M. to 10:00 P. M.
Closed Sunday

IMMIGRATION BIG PROBLEM

Present Law Too Severe to Suit Operatives

Not Enough Linen Collar Jobs to Go Around

Need of Man Power Felt by Industrial Centers

BY RICHARD SPILLANE
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 7. — There are some who urge the maintenance of present restrictions on immigration. Rigid restrictions honestly enforced are necessary, but it is questionable whether the present law does not do more harm than good.

In the twelve years immediately preceding the war immigration averaged approximately 1,000,000 a year. In the first year under the present law the arrivals were 309,556 and the departures 198,712. This left a net increase of population by immigration of 110,844.

But 104,326 of these 110,844 were females.

The nation today knows scarcity of labor in various departments and the outlook that it will get aggravatingly and rapidly worse. Agricultural labor has not been plentiful for years. Without wide use of the tractor and other labor-saving devices it would be impossible to raise the wheat, corn, oats, meats, fruits and other products needed to feed America and part of Europe.

The young American is not going back to the farm but, rather, away from it. Where is farm labor to be recruited? The farm must flourish or the nation suffers.

Anthracite operators confess they do not know where additional miners are to be obtained. The native-born balk at mine work. Miners are not coming here. The Pennsylvania laws make it illegal for anyone except with certain experience to mine coal. Sons of anthracite miners have no inclination to follow their fathers in the mines.

A real monopoly sustained by legislation enactment is developing rapidly in hard coal labor.

LABOR SHORTAGE

Large employers of skilled and common labor say they are far more worried over the common labor outlook than the skilled and unless relief is provided they predict an upset in industry that will throw many skilled workers out of employment and disturb the whole business situation of America seriously.

Baldly and bluntly the employers say:

"You cannot have prosperity without common labor—plenty of it.

"You're shutting common labor out of this country and expect to profit by it. In this you are foolish. It can't be done.

"Common labor is no less a cog in the great wheel of industry than is skilled labor. One is necessary to the other. Both are necessary to all industry. Skilled labor is just as dependent in a way on common labor as common labor is on skilled.

"All labor cannot be skilled. The inclination of the American born is too much toward linen collar jobs. But the bare-arm and grimy work has to be done or there'll be no linen collar jobs. Now, when we won't do it ourselves, are we going to have it done if we shut the gates on those who have been the suppliers of this labor to

IRREGULAR TRADING PREVAILS IN COTTON

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The cotton futures list was narrowly irregular in quiet trading today. The market displayed a fair amount of resistance to renewed local liquidation and pressure from the South and Liverpool. Opening at a slight decline, the list got a little increased pressure and prices went 15 to 19 points lower. Scattered demand on the part of commission houses, Wall street and spot interests brought about a rally to a level a few points better than Wednesday's close. Demand was somewhat irregular in the afternoon and the list rose 20 to 25 points over the day's low spots with fresh support from Wall street and scattered outside demand. Continuous rise in tone in the last hour, authorship of which was credited to the trade, the market closed 10 to 12 points net higher.

Spot cotton quiet, 19 points advance, 24.85 for middling upland.

Liverpool market: Cotton, 24.70, 10 points advance; New Orleans, 24.85, unchanged; Liverpool, 24.60, 4 points advance; Memphis 23.65, unchanged; Houston 24.65, 10 points advance; Augusta 24.60, unchanged.

BUSINESS NEWS

The New Records for Los Angeles; Investment Business Heavy; Great Travelers

Los Angeles investment houses have either underwritten or participated in a total of $745,686,000 of public utility and industrial bonds and preferred stocks since the first of the year, a total that constitutes a record in the financial history of this city. Although this total does not include the appreciable amount of government and municipal bonds sold, it affords illuminating evidence of the readiness with which Los Angeles investors absorb securities, and substantiates the claim that this city is the mecca of investment buyers.

Twenty-one western utility securities for an aggregate amount of $83,294,000 were offered. Such representative issues as Southern California Edison general and refunding 5's, Los Angeles Gas and Electric 6½'s and 6's and Pacific Gas and Electric 6's were largely distributed here. National public utility issues sold here were eleven in number and totaled $105,462,000. They included such issues as Louisville Gas and Electric debenture 6's, Southern Railway equipment 6's and Tennessee Electric Power Company first and refunding 6's.

Seventeen national industrials were distributed here, amounting to $803,500,000. Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation first lien collateral 7's, Virginia-Carolina Chemical fifteen year 7½'s and Cudahy Packing first mortgage 5's are representative of the list. Western industrials numbered seventeen and totaled $45,780,000. The list included Union Oil of California 6's, Holly Sugar 7's, Sperry Flour first mortgage 6's, and Fifth Street Building 6's.

Western irrigation bonds amounted to $9,650,000 and were five in number. The Merced Irrigation District 5½'s, the Yuma county, Arizona 5½'s and the Imperial Irrigation District, fourth issue 6's were the important issues.

The majority of the issues carried either a 5½ or 6 per cent rate, with some written at 7 and 8 per cent.

The amount and description of the public utility and industrial issues underwritten or participated in by Los Angeles investment houses since January 1 as compiled by Blyth, Witter and Company, follows:

GREAT TRAVELERS

Travelers' checks sold in Los Angeles for the first nine months of this year were 30 per cent greater than for the same period of 1921, according to the records of the American Express Company, and is a performance that places this city third in the United States. For two months Los Angeles held second place in the total amount of checks sold, but for the nine months, New York won first place, Chicago second and Los Angeles third. In point of net earnings from business operations the travel department of the local office has held first place for four months in the year.

Los Angeles residents have done more foreign travel this season than ever before as is shown by the amount of travelers' checks sold for use abroad. In the latest world tour under the direction of the American Express Company, Los Angeles travelers took 240 per cent more passages than the quota assigned to the local office, which is a total in excess of the amounts sold by the remainder of the Pacific Coast cities. In the competition held between the cities of the United States for the tour, salesmen from the local office of the company won first honors.

Travel to points in the United States has also been unprecedented this year, particularly in the months of July, August and September. European travel is usually the heaviest in May and June, but this season it was more evenly distributed throughout the year. Mediterranean travel will be popular this month.

Because of the importance of tourist travel from this city, the American Express Company expects some of the large steamship lines to make Los Angeles Harbor a port of call next year.

NEW BANK HOME

What is said to be one of the most attractive and perfectly equipped country banking rooms in the country is to opened tomorrow by the National Bank of Hermosa Beach. The new institution is capitalized at $50,000. E. J. Young is president; Hugh W. Moran, vice-president, and James W. Leech, vice-president and cashier. The president declares that the policy of the bank is to be constructive and progressive and to fittingly represent the growing district wherein in it is located. The public will be welcomed at the opening and initial depositors will receive souvenirs.

MERGER TALK

Reports continue to be received of an impending merger of the Pacific Gas and the Great Western Power companies. Private advices to San Francisco yesterday stated that Wigginton E. Creed, president of the Pacific Gas, and Mortimer Fleischhaker of the Great Western have been in conference for a week in New York, but that pending agreement upon some of the points at issue the deal is deadlocked.

BUTTER MARKET

Trading in the butter market is on a cautious plane, although the statistical position of the market is satisfactory, according to State Department of Agriculture reports. The poor keeping quality of fresh arrivals, together with the feeling that prices might not go much higher, has made receivers anxious to keep goods moving. For the same reason, buyers are careful to operate on as small stocks as possible.

Decrease in consumption, due to the present price level, has contributed to the nervousness evidenced by buyers, and they are turning from fresh to storage butter to some extent. Retailers are also complaining of a much lighter demand as a result of high prices.

COST OF LIVING

Cost of living in Japan as indicated by the index numbers of average monthly wholesale prices in Tokio decreased about 1¼ per cent during October, which was a continuance of the trend of the two previous months. The downward course of rice prices, caused by a large crop, is principally responsible for the drop in the cost of living, as rice is the most important article of food of the Japanese. The decline in rice prices has brought about a slight sympathetic recession in other commodity prices, al-

MARKET REVIEWS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—The story of the advance in stocks, in foreign exchange and in most of the Liberty bonds—was repeated today, although at a slackened pace of recovery and with some incidental reaction. In the news of the day there was little to stimulate either advance or decline in financial markets; yet the news of a routine character was interesting. It included the final summary of railway earnings in October, showing net results, despite the large gross revenue, some $20,000,000 below those of October, 1921, with a percentage of property valuation of 4.05 as against 5.4 in the same month of last year. This is close to the ratio of July and August and less than in some other months of 1922.

It was not so easy to interpret the weekly Federal Reserve report. Usually both rediscounts and note circulation have decreased in the first weeks of December, but in the last week the increase of rediscounts has been $25,000,000 and of circulation $31,000,000 That the entire loan expansion was accounted for by the New York Federal Reserve Bank and the entire addition to outstanding notes by other reserve banks does not clear up the showing. It is accompanied by a decrease for the week of $27,000,000 in the system's gold reserve, making shrinkage of $44,000,000 during the eight weeks since the maximum was reached on October 11. Since the gold exports to Canada in this period have been more than offset by the gold imports and new production, this decrease means gold certificates put into general circulation. The decrease, however, still leaves an aggregate surplus reserve of very nearly 100 per cent in the Federal banks.

On the stock exchange there were both net advances and net declines today; but the advances were considerably in the majority and some of them ran to a point or more.

In the day's further advance of all European exchange rates sterling went to $4.57 1-8, as against a previous high level, reached the day before, of $4.56 3-4. The Stockholm rate touched 27 cents again (par being 26 7-8) and the Amsterdam rate, at 39.93 cents, went beyond the season's previous highest; discount from the parity of 40 1-4 being no greater than used to be reached in a normal pre-war autumn.

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—The dividend epidemic, both stock and cash, continued to spread today. It manifested itself not only in announcements by industrial corporations, but by banking institutions.

The Continental Can Company announced a plan to have its stockholders vote on December 29 changing the common stock from 150,000 shares of $100 par value to 500,000 shares of no par value value and giving two and two-third shares of new stock for each share now held. The directors declared a dividend of 75 cents on the new stock, if approved, payable February 15 to stock of record February 5. It was stated, however, that this dividend is not to be regarded as a quarterly payment. It is equivalent to $2 on the old stock. The last common stock dividend paid was $1.75 quarterly on July 1, 1921.

The Paige-Detroit Motor Company declared a 100 per cent stock dividend, payable December 29 to stock of record December 22; also a cash dividend of 3 per cent, payable January 2 to stock of record December 15. The common stock now outstanding amounts to $2,000,000, a 33 1-3 per cent stock dividend being declared in May, 1920, and a 100 per cent stock dividend was distributed in 1915. Dividends paid on the common stock this year totaled 13 per cent.

Stockholders of the Crescent Pipe Line Company, a Standard Oil unit, will vote on February 5 on reducing the capital stock from $3,000,000 to $1,500,000, being a reduction of $25 a share on the 60,000 shares outstanding. It also is proposed to change the par value of the shares into which the capital stock is to be converted from $50 to $25.

The R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company declared a dividend of 75 per cent on the common stock, payable January 1. This is the same quarterly dividend that prevailed before the declaration of a 33 1-3 per cent stock dividend recently. The Beechnut Packing Company declared an extra dividend of 48 cents on the common stock, payable December 26 to stock of record December 16. The stock has been paying 4 cents.

IN BANKRUPTCY COURT

J. H. Wittmeyer, an electrician of Glendale, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the United States District Court yesterday, giving his debts as $21,079.58, and his assets as $23,201. Isadore Lax, a druggist, filed a similar petition. Liabilities are given as $1379.14; assets nothing.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. — Stock prices enjoyed another vigorous advance in the early part of today's session but the rapidity of the rise induced considerable profit taking and short selling in later dealings with the result that closing prices were irregular but mainly higher.

While dealings were on a more extensive basis than earlier in the week, trading was almost entirely in the hands of professionals. News reports had little effect on the course of prices but sentiment no doubt was favorably affected by the report of Secretary Mellon, which was generally regarded as a bullish factor; the further strength of sterling exchange; increased pig-iron production; higher car loadings and the better tone of the latest earnings statements of industrial companies.

High priced dividend-paying shares provided the most spectacular gains, May Department Stores being pushed up more than 10 points to 174 3-4, a new high record for the year, and Mackay Companies established a new peak price at 113 1-4, then falling back at the close to 112½, where it represented a net gain of 5½ on the day. Gains of 3½ to 8 points also were made by Kresge, Woolworth, Tidewater Oil and Piggly Wiggly.

Railroad shares again lagged behind the rest of the list. Great Northern preferred had a net loss of 1 3-8 on the day. Northern Pacific dropped to 75 1-4, but closed at 75½, the best price of the day and 1-4 above last night's final figure. Other changes in the rail group were unimportant.

Oils were conspicuously strong in the early part of the session, Standard Oil of New Jersey crossing 302, Pan-American A touching 100 7-8, the B 98 3-4 and Mexican Petroleum 241, but these gains were either materially reduced or wiped out by the closing realizing sales. New Jersey closed at 298½, up 1; Pan-American A at 98 1-4, off 1½; the B at 93, off 1 1-4, and Mexican Petroleum at 238½, up ½. Producers and Refiners and Cosden offered better resistance, the former closing at a net gain of 3 1-4, and the latter at a net gain of 1¼.

Tobacco Products A improved ¾ on reports of higher earnings, other tobaccos improving in sympathy. U. S. Industrial Alcohol reached 68½ on reports of a diminished floating supply of the product, and fell back later to 63 3-4, or up 3-4 on the day. Announcement of higher tube prices by the B. F. Goodrich Company found reflection in a 2 1-4 point gain in the common and 4 3-4 in the preferred.

Studebaker was again active, touching 133½, or 1¾ point above its recent low, but dropping to 130½, off ½ on the day at the close. Hudson Motors established a new peak price at 24 7-8. Baldwin, United States Steel and Corn Products were quite active but only fractionally higher on the day.

Call money held at 5 per cent throughout the day. The time money and commercial paper markets were quiet with no change in rates.

More new high records for the day were made in the foreign-exchange market by sterling at $4.57 1-8; Dutch guilders at 39.34 cents, and Indian rupees at 3.35 cents, but all reacted slightly at the close. French checks got above 7 cents again and the Canadian dollar, after holding around par for a week, went to a discount of 1-64 of a cent.

Day's total sales, 958,000 shares. Twenty industrials averaged 97.10; net loss, .35. High 1922, 105.43; low, 73.59. Twenty railroads averaged 84.43. Net loss .05. High 1922, 93.09; low, 74.43.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Another new high was registered by United States Royalties yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange, the stock mounting to 60 cents in the morning session, but later sold down to a close at 56, 3 cents above the previous day's price. Union Oil Associates finished the day at 187 3-4, off 1-4 from Wednesday. Union of California was unchanged at 105 and General Petroleum was quoted at 28, a gain of ½. Huntington Central sold at 3 cents.

Tellurides recovered somewhat from the loss taken the previous day, and acquired 3 cents, closing at 30. Oatman United at 13½ was off ½ cent and Virginia Louise was firm at 11½. Tom Reed closed at 80.

Bank stocks were in demand in the industrial list. Merchants' National sold at 190, up 5 points from the previous closing bid and Farmers' and Merchants' National increased its market quotation 2½. Security Trust and Savings was taken at 290. Southern California Edison common in the public utility group closed 1-4 off at 104, and Goodyear Tire & Rubber was unchanged at 75.

us from the early days of our history?

NEED OF MAN POWER

"We are short of common labor everywhere. The railroads are skirmishing up and down the land for labor—the labor that mends the tracks and keeps the road-way safe.

"We are short of common labor in the steel mills, the foundries, the pits.

"We are short of common labor in every mill center of New England.

"We are short of carters, haulers, garbage gatherers, street cleaners, sewer diggers, ore handlers, sand hogs, lumber jacks, etc.

"There is not so much a shortage of labor as of willingness to do honest, hard, common labor.

"It is a bad sign.

"And it is a bit of a folly to shut the gate against our one source of supply, seeing we are unwilling to supply ourselves."

Are the big employers right? If they are it would seem we are in for a jolt.

LONDON MARKET

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Dec. 7.—The stock exchange continued inactive. British funds on the gilt-edge market were inclined to ease, but some support was given to foreign bonds. Home rails were brighter, dollar rails steady and foreign rails unchanged. Industrials were given some support, and iron, steel and engineering shares were in demand. Oils were firmer. Marine: Rapid, 22 8-16; Shells, 23½; Royal Dutch, 55. Africa mines improved and American issues were prominent.

There was only a small demand for bankers' credits in London's street and overnight money went as low as 1 per cent. Futures being reported at 1¾ per cent. Bar silver was 31⅞ and 31⅝ for spot and forward delivery. Foreign exchanges: New York, 4.57½; Paris, 84.75; Berlin, 37.500.

DIVIDEND ACTIONS

[By Hirsh, Wilzer & Co. News Service.]

Lone-Star Gas Company declared extra dividend of 1 per cent on common stock.

Michigan Stamping Company declared extra dividend of 1 per cent on common.

Magnolia Petroleum Company declared a split dividend of 50 per cent.

WALL STREET NEWS

BY MONITOR
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1922, Public Ledger.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7. — Wall street is once more working up its enthusiasm over the prospects of a capital readjustment by American Ice when directors meet around the end of December, and today's advance of nearly 5 points in this stock was due to a renewal of reports of this kind. Just previous to other meetings this year it was found fairly easy to develop a following for American Ice on reports of this nature, but in view of the prevalence of the stock dividend and capital readjustment fever, these rumors are receiving more than the usual credence.

Industrial Alcohol is joining the group of stocks upon which a resumption of dividends may be expected, although traders in close touch with this issue do not anticipate any such action until well into next year. Business of the company is unusually good, and it is expected that December sales will exceed the November total, which was the largest for any month of the post-war period.

Despite the fact that leading tire companies are not in the market for raw material, the crude rubber market is holding firm at 27 cents per pound. While this price may be explained in part by speculative activity, the small interest at present displayed by consumers is attributed to the fact that inventory time is close at hand and that the large companies are not inclined to add to stocks until this is past.

In local quarters, it is believed that a declaration of a $4 annual dividend basis on both the common and preferred stocks of Electric Storage battery does not complete the company's program for the year. It is said that there is more than a bare possibility of a stock dividend of about 3 per cent in the near future—this report being bolstered to some extent by the fact that less than 800,000 shares are outstanding of the total of 1,500,000 shares authorized.

The market is again meeting with reports that Producers and Refiners is negotiating seriously with prominent oil companies in the Wyoming field, and that acquisition of these properties would make the company one of the largest of the independent producers. These reports were responsible for today's run-up in the stock although at the same time the market was encouraged by reports that earnings at present were running at the rate of $10 per share per year.

The special meeting of Crescent Pipe Line stockholders called for Feb. 15 is rather interesting in view of the fact that a proposal to reduce capital stock from $3,000,000 to $1,500,000, and also cut par value from $50 to $25 will be offered.

France is taking the lead among foreign buyers of American copper, although demand from other European countries is better. At the same time, domestic sales are also showing real improvement, and the market had firmed up on a basis of 15 cents per pound. Electrolytic is offering at this price for entire first quarter delivery, but lead is only available for December and the first two months of 1923.

May Department Stores stockholders have adopted the resolutions calling for an increase in capital stock from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000, and the doubling of outstanding stock by reduction in par value from $100 to $50 per share. Following this, directors of the company declared a stock dividend of 20 per cent as well as a quarterly dividend of 2½ per cent on the common.

Despite the general impression that the motor industry had reached its peak and could be expected to continue more or less dormant until next spring, turnover of the leading companies continues abnormally heavy, and November output established a new high record with 320,000 cars and trucks produced. Incidentally this makes the ninth consecutive month in which more than 300,000 cars have been produced. November business was so heavy that had it not been for the fact that election day and Thanksgiving day cut down production, it is generally believed that the month would have equalled the October production figure. Sales by the Ford company alone were 106,000 cars.

Final figures for October show ing net operating income of all of the class one roads in the country are better than generally expected. The total of $85,234,000 is pretty near $2,000,000 above the estimate recently made by the railroad men in touch with the national railroad situation. A year ago October earnings crossed the $100,000,000 mark, but this year the roads still had some strike expenses to charge off and in addition were making every effort to catch up with deferred maintenance and new equipment requirements. With strike expenditures practically charged off by now it is generally assumed that November earnings will be very good as gross traffic is holding up well.

METAL MARKETS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLEVELAND, Dec. 7.—The Daily Metal Trade today says: "Lower prices for pig iron still made in Pittsburg district. As Pittsburg sheet maker has bought tonnage of pig iron at $25 a ton, furnace. Prices on all grades are $1 a ton lower than a week ago. Feeling in trade is that lower prices will strengthen the market. The low Buffalo price of $26, furnace, has caused flurries of buying in New England. The Carnegie Steel Company announces $36.50 as its sheet bar price for the first quarter of 1923, which approximates the market on billets and slabs. Heavy business in reinforcing bars is in prospect in Chicago district. Concrete bar orders in Pittsburg are fair and reinforcing bars are active in Buffalo district. Export business is dominating the sheet market."

As He Was, So Will the Firm that He Founded Ever Be, as We "Carry On"

A TRIBUTE
—by—
WALT KEESHEN
(Owner and publisher of the Texas Oil Boys)

Fred B. Foster is off on the long journey.

His friends by thousands mourn his loss with aching hearts, for he was a MAN in every sense. Square as a die; faithful to his trusts; one who commanded the love of all.

I have known Fred [and everyone knew him as Fred] since first he started operating in Texas. I have seen him tried as by fire as he made his way step by step up the difficult ladder of success. I have seen him when Fate frowned upon him, only to be answered with a smile that knew no defeat.

I have seen him as he began to forge ahead, but success was unable to spoil his disposition.

I have been the recipient of his favors, and remember with what perfect tact he was able to give in such a manner that the one receiving was relieved of all embarrassment.

I have seen him in his home life, the perfect husband of his wife, the ideal host to their guests.

In short, Fred B. Foster stood the acid test as a man, as a friend, as the head of a home, as a calm, efficient business executive.

His attorney tells me that since he began to succeed, he has loaned not less than $20,000 to his friends without security of any kind, such was his unbounded faith in mankind.

What an inspiration was his life to all of us, and to those who knew him intimately comes a feeling of thankfulness that it was our good fortune to have known such a man.

Fred is gone and as we pause to drop one tear to his memory, we cannot but feel that the courage and faith inspired by this man's example will continue to exist as his everlasting monument!

"TELL ME"

"What's No. 2 producing now?"

"Why, she's standing up steady at better than 2200 barrels."

"Well, that's a pretty nice well."

"Yes; she's a good well, all right, but eventually I'll run her on down to the big Meyer sand 350 feet further and when I do I'm betting she'll tip the scales at better than 10,000 barrels a day of that 35 gravity stuff."

"How are you getting along on No. 1?"

"Oh, we're getting along fine. We drilling her deeper in the Bell sand. She should come back around 2500 barrels pretty soon now. The weather has been so rotten it's held us up a little."

"And No. 4. You think she's all right?"

"You tell the whole world I said she's all right. I'm mighty close to the grease right now over there."

"You bet your dough on my judgment, didn't you? Well, sit in the boat. I'll show you I know how to pick 'em."

Heavy Storms Delay Harvest in Argentina

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—Torrential rains were reported to have fallen in parts of Argentina and delayed harvest and damaged the quality of the new wheat crop, but the market while showing a firm undertone ran into free selling around 1.17 for May and at the last was up only ¼@½ for the day. Trade was on a large scale, with December leading, while sales were ¼@⅝ higher and rye unchanged to ⅛c higher.

Liverpool wheat prices were 1¾d lower at the opening on prospects of large Argentine clearances for the week and a slow milling demand, but closed strong with December 8/7 bought and the deferred futures up ¼@½d. Local traders sold at the start, but their offerings were absorbed by strong commission houses, part of which was attributed to the eastern seaboard.

At 1.17 for May there was free selling by local houses and hedges were quickly filled up. Sentiment was somewhat mixed with a disposition shown to keep some funds in wheat on any ...ges regardless of the news. Export business ...as fair and included 750,000 bushels hard winter ...m the Gulf at 4c over December, and 8 ...ds sold of 1,000 bushels to Gulf exporters. Cash premiums here were ¼@⅝c higher on hard winter.

December corn acted a little tight and while selling even with the May early closed 1½c over that delivery. During forenoon the day was largely of a local character with the strength in May due to trade indications from Argentina. Estimated farmers had ceased selling where 1650 were reduced below 40c at country loading points. Export demand was slow. No change was shown in the basis on spot, with nominal 7c over May. Argentine exports for the week are estimated at 4,000,000 bushels, against 3,832,000 bushels last year. Primary stocks decreased 3,832,000 bushels last week, leaving only to estimated at 76,000 bushels, or 12,000,000 bushels less than last year.

Cash sold within narrow limits and in the main reflected the action of the grain. Demand to shipping channels remains fair. Receipts, 120 cars.

Rye showed a heavy undertone, and while there was fair buying credited to commission houses it was not aggressive. Export demand continues with sales of the week estimated at 150,000 to 200,000 bushels. Primary stocks decreased a total of 288,000 bushels in addition. The two days' business reported 37 cash.

PRODUCE MARKET

Yesterday's trading was quiet with liberal supplies in most lines. Holdings of apples and potatoes on track continue heavy, but are clearing up slowly. Beans and peas are steady on account of the rain and are higher. Grapes are selling slowly and the demand for apples and citrus fruits is fair. Rundled and packed vegetables are in liberal supply. Good tomatoes are scarce, but much poor stock in the market is selling at a heavy discount.

Other packers	41	...	...	5
Feeders	...	...	111	...
Totals	597	375	111	937

Cattle—Receipts Thursday were light and the market was firm on all grades. No strictly good steers were offered. A load of medium to good Montana steers, averaging 1255 pounds, brought 7.75. Two loads of fairly steady fed New Mexico sold to a Kern county feeder at 6.75. These averaged 611 pounds. Common Montana beef steers went at 6.50, with one cut at 6.00. A good share of the steers were on the feeder order and half not sold up to 7 o'clock. Good Montana cows went at 5.50, with others at 4.50@4.85. Common brought 3.50@3.75.

Calves—Market was dull and clearance poor.

Hogs—The hog market was dull. No fresh receipts, but there were 1643 carried over from earlier in the week. Most of these were sold up to a late hour, with the exception of feeder pigs at 6.25.

Sheep and Lambs—No choice fat lambs were included in the run. The market had a firm tone. A part load of 75-pound Imperial county feeders went to a local packer at 10.50, and good 115-pound ewes brought 6.25.

GADSKI ROW UP TO DAUGHERTY

Attorney-General Asked as to War Record

Legion Committee Agrees to Abide by Reply

Singer Positive She Will be Cleared of Charge

The fight to prevent Mme. Johanna Gadski from appearing here Monday night took a new angle yesterday afternoon when F. J. Zeehandelaar, representing the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, telegraphed to Atty.-Gen. Daugherty at Washington for information concerning Mme. Gadski's activities during the war.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon, Sherman Danby, Mme. Gadski's manager, told a committee of American Legion members, headed by Snapper Ingra, that if Daugherty's reply indicated overt acts or pro-German sympathies on Mme. Gadski's part, her engagement Monday night would be canceled.

AGREEMENT REACHED

The committee agreed that if the singer was given a clean bill of health by the Department of Justice they would retract any charges they have made and do all in their power to help make her engagement a success.

Danby stated last night that Mme. Gadski had informed him by telephone from Oakland that if the Department of Justice wired unfavorably concerning her, she would not only cancel her engagement here, but would never appear in public again.

She declared that she had no doubt as to the outcome, for several months ago she asked for and received from the Department of Justice a statement clearing her of any charges of pro-Germanism.

The telegram sent by the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association follows:

MESSAGE TO DAUGHERTY

"Atty.-Gen. H. M. Daugherty, Washington, D. C.

"Mme. Johanna Gadski is booked to appear at a public concert in this city next Monday night. Ex-service men who took part in the late war strenuously object to her appearing in public because of charges circulated that her record all through and during the war was not one entitling her to the support of true Americans.

"If by any act of hers she has shown any alliance with our enemies she will not be permitted to appear. We request in justice to Mme. Gadski and to save the reputation of this community and to the good will toward the ex-service men that you will kindly give us the desired information immediately by wire at our expense.

"Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, by F. J. Zeehandelaar."

WILLS ARE CONTESTED IN COURT

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl Says Man Influenced Her Late Friend

Two wills executed by Timothy Shanahan, corral boss for the city, are offered for probate in Judge Hahn's court and both are being contested. The value of the property at stake approximates $6000.

A will dated Nov. 22, 1919, named Miss Louisa Laws, daughter of W. H. Laws, chief field deputy in the office of the City Engineer, as sole beneficiary. Miss Laws, who is 16 years of age, and crippled, was very dear to the heart of Mr. Shanahan. It was said in the will she was made the heir out of regard and affection for her, and in appreciation of many kindacts rendered

GREEN GOBS TO GET SEASONING

Trio of Selected Officers Are Ordered Here

Will Make Recruits Old Salts in Ninety Days

Ensigns Assigned to S Type Submarines

Bluejackets on the superdreadnaught Pennsylvania who still carry their first sea-going haircut are going to be thoroughly schooled and drilled during the Panama cruise. Three lieutenants from the training stations at Mare Island and Great Lakes, Illinois, have just been ordered to the Pennsylvania for duty.

They are Lieuts. M. C. Erwin, A. G. Leonard and Quintus R. Thomson, and each officer is an expert in the science of making a sailor in three months from a youngster from Oshkosh or Mud Springs. The trio have made several remarkable records in the instruction of recruits during the last two years at Great Lakes and Mare Island.

The two new divisions of monster S-type submarines which are coming to the Los Angeles Harbor base also get a number of new ensigns by recent Navy orders. They are coming from the base at New London, Ct., and will be assigned as follows:

William H. Dillon, S-29; James H. Foskett, S-32; Allen B. Fowler, S-26; Thaddeus B. Hopper, S-31; Julius C. Kinsley, S-35; Joseph W. McVeil, S-37; Christopher Noble, S-34; Rudolph Ozmer, S-35; William F. Ramsey, S-33 and Robert H. Smith, S-36.

In charge of Lieut.-Commander Frederick C. Sherman, the eight S-type submarines of operative division nine arrived at Mare Island late yesterday for overhaul. They will return to Los Angeles late this month in convoy of the tender Camden, ready for their long run to Panama with the Pacific Fleet in February.

WHO'S LOST TEXAN, FAT AND YOUNG?

Man Weighing 310 Pounds Wanders Into Police Station; Seks Wife

What young woman in Los Angeles has lost 310 pounds recently?

The police of the University Station would like to know. They have gained that much weight and do not know just how to reduce themselves.

J. H. Allen of Houston, Tex., is the name of the incumbrance. He is 24 years old, and wears a red sweater, blue overalls, a striped shirt and a gray cap. He wandered into the police station yesterday and said he did not know where he was or where he had been, except that he came from Houston two days ago with his wife and that they were stopping somewhere in Los Angeles.

"I went out for a walk," he said, "got turned around, and here I am."

Allen said he couldn't read or write, as he had only two days' schooling in his life, having had to go to work to support his mother; so he couldn't even guess the street or number.

"My wife's name is Rola," he said, or at least it sounded like that. "How do you spell it?" asked the desk sergeant. "I can't," Allen replied.

Detective Sergeants Bartley and Allen are looking for the woman who has suffered such a great loss and incidentally to discover if the 310-pound Texan may not be a bit of motion-picture publicity. If the latter, they say, there will be somebody arrested.

NEW SHIP BUREAU TO OPEN HERE

Trade Development Forces Struthers & Barry to Form Organization

Struthers & Barry, Inc., operating a freight fleet to the Orient direct from Los Angeles, will open a bureau here January 1, Harry Struthers said yesterday. Mr. Struthers, head of Struthers & Barry, and one of the biggest figures in the American merchant marine, came down from San Francisco on the liner Yale yesterday.

He held a conference with L. B. Jones, who has been appointed head of the local offices, relative to the establishment of the bureau here and will return to San Francisco tonight. Mr. Jones's appointment comes as a result of the visit here recently of Fred Barry, junior member of the shipping firm.

Mr. Jones is at present associated with D. W. Ferguson, local shipping agent. He has a complete understanding of shipping and trade conditions in the Orient. After the close of the World War he was traveling representative in the Far East for the Los Angeles Pacific Navigation Company.

The phenomenal growth of trade with the Orient, both inbound and outbound, of Southern California has necessitated the establishment of a separate organization at Los Angeles, Mr. Struthers said.

NOTICIAS MUNDIALES DE ULTIMA HORA

En obsequio a nuestros numerosos amigos de habla española, y para beneficio de los lectores americanos del Times que estudian esa lengua, publicamos diariamente esta columna en castellano, con un extracto de las más importantes noticias de última hora.

Un conocimiento práctico del español es de grandísima utilidad en este país, especialmente en el suroeste: como lo demuestra el hecho de que en Los Angeles solamente, hay más de 15,000 personas que estudian ese idioma con profesores oficiales o particulares. Para esos estudiantes será un buen ejercicio leer todos los días esta sección, donde encontrarán las palabras y frases mas usuales del lenguaje español.

Sigue el Frío en el Noroeste

No hubo alivio para el Noroeste, ni se modificaron sus temperaturas vecinas al cero, al extenderse gradualmente la onda fría rumbo al sur, trayendo a la costa del Pacífico el primer toque verdaderamente invernal, que se extendió casi hasta la frontera mexicana.

En tanto que en el noroeste seguian todavía las temperaturas inferiores a cero, los termómetros no bajaron aquí anoche tanto como lo habían hecho previamente. Helena, y Havre, Montana, registraron respectivamente temperaturas de seis y dos grados bajo cero.

La Comisión Comercial Sale de México

CIUDAD DE MEXICO, dbre. 7. La Comisión especial del Congreso Comercial del Sur, que ha estado estudiando el estado de los negocios en México, salió hoy para Washington. La misión fué recibida por el Presidente Obregón y por varios miembros de su Consejo de ministros. Dícese que la delegación consiguió arreglar una combinación de tarifas ferrocarrileras y marítimas entre los Estados Unidos y México.

NOTAS LOCALES

Unen sus Fuerzas en México

El Sheriff Traeger y el Subsheriff Biscailuz juntaron ayer, ya tarde, sus fuerzas en Tijuana, para organizar una nueva persecución contra Clara Phillips, dirigidos por informes que se creen plausibles acerca del lugar donde se oculta dicha señora.

El somatén del Sheriff regresó después de una expedición infructuosa al rancho de Badillo, llamado Montecosta, que se halla como a quince millas de San Diego. Esta fué parte de una investigación de las supuestas relaciones amistosas de Ed T. Johnson (Diente de Oro) con Clara, en la Cárcel del Condado.

El Sheriff telefoneó a Gene Biscailuz que ordenara la libertad de Johnson. Biscailuz comunicó al Sheriff que, ya a punto de salir de Tijuana, había recibido nuevos e importantes datos.

El Heroismo de una Muchacha Salva a Muchos en un Incendio

Ayer tarde se declaró un incendio en el subterráneo de la Crane Plumbing Company, Calle Tercera Este, 321, y de resultas de él, un hombre salió gravemente quemado, otros dos se sofocaron, y 250 empleados y empleadas de la referida compañía fueron presa del pánico.

Los daños causados por la llamas se estiman en $10,000. Créese que la conflagración se produjo por combustión expontánea en el subterráneo, donde estaban unos obreros almacenando estopa que descargaban de un camión.

El heroísmo que demostró la Srita. Frances Fleming, telefonista del edificio, evitó sin duda una tragedia más grave. Se mantuvo en su puesto a pesar de las nubes de sofocante humo que ascendían en su derredor, y dió aviso del fuego a los empleados de los cinco pisos del edificio.

Tan rápidamente cundieron las llamas entre la combustible estopa del subterráneo, y se comunicaron a los pisos superiores, que muchísimos empleados no pudieron huir por las puertas del frente, sino que se escaparon por las escaleras de incendio que dan a la Calle Tercera.

Acusa a su Esposo de Brutalidad

La Sra. Ella Emery Merritt entabló ayer una demanda de divorcio contra su marido, acusándole de continuada crueldad durante varios años. El reo es Louis N. Merritt, miembro de distinguida familia de Pasadena. Los Merritts viven en Terrace Drive, No. 276, Pasadena, casa que se halla ubicada en el elegante barrio de Orange Grove avenue. Finalmente, se separaron en octubre de este año. Asegura la Sra. Merritt que su marido repetidas veces le pegó, la pateó y al golpeó, obligándola por último a salirse de la casa por la brutalidad de él. Le abandonó en febrero último, pero volvió a reunirse con él, ante sus promesas de corregirse. Las crueldades se reanudaron en agosto, según dice ella, y se volvieron al fin intolerables.

DEPORTES

Basketball

Anoche, en los talleres Horseley, el Club Atlético de Hollywood derrotó al fuerte equipo de cinco de la Universidad de Sudcalifornia, por anotación de 40 a 34. El juego fué reñido, pero el equipo del Atlético demostró más uniformidad y jugó mejor que sus contrincantes.

La perspectiva del basketball en la Universidad de California no es de lo mejor, según Les Turner, instructor de la Universidad. La razón principal es que Norm Anderson, as futbolista y sólido tirador de basketball, ha sido separado del equipo, a fin de que se ponga en condición perfecta para la pista.

La Primaria Superior de Hollywood y la de Los Angeles se están ocupando ya en el ejercicio del arco. Fuertes quintetos de ambas escuelas han comenzado a jugar partidos de práctica con otras instituciones.

Pugilato

Jack Dempsey, campeón mundial pesado, llegó ayer tarde a Los Angeles. Está Jack en perfecta condición, y está viendo en lontananza un combate con el cacareado Sr. Willard. Por todo lo que se ve, Jack podría dar una solfa a su paso en víboras de cascabel, con una mano amarrada por detrás.

Balompié

El sábado será la clausura formal de la temporada de balompié en los círculos preparatorianos de Sudcalifornia. Pasadena y Glendale se disputarán los honores de peso ligero; al paso que sus hermanos, San Diego y Gardena se lucirán en el campo Bovard.

Una escuela preparatoria de Boston ha lanzado un reto a cualquier escuela de California para que juegue con ella un partido anual de balompié, el que, cada dos años, habrá de efectuarse en el Este.

Lucha

El jueves en la noche, el Club Atlético de Los Angeles ofrecerá otro de sus interesantes programas de lucha.

OIL PRICES, PRODUCTION BOTH RISE

Mid-Continent Field Doing Well, Says Large Operator Visiting Here

Rising prices for crude oil and expanding production are reported from the Mid-Continent oil fields of Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma by Charles McKinnis, one of the large operators in that district, who is a guest at the Alexandria.

In the Smackover Field, in Arkansas, Mr. McKinnis said yesterday, oil is being taken in paying quantities from wells as shallow as eighty feet, though the sand reaches to a depth of 2000. One well, he said, made 1000 barrels in an hour and gushers are common. Some of the oil runs as high as 41 gravity and from there down to 19. There are now four pipe lines to the field, including a twelve-inch line just completed by the Standard of Louisiana. The oil is worth 75 cents a barrel at the well. The field produces about 50,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day in addition to the oil.

The Ranger Field, in Texas, is holding up well, according to Mr. McKinnis. The price advanced two weeks ago from $1.50 to $1.80 a barrel there and a new campaign of drilling has been started. The oil is of very high gravity and daily shipments of gasoline from the field average 80,000 gallons.

GRAND JURY GETS FRAUD CASE TODAY

Indictment Vote Expected for "Band of Honor" Defendants

The Federal grand jury will this morning take up the investigation of the charge of impersonating a Federal officer, pending against P. A. Clown, A. F. Hathaway and James Lindsey, backers and promoters of the financial rainbow known as the "Bond of Honor."

It is probable that the proceedings today will go no further than the vote on the indictment, with the document to be prepared and presented later on. But few witnesses will be heard. They will not be needed in a grand jury indictment.

Agent Colvin of the Department of Justice went to Los Angeles Harbor yesterday and interviewed a number of the sailormen aboard the U.S.S. Pennsylvania, as to their knowledge of the money game that Clown and his alleged associates were playing.

It is understood that several private investigators of the workings of the "Bond of Honor" will be witnesses before the grand jury today.

The defendants are still in the County Jail in default of $5000 bond. When arrested Clown said he could furnish the bond, but he has not done so.

The preliminary examination of the defendants was set by U. S. Commissioner Long for tomorrow, but as the case goes to the grand jury today, the hearing will not take place.

REALTORS ARE URGED TO CURB FRAUD, BAR CROOKS

State Commissioner Suggests Law to Prevent Swindles; More Homebuilding Asked

BY EDWARD LEAF
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA ANA, Dec. 6.—Important legislative changes defining a real estate broker as one who is licensed by the State to operate and providing for a board of examiners to pass upon the fitness of applicants for licenses will be brought before the next Legislature, it was announced yesterday at the California Real Estate convention here by William H. Akin, chairman of the legislation committee.

Mr. Akin, who presided over the afternoon session, introduced Edwin T. Keiser, State Real Estate Commissioner, who made a plea for legislation to prevent fraudulent practices in the real-estate profession. Mr. Keiser declared that the whole real-estate structure was founded on confidence, a...l said: "I don't criticise anyone who has made a little money for attempting to double it in a real-estate deal, but I don't believe it right for any group to plunder a class of people without education."

WOULD CURB FRAUD

He advocated stringent legislation to curb fraud and co-operation with realty boards of other States.

That the Santa Fe Railroad is ready to reinstate second-class fares from Eastern points to California if the people will co-operate with the railroad's colonization plans, was stated by C. L. Seagraves, general colonization agent of the Santa Fe line, at the farm land and colonization meeting, presided over by Herman Janss of Los Angeles.

Mr. Seagraves told of the work being done by his department to advertise California to prospective settlers. The primary considera-tion in colonization plans should be reasonable prices and liberal terms for land.

GROUP PLAN PRAISED

M. V. Hartranft, president of the California Home Extension Association, pointed out in one of the best addresses of the day that group colonization is the most successful plan, for every colonist adds a potential value of $1000 to the land.

Charles F. Shaw of the department of agriculture of the University of California, told of the work of his department in making a soil survey of the State and explained the value of the survey to real estate men.

The afternoon session closed with a discussion of multiple listings, led by C. H. Voss, of the Southwest Realty Board of Los Angeles.

The feature of the evening was

Good Artesian Well Struck at Santa Monica

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 7.—Pronounced by Commissioner Carter to be one of the best wells in the city's system and one which will furnish approximately 500 gallons a minute, artesian water was struck today on the Hatch grounds on Marine and Hatch streets. The flow was encountered at a depth of 160 feet.

The quality of the water is said to be excellent, coming from the Los Angeles River bed by a process of seepage and filtration leaving it free from all impurities.

Four or five more wells to help meet increased demands from new population, will be sunk in the city this winter, according to Commissioner Carter.

After a day of sunshine following showers in the early morning hours, a slight downpour began again shortly after 7 o'clock last night and continued for several hours. At no time during the day was the precipitation heavy and registered only .15 of an inch for the several hours' effort of the weather man. The government bureau says that cloudy weather will prevail today and that more showers may be expected. More rain than was registered in Los Angeles fell in most of the surrounding cities, and indications of clearing weather came from most of the stations reporting.

The rainfall for the season in Los Angeles is more than double what it was last year at this time, the official figures giving a total for this year so far as 2.00 and those for last year 1.26.

The rain and snow storms which have enveloped the whole of the North Pacific Coast for several days shows no immediate signs of moving eastward. According to the Weather Bureau, Northern California will remain enveloped in storm clouds for at least another twenty-four hours.

There has been a remarkable fall of snow at Summit Station in the Sierra, where the depth at 5 p.m. last night was seventy-five inches, and more being added to it every hour. The rainfall figures for Northern California for the twenty-four hours ending at 5 p.m. last night follows:

AGED WIDOW LOSES RICHES

Young Realtor Jailed for Asserted Swindling of Woman Out of Virtually Entire Estate

Charged with having tricked Agnes S. Newman, aged widow of a wealthy Lansing (Mich.) miller, out of $57,500, Linwood M. Andrews, youthful realty operator, was arrested yesterday afternoon at his Laguna Beach home by Investigators Dimond and Kirkman of the District Attorney's office. Following a hearing before Justice Forbes, who fixed bail at $25,000, Andrews was committed to the County Jail.

According to C. H. Stillwell, manager of the Stillwell Hotel, to whom Mrs. Newman has intrusted the investigation of her real estate and stock deals with Andrews, the aged woman has but $300 remaining from stock and collateral valued at more than $60,000. Stillwell interested himself in the case when a $700 check drawn by Mrs. Newman was returned by her bank although she declared she had $4700 on deposit there, he declares.

Andrews also sold Mrs. Newman a fraction of an undivided Santa Monica tract for $6500 and obtained $40,000 worth of flour mill stock from her, Stillwell asserts. She indorsed her stock certificate over to Andrews to sell for her on his promise to get $50,000 for it instead of the $40,000 offered for it by the owners of the mill issuing

WOOLWINE DRY SQUAD KEEPS BUSY

Figures Show 149 Are Convicted Out of 150 Raids

The dry squad of the District Attorney's office has made 150 raids the last six months under the county ordinance against the sale of liquor, according to figures made public yesterday.

Three raids were conducted by the squad Wednesday night at Gardena, Norwalk and Santa Fe Springs. Seventy-five men and women were arrested on charges of gambling, selling liquor and being inmates of disorderly houses.

As a result of the raids $10,000 in fines have been imposed and collected from offenders and 149 convictions obtained, the figures show.

The raids were made by Detective Sergt. George Contreras and Detectives George Dudley and Frank Ellison.

PLUCKY PHONE GIRL HEROINE

Saves Workers by Staying at Post in Fire

Blaze in East Third Street Drives Out 250

Two Overcome, One Burned; Loss Put at $10,000

One man was severely burned, two others were overcome and 250 men and women employees of the Crane Plumbing Company thrown into a panic when fire started yesterday afternoon in the basement of the concern's building at 331 East Third street.

Damage caused by the blaze was estimated at $10,000. It is believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion in the basement, where workmen were storing oakum being unloaded from a freight car.

The heroism shown by Miss Frances Fleming, telephone operator at the building, in sticking to her post despite the mounting clouds of smoke and flashing the news of the fire to employees on the five floors of the building is believed to have averted a worse tragedy.

FLEE BY FIRE ESCAPES

So rapidly did the flames spread among the highly inflammable oakum in the basement and to the upper floors that scores of the employees were unable to make their escape through the front doors. They took to the fire escapes on Third street and escaped in this way.

The flames, accompanied by choking smoke, trapped John Dello, 33 years old, of 840 West Fifty-eighth Place, in the basement. He was overcome and severely burned. His rescue was effected by a number of fellow workmen, who dashed back into the building and carried him out. Mr. Dello was removed to the Receiving Hospital, where attending physicians say he is suffering from first and second degree burns. His condition is not serious, however.

Two other persons, one of them a woman, were overcome on the second floor of the building and carried out by fellow workers.

TRAFFIC TIED UP

Traffic on streets adjoining the building was tied up for more than an hour by the blaze. Because of the dense clouds of smoke from the oakum, firemen were hampered in fighting the blaze, which was not extinguished until it had raged for about an hour. The firemen for a time were unable to enter the basement, where the blaze was at its worst.

Capt. Enos of the Fire Prevention Bureau began an investigation yesterday to determine the exact origin of the blaze and its cause, although it is generally believed that it was the result of spontaneous combustion.

FRANK QUADE, JR., IS SOUGHT BY BROTHER

A search is being made in this city for Frank Henry Quade, Jr., who is reported to have come here some time ago from Fresno to start a garage.

The parents of Quade, who live in Cleveland, are ill and are anxious to locate their son. A brother, E. A. Quade of 2900 East Fifty-seventh street, Cleveland, thinks the missing man is in Los Angeles, and is making every effort to get him word of his parents' illness.

It is known that Quade was in San Francisco at one time, but he is reported to have moved from there to Berkeley, then to Oakland, Fresno, and finally to Los Angeles.

NEGRI-CHAPLIN DATE SET

It'll Happen in January, Asserts Old Mrs. Rumor; Stars Silent on Wedding Plans

Pola Negri and Charlie Chaplin are to marry in January. Thus runs the rumor along the Rialto. The report, which is spread by well-known Gotham thespians, also says the completion of Pola's photoplay, "Bella Donna," will mark the end of Charlie's state of single blessedness or blessed singleness, according to what the future holds.

Work on the Famous Players feature, the Pola Negri vehicle, is being rushed, rumor has it, in order to set ahead the film's release date and the Chaplin-Negri nuptials as far as possible.

LASKY HEDGES

Jesse Lasky, Famous Players-Lasky vice-president, has been told of the marital venture contemplated by the queen of film tragedy and the king of filmdom's funny men, and has consented, friends here and in the East say.

"Ahem! — Harumph! — Ahem!" Jesse Lasky hemmed and hawed when asked for verification of the rumor that love plans had been whispered into his shell-like ear by both Pola and Charlie.

"We don't interfere in our stars' private affairs and they are not telling anyone anything," was the way he begged the question.

ANNOUNCEMENT COMING

"If Pola does marry she'll go right on making pictures for us. In fact, we'll have quite a sensational announcement along those lines in a day or so," he said.

"There's nothing in her contract which will prevent her from marrying if she chooses to do so," he concluded.

When asked either to flatly deny or as definitely affirm the Chaplin-Negri January wedding rumor, the Delphic oracle had nothing on Mr. Lasky for utterances befraught with a double meaning.

"I can't," he said.

Meanwhile Pola and Charlie evince no enthusiasm for newspaper reporters.

WOBBLY COURT FIGHT RUMORED

Attack on Syndicalism Act Believed Intention

Order of National I.W.W. Heads Indicated

Long Speeches Are Cut Short by Court

Reports that a court fight on California's Criminal Syndicalism Act is being planned by national "Wobbly" headquarters gained considerable credence yesterday when fifteen I. W. W. members, arrested in a series of raids by police on Wednesday, pleaded guilty to charges of picketing and then demanded of the court that they be tried for criminal syndicalism, which carries far heavier penalties than provided under the picketing ordinance.

The fifteen "Wobblies" who pleaded guilty were sentenced to fifty days in jail each by Justice Chesebro. Another asserted I. W. W. member pleaded not guilty and was given the choice of going to jail for fifty days or leaving the city. He chose jail.

HAVE INFORMATION

It was stated by members of the police "Wobbly" squad that they are in possession of information indicating that the national organization has ordered all its members arrested here to ask for trial under the Syndicalism Act. It is the purpose of the red agents of destruction to load the jail with at least 200 of its members and then begin a legal fight on the syndicalism law and especially the clauses directed against the I. W. W., the officers said.

Each of the fifteen admitted I. W. W. members when arraigned in court and asked what he had to say in his own defense, began to speak about the Constitution, rights of the workingman, freedom and equality. The speech had apparently been carefully rehearsed and the prisoners coached. Justice Chesebro chopped off their speeches, declaring that he was not in court to listen to addresses.

CREDENTIALS FOUND

The men were arrested Wednesday by several squads of officers who nabbed them in front of the Southern California Edison Company employment offices near Second and Main streets. Three of the men had I. W. W. credentials in their possession and were transferred to the County Jail under criminal syndicalism charges.

All of the men were accused of attempting to intimidate prospective job seekers on Edison company projects, where an I. W. W. strike is in progress.

Those jailed yesterday are Joe Rogers, Frank Klinshaw, J. Smith, Amila Staas, J. A. McClure, J. J. Johnson, Alvin J. Johnson, Ed Murray, R. E. Hartline, Leo Kasperowitch, William Lattimer, H. G. Bennett, James McKee, J. W. Carpenter, P. Jans and Joe Vargo.

In addition to the fifty days' imprisonment meted out to Vargo, he was given a hundred days for contempt of court.

There was no picketing of the Southern California Edison Company's East Second-street employment office yesterday as the result

VETERANS MEET ON BATTLE DAY

Anniversary of Arkansas Clash Observed

Two Union Men Recall Old Scenes of War

Oldest at the Banquet 92, Youngest 75

Civil War memories were recalled yesterday afternoon at the Hayward Hotel, when ten survivors of the battle of Prairie Grove, Arkansas, gathered for a reunion and banquet on the sixtieth anniversary of the victory.

R. L. Osborn is the youngest of this group and he is 75 years old. George C. Searle is the oldest and he is 92 years old. Their combined ages represent a total of 412 years.

The speech of welcome was made in the lobby of the Hotel Hayward by Col. T. P. Murray, aged 78, who served during the war in Company B of the Twentieth Wisconsin Infantry.

DRUM CALLS GIVEN

After his address Maj. A. F. Springsteen, a specially invited guest, gave a series of drum calls reminiscent of the march and the battlefield. Maj. Springsteen enlisted as a drummer in Company A of the Thirty-fifth Indiana Volunteers when he was only 11 years and 3 months old. He received his second discharge from the Union Army before his fifteenth birthday.

The banquet, which was said to be the fifth of its kind, was held in "Ye Pot and Spigot," next door to the hotel. Once again the "Rebels," under Gen. Hindman, were dispatched by Gen. Blunt and Gen. Herron of the Union Army. Echoes of Dec. 7, 1862, were predominant.

Mrs. T. P. Murray, the wife of Col. Murray, and Warren G. Harding Murray, aged 1 year and 11 months, were guests of the company.

ROLL CALL

In addition to Maj. Springsteen were the following veterans: Col. T. P. Murray, aged 78 years, of 419 Monterey avenue, Alhambra, who served in Company B of the Twentieth Wisconsin Infantry; Lammon De Witt, aged 81 years, of 1709 Reid street, who served in the One Hundred and Second Illinois Infantry; George Proctor, aged 75 years, of 4521 Kingswell avenue, who served in Company K of the Twentieth Wisconsin Infantry; Robert P. Adams, aged 84 years, of 322 South Avenue 21, who served in Company E of the Ninety-fourth Illinois Infantry; E. L. Osborn, aged 78 years, of 406 West Wilson avenue, Glendale, who served in Company K of the Twentieth Iowa Infantry; George C. Searle, aged 92 years, of the Soldiers' Home, who served in the Ninth Iowa Infantry; W. E. Burns, aged 80 years, of 324 South Kenmore avenue, who served in Company A of the Seventh Missouri Cavalry; J. W. Dolan, aged 77 years, of 1745 Las Palmas avenue, Hollywod, who served in Company C of the Eighteenth Iowa Regiment; Col. William A. Kirby, aged 86 years, of 927 Harvard avenue, Claremont, who served in Company A of the Sixth Missouri Cavalry, and W. N. Monroe, aged 81 years, of Monrovia, who served in the First Iowa Cavalry.

This is the report of John Wilson, first assistant engineer on the Carpalaka, who came to Los Angeles by train after the vessel docked in Boston.

Auto Fatally Hurts Woman Awaiting Car

Crushed by an automobile last night, Mrs. Edward Worst, 5671 Lexington avenue, was not expected to live until morning, according to surgeons at the Hollywood Community Hospital.

Mrs. Worst and her daughter were waiting for a street car at Santa Monica Boulevard and Wilton avenue, when she was run down by an automobile driven by Mack W. Heming, of the Warner Brothers' studio.

Heming picked the injured woman up and rushed her to the Hollywood Community Hospital, where Dr. Broadman held out no hope for her recovery. Her entire left side was crushed.

Heming told the police, who are conducting an investigation, that he did not see the two women.

ORNAMENTAL LIGHTS ASKED IN HOLLYWOOD

PETITION IS CIRCULATED UNDER DIRECTION OF REALTY MAN

Under the direction of C. R. Weldon, Hollywood real estate man, petitions are being circulated along Hollywood Boulevard requesting that the City Council order the installation of an ornamental lighting system on Hollywood Boulevard beween Orchid and La Brea avenues.

The system asked is planned to complete the ornamental lighting system of Hollywood which, including the systems that have been ordered by the City Council but not installed, runs from Vermont avenue west to La Brea.

A recent order of the City Fathers also assures an ornamental lighting system for Vermont avenue from Hollywood Boulevard north to Los Feliz Boulevard.

REALTORS OPEN STATE SESSION

the five-minute talk contest on home towns for the Fred E. Reeve trophy, staged at the Temple Theater. Results will be announced tomorrow at noon, when the trophy will be awarded the winner.

OFF TO GOOD START

The convention got off to a good start this morning. The 500 delegates representing 102 realty boards of California, met in the American Legion hall, shortly after 10 o'clock.

Visiting realtors from the northern part of the State were greeted with typical Southern California sunshine this morning, and the entertainment feature for the women visitors, an automobile ride to Laguna Beach, was tendered under the most favorable circumstances. Early this morning caravans from all parts of the State began to roll in.

The Oakland Realty Board caravan, delayed by the rain, arrived late last night. This morning delegations from the Realty Board of Los Angeles and the boards of Riverside, San Bernardino, Beverly Hills, Huntington Park, Santa Monica and Venice, arrived.

TATUM PRESIDES

Shortly after 10 o'clock the gavel of President C.C.C. Tatum fell and the convention was called to order. John G. Mitchell, Mayor of Santa Ana, welcomed the visiting delegates to the "City of Homes," and tendered the keys of the town to the realtors.

A short address of welcome was also made by Freeman Bloodgood, president of the Santa Ana Realty Board, and former Real Estate Commissioner of California.

Among the highlights of the day were the distribution of ten boxes of Oroville oranges, which ripen six weeks earlier than Southern California navels, by the Sacramento delegation along with packages of popped rice, and the bombardment of the realtors by an aeroplane carrying Beverly Hills colors which rained literature telling of the Anglenook auburb. Harrison Lewis, Beverly manager of the Frank Meline company executed the stunt with the aid of Ruth Hubbard, pretty Beverly miss and the aviator.

The high point of the morning session was reached when ex-Senator Cornelius Cole, centenarian, and pioneer Californian, addressed the meeting. Senator Cole traced the history of real estate development in California from the day in 1849 when he looked down upon California from the heights of the Sierras, east of Sacramento. At that time, he said, it was a vast stretch of virgin wilderness.

There was not a real estate office in California then, he said. The property was owned in great tracts by the holders of the Spanish land grants. Senator Cole sketched the gradual dissolution of these great estates, a dissolution which became pronounced with the coming of th Yankees to California in large numbers. An ovation was tenered to Senator Cole, whose speech was received with great enthusiasm. Mr. Bloodgood made a motion, which was seconded and unanimously carried that the speech be printed by the State association and that finely bound copies be sent to every college and university in the country.

RICHARDSON PRAISED

"Our New Governor" was subject of an address by Frank F. Merriam, member of the California Assembly. "Friend William Richardson," he said, "is a sincere man, a man of the common people. He went to the people with an issue of economy and efficiency in government, an issue which he believed would appeal, and that it did appeal is attested by the fact that he won a great victory.

"The budget, upon which he is now working, is a matter of tremendous interest to him. It is necessary for him to make this budget now so that when he assumes office he can go to the Legislature with a definite plan. Our new Governor wants your support, your sympathy and your help. He has a great task, a difficult task before him. I want to appeal to you men and women here to do your duty. I want you to investigate the taxation problems of the State, and of your county and city. Our cities and counties need the same kind of attention that has been given to the State, for the same increase of taxation can be found all along the line."

REPORT DISTRIBUTED

President Tatum's report, owing to the lack of time, was not delivered from the platform, but copies were distributed to the delegates. President Tatum, in the report, reviewed the work of the organization for the year, including the organization of forty counties, the adoption of Stanford forms, real estate courses in the universities, transportation activities and the organization of new boards, of which more than forty were formed during the year.

Among the recommendations, which he made, were the organization of the various realty boards upon a more intensive plan, cooperation of local boards with their representatives in the Legislature, active aid to State authorities in reclamation projects, adoption of standard forms and continued effort toward increasing the number of signatures required to place an initiative petition affecting taxation on the ballot.

FRAZIER REED SPEAKS

He also recommended that the present plan of having regional directors through the State be abandoned and that in their place ten regional vice-presidents be appointed to represent the various sections.

Frazier O. Reed, vice-president of the State Association, gave a short talk on standard forms, and Vice-President Albert Kern reviewed the last national convention at San Francisco. Thomas Talbert, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of Orange county, related the progress which has been made by the county during the recent year at the noon luncheon presided over by Everett A. White, regional director.

Addresses were made by M. V. Hartranft, president of the California Home Extension Association, on the subject "Advertising Real Estate" and by R. E. Fisher, director of the California Development Association on the subject of advertising a State.

TELLS OF WANDERING WIFE

Pasadena Physician's Story of Sudden Departures and Arrivals Wins Him Divorce

Dr. James B. Luckie, physician of Pasadena, who was granted a divorce from Gracie B. Luckie in Judge Summerfield's court yesterday, introduced in his testimony a new type of wife. He declared that in the 10 years of their married life, Mrs. Luckie was away from him half of the time. She seemed to be possessed of a craving, he said, which absence from him did not satisfy.

Hers was a restless spirit, the physician declared. She would pack up and leave him without warning and as unexpectedly return to him in the dead of night, he said.

STAY WAS SHORT

Once she returned late Christmas Eve. He did not know she was coming back until he answered a ring at the door. Mrs. Luckie had a Christmas present for him—a peace offering as it were, and she told him she thought they were going to be happy. But restlessness returned with the new day.

Dr. Luckie said she would go to her folks in Birmingham, Ala., or stay with friends in Virginia.

"WITHOUT NOTICE"

"She told me she despised me; she did not love me. She said that I was a liar and a brute. She became angry without cause and packed up and left. She was off to Alabama or Virginia, and returned without notice. She told the nurse in my office that I did not provide enough for her. I gave her $300 a month and she wanted $400," he declared.

When he enlisted in the World War, she told him he was a slacker for leaving her, he said.

Dr. Luckie and Mrs. Luckie were married on July 31, 1913, and the final separation occurred on July 10, last.

DOPE RING CENTER IS DISCOVERED

"Cocaine Kisses" Valued at $1600 Seized in Raid; Two Arrests Made

"Cocaine kisses," valued at $1600, and a small quantity of morphine were seized by police of the hop squad yesterday, following the arrest of Roy Gallegas, proprietor of a restaurant at 405 Commercial street, and one of his waiters, Louis Gregeda.

The arrest of Gallegas, according to Detectives Mailheau, Littlejohn, Hamilton and Hawtrey, and Inspector Earl of the State Board of Pharmacy, is the most important made in several months. They declare he is the wholesaler from whom sixteen asserted dope peddlers arrested recently purchased their supplies. Several of the men, the detectives say, made statements implicating Gallegas, but they were unable to get evidence against him until yesterday. Then Detective Littlejohn, they assert, succeeded in buying $2 worth of morphine from him.

Searching the cafe, the police declare, they found the "cocaine kisses," which are small doses of the drug, wrapped in tissue paper like candy kisses. They also found $35 worth of morphine in Gregeda's possession, they say.

The two men were lodged in the City Jail on charges of violation of the State poison law.

of emerald green and black, trimmed with old lace and monkey fur, and a black velvet hat with jade ornament.

There is a secret, too, connected with Miss Leahy. Every day she wears somebody's flowers; whose is the secret. They arrived daily in London and they have arrived daily since she landed in the United States. When she passed through Chicago yesterday they were orchids.

As for the Talmadges, they had little to say to Chicago reporters except that Connie is positively not thinking of marrying anybody, here or abroad.

ritt may be at present," he said. "It is possible she is stopping with her sister, at 1814 Virginia Road, Los Angeles."

Louis N. Merritt is a brother of Hulett C. Merritt, president of the Pacific States Corporation, with offices in the Merritt Building, 307 West Eighth street. The Merritt family is extremely wealthy, and Hulett C. Merritt's home at 99 Terrace Drive, Pasadena, is one of the show places of the Crown City.

Huntington Merritt, the son mentioned in the divorce suit, was recently involved in an escapade with a high school girl, in which criminal charges were filed. The charges were reduced to minor ones when both parties subsequently married.

the paper, Stillwell says. He also asserts that Mrs. Newman turned and turned the negotiable paper over to Andrews a $6500 promissory note for which an accounting will be demanded.

Andrews was arrested on a warrant signed by Mrs. Newman after conferences between her attorney and the District Attorney's office. When the officers called at the Laguna Beach home Andrews was in bed and offered no resistance. His wife is in a critical condition as the result of her husband's arrest, according to the arresting officers.

WOBBLY COURT FIGHT RUMORED

of the arrests made on Tuesday and Wednesday by the radical squad.

Neither was there any Wobbly demonstration held in front of the County Jail and Hall of Records yesterday morning as a protest against the arrest and imprisonment of Paul Ware, one of the San Pedro radical leaders, and ten other Wobbly delegates and organizers, when they were arraigned in Department 19.

About fifty men wearing I. W. W. buttons, appeared in court, but made no protests of any kind. Later they visited the City Jail and demanded to be arrested on the criminal syndicalism charge.

Albert White, one of the trio arrested in a raid at San Pedro, Tuesday night, became unmanageable in the tank in which he is confined at the City Jail yesterday morning. Police officers believe him to be insane.

Capt. Heath, Capt. Hopkins and Sergt. Luke Lane yesterday opened the Wobbly war-chest confiscated in the San Pedro apartment of B. F. Smart, who is now being held on the charge of criminal syndicalism. As the officers predicted, valuable information pertaining to Southern California members, as well as the names of thousands of others, were obtained.

Needles Strike Case Will Drag Into Next Week

Twenty-seven defense witnesses had been heard in the Needles strike case when court adjourned in Judge Bledsoe's department last night. There are about twenty more to hear, including the eight defendants. As there will be but a half day devoted to the hearing today, the case is certain to drag through most of next week, as it will not be resumed until Tuesday.

The evidence yesterday was by conductors, engineers and firemen employed on the Santa Fe, who testified as to the alleged defective equipment of the line as the cause of the strike on August 10, and the action of the guards who had been placed on the property following the strike of the shopworkers on July 1.

On cross-examination Hiram C. Todd, representing Atty.-Gen. Daugherty, is bringing out the fact that in many instances the defects to equipment were so trivial that no attention was paid to them, and no report submitted to the officials of the road, as required by the agreement with the Big Four.

Representative of Hays Makes Official Bow

Thomas C. Patten, who recently arrived in Los Angeles to represent Will F. Hays in the film world, will make his first official appearance before the motion-picture fraternity at a dinner tonight at the Ambassador, where he will address the heads of the various producing companies.

The hosts at the dinner will be Myron Selznick and A. George Volck, president and vice-president, respectively, of the Selznick Pictures Corporation. Others will be: Jesse Lasky, Cecil B. De Mille, Adolph Zukor, Rupert Hughes, Motley Flint, Stanley Cavanaugh, Elaine Hammerstein, Claire Windsor, Marjorie Daw, Winifred Kingston and H. A. Loeb.

Mr. Patten will outline his plans for a campaign to help the motion-picture industry.

the beauties of that little group of islands far out in the lap of the blue Pacific.

William F. Ross, manager of the extension department of the Southwest Museum, delivered an interesting address on "The Place of the Museum in Home Life." He declared that the mental picture created in the mind when the word "museum" it uttered in most cases is of things musty and ancient, whereas, he says, this now has been changed. A museum is the embodiment of modern life, the breeding ground of art, of music, of literature, in fact, of everything that is up-to-date. How the museum such as the one he represents can be of use to the community was the substance of this highly illuminating talk.

SPANISH PROGRAM

Redolent of Old Spain, KHJ's noonday concert yesterday gave listeners forty-five minutes of real Spanish music given by real Spanish artists. Ernesto Rubio, tenor, who has a voice which reminds one much of Caruso's, gave a spirited rendition of "El Alguna Vez," in which it was clearly evident that he is a singer who ranks high among the dramatic tenors of the day.

Esther Tapia, soprano, who has favored KHJ listeners in Spanish programs before, always earning for herself a large measure of acclaim, sang "Cruz de Mayo" with the zest and coloring that was typically Spanish. Her voice is of wide range and her phrasing and colorful intrepretation is an inspiration to all who hear her.

Senor Rubio and Senorita Tapia did excellent work in their three duets—"La Princesita," "El Paloma," a new Spanish song, and finally, "The Mexican Fox Trot." They gave to these some wonderful harmony, sometimes dramatic; at other times almost lullaby in expression. In all their selections they were accompanied at the piano by Senor Rafael Gama.

LOSING TITLE

When the Leeds family linked up with Grecian royalty they should have taken on some title insurance. The Leeds are without followers. The Leeds fortune was made in tin plate and is only good for a tin crown.

FIRST IN THE FIELD

Enterprise in the few makes wealth for the many. Oranges have been grown in Africa for over a century, in Southern California for hardly fifty years. Yet the wealth of California citrus groves runs annually into millions and supports hosts of high-priced workers. In Africa orange culture is a negligible industry, in spite of cheap native labor. And now South Africa is appealing to Los Angeles to tell it how to raise oranges on a paying and extensive scale. And the answer is—enterprise.

AMONG THE DEAD ONES

Nobody ever saw a baluchistherium in action. As a wild beast the baluchistherium had the mastodon running for shelter and it could make a monkey out of the fattest gorilla that ever stood on its hind legs. Something over 1,000,000 years ago—or maybe it is 2,000,000 years—the baluchistherium roamed the Gobi Desert in what was later known as Mongolia. A gentleman of the Neanderthal period could hardly go by the Gobi Desert without being chased by one of these ponderous beasties. But as the eons passed the tribe dwindled, and when the days of Noah came there wasn't even a single baluchistherium left to swell the menagerie in the ark. Practically all of them had found rest for their bones under the shifting sands of Mongolia.

Now, after another flight of centuries, wise men from the Eastern States who have been delving in the graveyards of the world have exposed the skeleton of the baluchistherium and are bringing specimens of the same to be displayed to the curious stranger in the halls of the American Museum of Natural History. The professor who had charge of the exhumation is of the belief that the baluchistherium was about the hugest of living creatures. It was longer than an iguanodon, or pterodactyl and it was taller than a dinotherium. The professor says that when they dug up one skeleton it took two husky men to lift the animal's funny bone. An animal that wanders around with a funny bone that would be a tight fit in the Second-street tunnel would scare anybody. Even its skeleton must be mighty impressive. It is now being brought overseas to California and when it is mounted in the museum it will have its picture taken.

The Senators will be using the photograph as an object lesson against the evils of having any foreign relations. They might grow to look like a baluchistherium.

BUST THE FILIBUSTER

Senator James E. Watson wants to perform a real service to his country. He wants, incidentally, to go into history himself as the filibuster buster. And if he does that his bust should go into the Hall of Fame.

Senator Watson has an idea that the people elect Senators to do things rather than to talk. Therefore he advocates a special session of Congress for the purpose of doing away, for all time, with unlimited debate. It is strange that, in a country in which the national spirit is summed up in "Let's go," a country in which the inherent urge is to get things done, the filibuster was not long ago abolished. For the filibuster is un-American, a scheme by which men with unlimited vocabularies and equal admiration of the sound of their own voices can defeat, and on several occasions have defeated, the will of the majority, despite the fact that the whole theory of American government is founded on the principle that the will of the majority shall rule.

No important measure should be passed in undue haste or without reasonable debate. But it is not right that a small group of men, unable to defeat a measure by sound arguments, can still connive to defeat it by the mere volume of words, by talking against it for days or even weeks while the whole business of the country is held up. The business of this nation is too big, too important to all of us to be subject to such hold-ups. Especially in view of the fact that there never was a filibuster leader who couldn't have said all he had to say of any importance on the measure in one-tenth the time he took.

Delays are fearfully expensive. Important programs which are held up are public calamities. Every member of Congress is personally answerable to his own constituents, and when the majority are for a thing there must be a good deal of right in it. Therefore, the filibuster which holds up that thing, and dozens of other things along with it, is simply an exhibition of wasteful, destructive and utterly silly stubbornness instead of statesmanship.

Some day the public is going to wake up to the fact that any man addicted to making speeches lasting longer than an hour is a public nuisance and, if elected to office, is likely to become a public menace. Until that blessed time, however, a curb on unlimited debate is needed.

This country wants action, not oratory. Let's go!

Mary Garden says she prefers a mule to a man, but Mary, dear, hasn't neither.

OVERPOPULATION

According to Federal statistics, there were two births for every death in the United States last year. The actual figures were 24.2 births per 1000 of population and twelve deaths.

If this double ratio of births to deaths is to become permanent it means that, by the time the 110,000,000 people now living in the United States shall have passed on, twice that number will have been born; in other words, that, by natural increase, the population of the country will double every fifty years.

That will give the country a population of 440,000,000 in 2022, about the present population of Europe. California will then have a greater population than that of New York at the present time. In round terms, it would be 14,000,000. That will be the normal increase. If the present influx from the East and Middle West were to continue Los Angeles would have 10,000,000 population and California 25,000,000.

These figures do not represent possibilities, but probabilities. The increases named are well within the range of those of Europe during the last 100 years. In 1800 the estimated population of Europe was 180,000,000. In 1910 it was 450,000,000. If there had been no extensive emigration to other countries and food could have been found for them Europe would have had a population of 600,000,000 in 1910.

That problem of excess population is one of the most serious of the many vital questions our civilization is forced to face. There is a growing tendency among the neutrals to find the first cause of the World War which broke in 1914 in the overpopulation of Great Britain, Germany and Italy. Each of these countries had a population several millions in excess of that which the state could support from its own soil. When they went out into the world to exchange manufactured articles for the necessary foodstuffs and raw materials the economic clash came that developed into a military conflict. Germany sought to regulate commerce with the sword; and right then the trouble started.

During the last two generations there has been a tendency to rejoice over increases in population. This was true even in the overpopulated European states. Every male child born in Germany was heralded as another recruit for the German army that was to dominate Europe and the world. But when a child is born in Germany now, added to the mother's physical pain is the mental anguish because she knows not whence will come the food to fill another mouth.

During the next generation there will be no overpopulation on the Pacific Coast. But by that time the waste places will all be occupied; and the overcrowding in the East will begin to resemble that in India.

GAYETY AND STARVATION

An article published in the Survey by a relief worker recently returned from Russia affords us a slightly different view of that harassed country than we have heretofore been accorded. While 5,000,000 people in the Volga and Ural district await the agony of death by starvation the pride of the proletariat drinks and gambles in the gay Moscow cafes. The prohibition measures so sternly enforced since 1914 have been removed, the fine Caucasus wine flows freely and the gourmand can indulge in gastronomic delights as long as his stomach and purse can stand the strain.

The bitter plaint of the disciples of Communism against the aristocracy, before the revolution, was in regard to their utter callousness. While the masses dragged out their unenviable existence in bitter want the upper classes caroused and reveled with no thought of the misery all around them. Today the situation is reversed and the same criticism holds good.

Even were the doctrines of the Bolsheviks economically sound, their weakness lies in the fact that they are based on a glorification of human nature. Were everyone a high-minded and unselfish follower of the Golden Rule such ideas might be feasible. But in a world where a major portion of the human race is actuated by ulterior motives the brotherhood of man is a beautiful but impracticable dream. The luscious eats and drinks of the Bolshevik financial giants must be a bitter blow to the guileless dreamers who fondly imagined that waving a red flag would make the whole world kin—and generous.

A POT-AND-KETTLE SQUABBLE

Next on the international program would seem to be a conference of the nations to fix exact definitions for Bolshevism, Communism, democracy and Socialism.

Communists are insisting that there is no corelation between their doctrines and those of the Bolshevists. According to the general acceptance of these terms in Europe Bolshevism is now at the bottom. All the other "isms" repudiate it. Countries that proclaim themselves democracies, like Bulgaria, assert that they are opposed to the nationalization of land, which, they say, is the fundamental theory of Communism. Then come the Socialists, who, according to the other groups, are posing as social aristocrats.

To an impartial observer the distinctions seem to be similar to those between the occasional drinker, the moderate drinker, the habitual drinker and the drunkard.

Half a dozen of the new states carved from what was once Russian territory and allied with the soviet government at Moscow claim that they are not Bolshevist, but Communist. They have theoretically nationalized all their industries. But, in fact, they have not done so, because they have no industries to nationalize. They have taken all the lands from the former owners and redivided them, which means that one group has robbed another group and is now seeking to legalize the theft.

Premier Stambolivsky of Bulgaria protested vigorously during a recent diplomatic visit to Bucharest, the capital of Rumania, because the press of Belgrade referred to the government at Sofia as Communist. He said Bulgaria was not Communist, but a peasant democracy. "Communism means a nationalization of property," he insisted. "We have not nationalized property in Bulgaria, but have divided it among the workers. Every one willing to perform agricultural labor is given a piece of land; and no one is permitted to hold land who does not actually cultivate it himself. We have a democracy, because the majority, which is the peasant class, governs."

But the Rumanians were not wholly convinced, and the attempt of the Bulgarian Premier to negotiate a treaty of alliance with the Rumanian government ended in failure. In the Bulgarian "democracy" there is no military conscription, because that is forbidden in the treaty signed at the close of the World War. But there is a conscription of labor, just the same as in soviet Russia.

The Bulgarian peasant government has also nationalized the big stores and the factories in the cities. In short, the peasants have nationalized about everything but the land which the peasants own. Their announced policy is to decentralize populations, to wipe out the cities and build up the villages. They want a purely agrarian democracy, where no large center of population shall exist.

What the Socialists want has really ceased to matter; for Germany and Italy, but lately the strongholds of Socialism, have turned Conservative, and no purely Socialist government remains. Socialism was the first of the "isms" to fall.

As for the others, it seems to be the case of different degrees of the same vice. The drunkard always calls himself a "moderate drinker;" and it is the same with the Communists and the so-called democracies. Forced labor is slave labor; and a people who are forced to resort to slave labor in order to exist are retrograding rapidly toward barbarism.

A MARDI GRAS FOR LOS ANGELES

The motion-picture industry, the greatest entertaining force of the ages, is planning a fiesta for Los Angeles in the month of June, 1923, that, according to promise, will make all previous efforts along this line look like the splutter of a lucifer match against the surface of the sun.

This is planned as a combination de luxe, a thirty-day festival of literature, music and art—a pageant of industrial exhibits, a flare of scintillating lights and movie stars, a historical revue of the United States in honor of the centenary of the Monroe Doctrine, at once a ceremonious gathering of councillors, mayors and governors—possibly graced by the President himself, and an informal merrymaking for all the world, his wife, and especially his handsome sons and daughters.

THE PATH OF KNOWLEDGE

The Council of Education in this State is in favor of regulation which would permit teachers to draw salaries for the grades for which they are qualified—regardless of where they teach. The council also favors the construction of "teacherages" in connection with rural schools. These are bungalow residences for the teachers so that they will always be assured of suitable home accommodations. There is also a recommendation for the erection of dormitories for pupils in connection with rural schools. This would enable them to remain overnight in the event of stormy weather or furnish them lodging if they lacked suitable homes. This program would only cost a few million dollars more every year—and what is $1,000,000 between taxpayers? Why not arrange a taxi service between the schools and some fashionable local hotel, so that the teachers and pupils could be taken there for their meals? There should also be a provision for a brass band or orchestra to furnish music for every schoolroom. As it is now some of the pupils have to play the trombone or the mandolin themselves instead of having experts for the task. We must make our educational program attractive for our offspring, else they will take to shooting craps or other doubtful entertainment.

TWO MINUTES OF OPTIMISM

BY HERMAN J. STITCH

Look It Up

Success, it has been truly said, is simply a matter of convincing the other fellow.

And this holds good all along the line, as, for example, between defendant's counsel and court, salesman and storekeeper, writer and editor, editor and reader, politician and public, preacher and populace.

When you've brought the other fellow round to your point of view, when you've made him think as you think and see things as you see them, then the next, most natural and simplest thing in the world is to win your case, to make your sale, to give impetus to communal action, to elect your man or to make men better.

And it is words—words as messengers, go-betweens, private secretaries and vehicles of communication—which are the instruments of progress, the real source of force and triumphant power.

Too often words conceal instead of convey thought; people do not appreciate the potency of expression; they fail to make their meaning plain and their influence is always on the wane.

This is because lucidity is commonly considered an outpost of ability; and by the same token ambiguity is taken as a confession of inability or chicanery. When you're clear you've little to fear. So language gauges the man.

Time was when the dictionary habit was adjudged the moribund pastime of moss-backed bookworms. Today every desk boasts its unabridged or good-sized Webster. It is out of fashion and execrable taste to sneer at the chap who has the "looking-up" habit. You may soon be looking up to him. Call him "crank" if you will; but history favors conscientious cranks.

The elemental gold is not to blame if we shame and debase it on worthless, electroplated trinkets. The rare metal is present all the time, but the corresponding mould isn't—so our language is there all the time, but it is up to us to cast the mould, to dress our thoughts in attractive clothes, in words which carry, which put our case across and so convince the other fellow—and go bring us what we want.

Look it up.

RIPPLING RHYMES

PETERING OUT

The wan year's waxing older, his feet are tired and sore, and soon he'll go to molder with years that are no more; he's lame in knee and shoulder, his journey is a bore. With ecstasy we hailed him when he was young and strong; our plaudits never failed him, we boosted loud and long; but when Old Time's derailed him we'll say his course was wrong. He brought us much affliction, tried us with gins and snares, and in his jurisdiction were strikes and wobbly scares; each month was full of friction that chafed us unawares. And now we see him shiver, his long beard on his chest! our warwhoops we deliver and speed the parting guest; each Old Year is a flivver, each New Year is the best. Ahead we're always looking, tomorrows are in view; our incense we are cooking to greet the thing that's new; beshrewing and gadrooking, we say to old things, "Shoo!" The poor old year now going has few to sing his praise, we say that he is showing a record of dark days, and dornicks we are throwing where once we gave him bays. No doubt the year that's coming will have his smile on straight; with dulcimers a-thrumming we'll greet him at the gate, and twelve months hence be humming the old-time hymn of hate.

POPPA PASSES

(I know just how you feel, Browning!)

BY KATHERINE LIPKE

The year's at the close,
And Xmas is here,
When Poppa must pass
To the family en masse
His much worked for cash!
With no spirit of joy
He faces each day—
All's wrong with the world!

It's open season for Poppa and he has sought refuge behind his facial shrubbery peering out with a suspicious eye at all who approach him. He no longer yields smiling to the cuddling of the family, but withdraws himself and keeps a glum silence. Poor Poppa, his wallet, now on its last skin, is due for the final hard treatment of the year, and he knows it! Christmas is coming, with all its joyous meaning, but it has no charms for him! It's the best little nonconductor of sympathy he knows.

Oh, it's a hard old world for fathers! In the spring it's clothes, in summer the beach and its attendant lures gobble up the surplus, and then Christmas does the rest. In his present blue state he is liable to imagine the family on the poor farm in the near future. No matter how big his bank account is, the thought of Christmas always makes him pale with worry and puts a crimp in his disposition.

How he would like to padlock his roll to save it for that mysterious rainy day we hear so much about, but it can't be done! He is sure to blame it on the family, but way down underneath there is the feeling that the best is none too good for them. Half of his gruffness is the result of the fact that he knows himself so well. He just can't ignore Christmas, the mere sound of which makes him all nice and cozy inside, and well he knows that when the time comes he is going to see that John has that watch and Mary her pin, while the wife will be presented with the fur coat she has wanted so much.

A funny combination, this Poppa, chuck full of sentiment which he so painfully hides under a barrier of gruffness. He pretends to be such a bear, but he's always there when most needed, and once in a while he shows us a glimpse of the nice warm inside corners of his brain, and that compensates for all the rest!

THIS IS THE DAY

First written Presidential message was read to Congress in the year 1801. It was sent by President Jefferson to the Seventh Congress, which met in Washington Prior to this it had been the custom for the President to appear in person before the Congress and speak his message. Washington and John Adams were both orators and preferred to deliver their addresses in person. But Jefferson was a poor speaker, so he sent his speech by messenger. This custom of written Presidential messages remained unbroken till President Wilson, in 1913, revived the custom of George Washington.

Wendell Phillips delivered his first "abolition" speech at Boston in the year 1837.

I used to know Joe Cubbison and little Sammie Short,
I used to hunt and fish with
Sherman Gray,
I got to thinking recently about old times and them,
I can't remember when they dropped away
From out the little circle of business, lodge or church.
They used to share my fondest jokes, they used to share my fears.
They used to share my pocketbook and yet they drifted on.
Why, I hadn't even thought of them for years.

And recently at the library I saw some newspapers,
The same that I read twenty years ago.
And the pictures were so funny one could hardly realize
That women ever wore their skirts so low.
There stood old Doctor Duffy with his test tube in his hand,
There was old Doc Munyon pointing toward the sky,
There were dinky autos pictured devoid of tops or lamps.
Autos I used to long for, me, oh my!

Such funny shoes they used to wear, I wonder when they passed,
Those funny paper collars meant for men.
I used to read and dream of them some twenty years ago,
Some time between they went I don't know when.
It's hard to think that things we know shall some day grow 'passe.
And really it doesn't listen right
That I should duck and some folks round, not even mark the day,
Yet recently I've halfway feared I might.

"Spell It"

Beverly Kinnamon has decided romance is a fine thing, but should not be invoked in naming streets.

He came to this conclusion on his honeymoon. Previously he had given it so little thought he was glad to engage a flat on Micheltorena street at a realtor's suggestion. It sounded so honeymoon-like.

When he dropped off at the P.E. station with friend bride he asked taxi driver 137 to take them to the street aforementioned.

He was afterward thankful he could remember the driver's number.

"What street did you say?" quizzed the driver.

Bev repeated.

"Spell it," said the driver.

Bev couldn't. Fortunately he had the address on a card. He gave the driver the card. Away they drove.

They arrived. Bev showed his bride through the apartment.

Then he phoned the gas company.

"What street did you say?" insisted the clerk.

"Micheltorena street."

"I don't just get you, shake up your phone, please."

Bev shook and shouted.

"Spell it," said the clerk.

"Oh, let it go," said Bev, "I'll come down after while and tell you."

He called the light company.

"What street did you say?"

Bev repeated.

"Spell it," said the clerk.

"Oh, let it go, I'll come by after while and tell you."

He called a grocery and ordered some house supplies.

He gave the address. "Eh, what did you say?" asked the grocer.

Bev repeated.

"Spell it," said the grocer.

Bev slammed up the receiver. He snapped the dial over and got the taxi stand.

"Say," he said, "tell driver 137 to come up to that tool street where he took the newly married couple and get them. They want to move over on Main street."

My Cousin Anne says noise is deceiving.

It gets the best of us, even the prophets. It got one in biblical times as he went along the Spring street of old Jerusalem and the followers of Baal liked to have split his eardrums with their cries.

He meandered along the purlieus of the Lincoln Park of the day and place and the followers of Ashtaroth made things hideous there with their clamor.

He pottered along Jerusalem's Broadway. The god was different. The noise was the same.

The prophet just knew he was the last man left in the world who was O.K.

But he wasn't. The Lord put him to sleep and proved it to him in a dream that he wasn't.

Not by thousands and thousands.

Does It Match?

That's the Costume Jewelry question of the hour. Earrings, pendants and barcelets — if they're worn, they're to match. Does that bring a thought to your mind? Of course it does. Janice has a colored galaith bracelet, hasn't she? Give her a pendant—that matches.

A Bright Boomerang

—that's a clever kind of a Christmas gift to give. Tinted Stationery with gay tissue-lined envelopes adroitly fits into the scheme. Tissue-linings with satin-striped, exotic colors and bizarre designs—can't you see the delightful surprises in store for correspondents the whole year through?

Now Is the Time to Window Shop

Window shopping will help you decide what to give, for windows are full of suggestions—every age and pursuit has been duly considered in the displays of Christmas merchandise now presented.

Sure Way to Get Right Weight

Increase Your Red-Blood Cells. That's the Sure Way! S. S. S. Builds Blood-Cells; This Means Strength.

Do you know why insurance companies refuse to insure a great many men because they are under weight? Simply because to be under weight often means low vitality-power in the body. It often means you are taking nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus energy, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus. That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Hollow cheeks fill out. You step into a healthy-looker. You inspire confidence. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the ears lines that come from chronic disease. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. Mire red-blood-cells in S. S. S. will build them. Ladies and gentlemen, a pasty, bony face doesn't make you look very important or pretty, does it? Take S. S. S. It contains only pure vegetable medicinal ingredients. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores in two sizes. The larger size bottle is the more economical.

S. S. S. makes you feel the natural way

People and Their Troubles

Elizabeth Jordan's Column.

THE "HARD-FACED" GIRL

The following pathetic communication comes to me from Chicago:

Dear Miss Jordan: Today I overheard another girl say that I was "hard-faced." What did she mean by that? Was it a slam at me? And if it was what kind of a girl is a "hard-faced" girl? I shall be very much obliged if you will tell me. JOSEPHINE.

I am afraid, dear Josephine, that the girl you overheard was not paying you a compliment. On the other hand, remember that she may have been entirely mistaken in her comment. She may not be a good judge of faces. She may even have used the expression without understanding it herself. This world holds countless persons who use words indifferently, with no real sense of their value.

As to the meaning of "hard-faced," I suspect that you know it. The expression is properly used to describe some one whose face indicates that she has been hardened by life—that she has ceased to feel or suspect gentleness or sympathy or tolerance. Hard-faced persons are usually hard livers, disillusioned, embittered, expecting little or no consideration from others, and receiving no more than they expect. They are sometimes confused with the sullen or defiant types, who are not really hardened as yet, but who, in one form or another, are undergoing the hardening process.

THE REAL ISSUE

All of which brings us to the point at issue. You, Josephine, do not desire to be hard faced. But let me assume for a moment that you are, that your face is taking on characteristics which suggest to the the observer that you are hard. If this is true, you don't want it to continue so—do you? Of course you don't. Having agreed on that, let us agree on another thing. You need not continue hard faced.

How can you avoid it? In a way that is at once simple and difficult. First of all, go to your mirror and look at yourself. What do you see? A happy face? Probably not. A serious, thoughtful face? Possibly. There are benighted souls who might consider a serious face hard. A discontented face? Probably. Many young girls are discontented and many have formed the bad habit of permitting their faces to reflect their discontent.

If your face is happy, Josephine, it cannot be hard. If it is merely serious and thoughtful, it cannot be hard. All you need to do in that case is to brighten it up a bit—to learn to smile more at life. If it is discontented, your remedy will be less simple. You must work from within. You must change your present point of view. Instead of thinking of what you want and have not got, you must think of the things you have to be grateful for—health and youth, no doubt, and many other things of which you know and I do not. Think of your blessings, Josephine. The advice may be bromidic, but it is sound. It is only by right thinking that you can change wrong facial expression. Don't advertise to the world that you are dissatisfied. Fix your mind on the possessions you value, throw back your head and smile at life.

LIFE AS A MIRROR

Inevitably, if you do that, it will smile back—just as it will frown at you if you frown at it. If you have acquired the frowning habit, break it. If you have acquired the habit of self-pity, break that. If you are cold and suspicious, it will show in your expression. Cultivate warmth and trust. Show the world that you have warmth and trust. The change of mental attitude will soon be reflected in your face.

As I said in the beginning, the girl you overheard may have done you an injustice. On the other hand, if she was right, in even a slight degree, she may have unconsciously done you a great service by pointing out a flaw of which you were unaware. Now that you know of it, the remedy is within your reach.

Question: How many women doctors are there? M. D. R.

Answer: The 1920 census report says that there were 144,977 physicians and surgeons in the United States. Of these, 7219 were women.

Q.: Where are the different kinds of wheat grown? L. E.

A.: The Department of Agriculture says that the near Northwest, which includes Minnesota, the Dakotas, and parts of adjoining States, grows hard spring wheat; the Southwest, also Nebraska and Kansas, grow hard winter wheat; the East and States as far west as Missouri and Iowa grow soft winter wheat. These areas overlap to some extent.

Q.: How much money have Americans invested in Canadian mines? S. M.

A.: About 40 per cent of the money invested in the Canadian mining industry is furnished by people in the United States.

Q.: What will take away the bluish look on a mahogany piano? O. T. A.

A.: The bluish haze that is often noticed on a polished varnish surface is merely the accumulation left by moisture and dust from the atmosphere. It is called "blooming" and may be washed off with a damp cloth of soft material, wrung out of tepid water in which a little pure soap may be used, or a few drops of olive oil may be put on the cloth. Wipe off with a soft dry cloth or clean chamois.

Q.: How many Civil War nurses are now living? B. N.

A.: In an association formed after the Civil War by 3000 nurses, only seventy are now living.

Q.: Does the Mason and Dixon line extend from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast? R. H.

A.: It does not. This line merely formed the boundary between the States of Maryland and Pennsylvania. It extended as originally surveyed to a point 244 miles west of the Delaware River.

Q.: At what time did Louis XIV reign? H. McC.

A.: This monarch reigned from 1643 until 1715, having become King at the age of five. His mother held the regency, but the real power was the Minister Mazarin. After his death in 1661 Louis XIV assumed complete control and ruled despotically until his death.

Q.: What is bulimia? L. G. S.

A.: Bulimia is a disease characterized by excessive hunger. Persons suffering from it are never satisfied.

Q.: Why were the Progressives called the Bull Moose party in 1912? T. P.

A.: The name came from Roosevelt's remark early in the campaign, "I feel as fit as a bull moose."

Q.: Why are channel buoys marked red and black? D. B. L.

A.: In the United States it is prescribed by law that the buoys be painted red on the starboard hand coming in from sea, and black on the port or lefthand side. They are also numbered in order from seaward, with even numbers on the starboard and odd numbers on the port hand.

Q.: How long have we had life-saving stations? C. C.

A.: Considerably less than a century. Hans Bush, 1815-82, an English lawyer, had the distinction of first suggesting life-saving stations and of organizing a model station.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Opposes Mr. Weeks

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] This writer has read with some interest the views expressed by Mr. Henry Weeks in a letter published in The Times on the 29th inst. In so far as these views run counter to the organization known as the Ministerial Association and their interference in political affairs, they are my own. Unfortunately, however, Mr. Weeks destroyed much of my appreciation of his denunciation of linking the Bible with the ministers. This is no new practice. It is true, for the Bible has ever had to "live down" the hypocrisy, bigotry and ignorance of those who consider themselves worthy to expound it. That the Good Book has been able to survive the distorted interpretation of it down through the centuries is but added proof of its divine source.

Mr. Weeks says 10 per cent of the American people are Christians. Why exaggerate? Are there any Christians at all today? The writer through a long variegated life has yet to meet one and has come to believe that there is just as much doubt regarding the present existence of this sect as there is of the existence of the living plesiosaurus said to have been seen lately in the Argentine.

Christianity does not exist today except as an unused code within the covers of the Bible. Some say that this faith is a failure but how can that be a failure which has not been tried. The word Christianity relates to the principles given to the world by Jesus Christ and a Christian is, therefore, a follower of such principles. If there are no followers of these principles then there is no Christianity. Multitudes, it is true, name themselves Christmas, but unless they practice the principles laid down by the Good Master their assumption of Christianity is as of little effect as the claims of a full-blood negro that he is a white man.

To show Mr. Weeks that there are no Christians today and just what a man would have to do and be to become a Christian let a few passages be quoted that throw a vivid light upon the life and teachings of Jesus Christ.

He went about doing good.

Sell all that thou hast and distribute to the poor.

Lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth.

The Son of Man hath not where to lay his head.

Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's.

My kingdom is not of this world.

He washed his disciple's feet.

Whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek turn to him the other also.

This is my commandment, that you love one another.

Blessed are the peacemakers.

It is manifest to any man with sufficient discernment to distinguish between day and night that the things enumerated above are simply "not being done" today by those who style themselves Christians or by any others. There are none who makes a practice of doing good for the sake of good alone and not in the hope of reward. There is no one selling all he has and distributing to the poor. All are striving with each other night and day to lay up worldly treasures. They all have a place—most of them a very comfortable and luxuriant place—to lay their heads They are not willing to render unto Caesar the things which are Caesar's nor even do they at the present time acknowledge to their fellow-men the right to their own thoughts and beliefs or the right to choose what they shall take into their bodies. Their kingdom is very much of this world, for clergy and laymen alike are today seeking more and more dominion in political affairs. They are certainly not washing anybody's feet or practicing humility in any other form. So far from submitting even one cheek to be smitten they ride about the country at night wearing masks and nightshirts seeking to smite their neighbor unawares. As for love they love no one but themselves. Whatever else they may be, they are not peacemakers, for the preachers themselves are today thundering from the pulpit "Why cry peace, peace, when there is no peace" and are inciting the members of their congregation against fellow-citizens who happen to be of different race or creed.

Defends Auto Camps

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—[To the Editor of The Times:] With reference to Mr. Arthur B. Bonner's letter in todya's Times, while I agree with much he says regarding auto camps there is a statement in his letter that I would like to take exception to. He says that there is a surplus of houses to rent at prices to suit and I would like to find out from him just where they are located.

Coming here four weeks ago to permanently locate and desiring to rent a house in the meantime I have searched this city from end to end to find a furnished house at a rental up to $50 per month. I have unfortunately two children and where there has been a possibility of finding a suitable house the children have been objected to. Dogs and other pets are allowed, but children, never.

Where a condition like this exists you will necessarily find auto camps and certain objectionable features that accompany them. Let the landlords stop objecting to children and you will not find so many people living in auto camps.

"TRAVELER."

About Smoking

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I think the fellow who said that there were no more good girls is about right. When I was single I thought there were no more good men. The good girls can't find the good fellows and the fellows who want the good girls do not seem to meet, somehow. The reputation of the movies is ruined in the East, on account of cigarettes. Since coming here and seeing so many of them smoke, I too am disgusted. It is no fitting example for our young girls to go to a show and watch the actors smoke (females.) They are so brazen about it that I have seen them sitting in autos, smoking as if they were proud. They talk about reform. Better start on the smoking in the pictures first. That makes more people disgusted than anything else.

MARGARET HALE.

Criticises Taxes

WATTS, Dec. 4.—(To the Editor of The Times:) Last year my Watts lot was assessed at $60 and the improvements at $20. This year, lot $60, and same improvements, one year older, at $50. The cheapest lot in this locality that I know of is $200 priced. Many are asking $300. A new tract one block away has a sign that reads "lots $300 and up." Therefore, lots here could not reasonably be assessed for less than $100 (one-half actual cash value,) yet my lot was assessed at only $60. My improvements are not worth more than $40. Therefore ought not to have been assessed for more than $20.

Readers, consider above carefully and see how the assessors are unfairly heavily taxing the home and unfairly assessing land for much less than it should be assessed for. My observations lead me to believe that unfairness to be quite general throughout the United States, excepting a few States A neighbor told me that his house and four lots pay the same tax this year as do a pocrer house and two lots in the same block. The lots are assessed the same. That shows how unfair is the improvement assessing. Yet, the voters, unthinkingly, go to the polls in California every two years and vote a majority for the unfair taxation law of the State by voting against single tax. Awaken!

ZDEK REBUILDS PENN STATE ELEVEN TO TACKLE TROJANS NEW YEAR'S

ny Mentor Rips Team Apart Hopes of Winning the Big Game at Pasadena

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

STATE COLLEGE, Dec. 7.—Coach Hugo Bezdek gave his football squad a real shake-up today in practice for the game with California at Pasadena on New Year's, when he benched the men who started against Pitt, and filled their places from the scrubs. The entire shift may not be permanent, but it indicates that Hunny Mentor will give any man a chance if he shows ability to hold a varsity job, even at this late date.

Bentz was one of the regulars sent to the second team. Hamilton taking his place. Hamilton did such good work against Pitt that the coaches say they have to make room somewhere in the line. Another change was at left end in place of Adams at left tackle in the Pitt game, and Prevost at left guard in place of Fleck, the only change in the backfield was the placing of Patton, sub quarterback, at halfback in place of Bezdek may be working the shifts, for the varsity players are out to regain their berths. The use of substitute material to surround the regulars to make jobs were secure, but it was indicated that such is not the case. Killinger, the great quarterback, was present to aid in coaching, and the team that their mates were even better than the great 1921 machine. Bad weather and freezing made hard fields, but the players did not grumble.

Movement was also made today to make plans for the trip to the coast. Coach Bezdek will be followed by a squad of some 30 players, and will leave here on December 19. The trip will be continuous, but will be stopped at the Grand Canyon for a one-day sightseeing trip. The team will arrive at Pasadena on the 24th.

There is some possibility that the team will make a trip to San Francisco for a few days' practice there, and while there play the Stanford-Pittsburg game, which will be played on the day preceding the New Year game at Pasadena.

MOLLA TO GO AFTER SUZANNE

Mrs. Mallory is to Seek French Champ on Her Own Native Heath

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—That Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallery, American women's tennis champion is going abroad this winter, and that a possible renewal of her famous rivalry with Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen is a possibility of the Riviera tennis season, became definitely known here today. Mrs. Mallory plans to sail late in February.

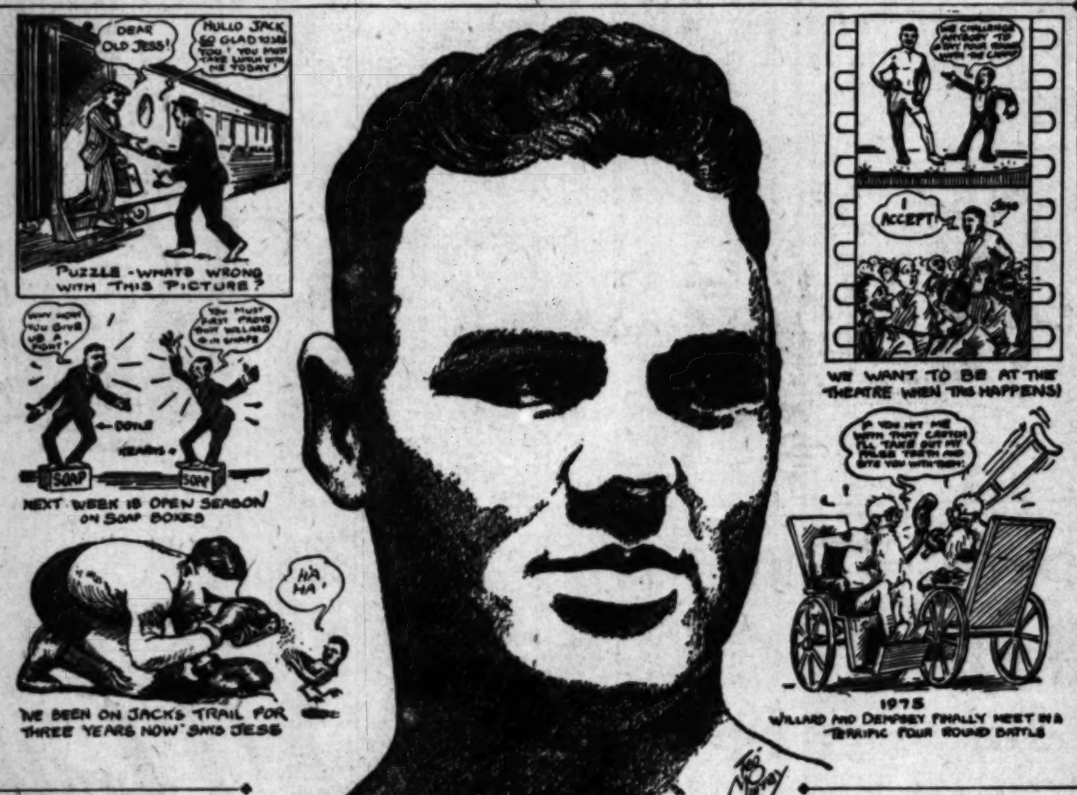
Mrs. Mallory's departure will mean that she will be forced to relinquish her title as American women's indoor champion, for which the tournament is held in Boston in March, but she will, of course, return to defend her outdoor honors on home courts.

Mrs. Mallory will probably play her first tournament abroad at Mentone the week of March 5, continuing in the championships of the south of France at Nice on March 12 and the Cannes championship tournament at Beau Site from March 26 to April 1. This is all home territory for Mlle. Lenglen, who lives at Nice.

BASKETBALL NOT SO GOOD WITH TROJANS

According to Coach Les Turner, basketball mentor of the University of Southern California, counterpart of Gloomy Gus Henderson, the proverbial home of all gloomy athletic aspects, the Trojans are in for a terrible year in the court sport.

The main reason for Turner's black prophesies lies in the fact that Norm Anderson, football star, and much touted basketball shark, has been advised by Dean Cromwell, track mentor, to stay out of basketball in order to be in the best condition for the track season next spring. Norm has not yet decided what to do.



GRID ELEVENS IN TWO TILTS

Pair of Tanbark Titles to be Decided Tomorrow

Gardena and San Diego Meet at Bovard Field

Miniature Gridders in Fight on Oxy Gridiron

Two Southern California interscholastic football championships will be settled on Los Angeles gridirons tomorrow. San Diego and Gardena will meet at Bovard Field in a battle for the "big" title, while over on the other side of town at Patterson Field, Occidental College, the Huntington Park and Pasadena High lightweight elevens clash for the 130-pound grid title.

Both games should be thrilling encounters and will decide the teams to represent the South in the play-off for State football honors.

The struggle at Bovard Field is scheduled to start promptly at 2 o'clock and a large crowd is expected to pack its way within the walls of the University of Southern California field. San Diego, with a big weight advantage and fresh from a 12-to-0 victory over last year's Southern California champs Santa Ana is favored to trim "Tiny" Leonard's fighting Green and White clad Gardena warriors, but not without the toughest kind of a fight.

DANGEROUS CREW

The Berry Pickers are a dangerous crew and are liable to upset the dope and the aspirations of the Border City eleven. In Johnny Ducasau, Leonard has one of the most brilliant prep quarterbacks ever produced in the South. Ducasau is a dangerous open-field runner and a wonderful drop kicker. Already this year the Gardena quarter has dropped the pigskin between the posts from the 40-yard line. Capt. Jessop, Lyle Sheldon, Fields and Tatsch also star for the Berry Pickers.

San Diego, in its game with Santa Ana, showed only a good defense, not a sign of an offensive power being exhibited by the lads from the Grey Castle. Both touchdowns made by San Diego against the Bearcats were the result of inter-

BERKELEY HAS GREAT ELEVEN

Looks Like Winner of Title in the North

San Mateo May Spring a Good Little Surprise

Willows and Sacramento Are Still in Running

BY HENRY H. CANTLEN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—San Mateo Union High vs. Berkeley High at San Mateo, and Willows High vs. Sacramento High at Willows are the high school games scheduled for Saturday in the northern section of the California Interscholastic Federation. Berkeley High, co-holder of the State title for the year 1921 and runner-up in 1920, meets San Mateo High. The winner of this game will meet the winner of the Willows-Sacramento game on the following Friday for the championship of the northern part of the State and the right to play the winner of the southern division for the championship of the State.

BERKELEY FAVORED

Berkeley is the favorite over San Mateo, due to its victories this year and the scores it has run up on all opponents. Four veterans from last year's team are wearing the Berkeley uniform. Bob Green, center, is the captain and is the star of Berkeley's line. Dougery, right end, is the other veteran lineman. Mills and Murphy, both halfbacks, are the two veterans in the backfield.

A. H. Schaefer of Springfield is head coach at Berkeley and is assisted by J. W. Hole of Michigan. These men took the position left open when Coach Husky Hunt took over the job as freshman coach at Stanford University.

REGULAR TEAM

Contrary to predictions these men have put out a very strong team at Berkeley High. Thirty men compose the squad at Berkeley and many of them are freshmen. Berkeley is building a foundation for future teams as well as putting out a team that will most

TY GIVEN DISPUTED BASE HIT

Johnson Explains Why Cobb Was Credited With Bingle in Game May 8

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—President Johnson of the American League today gave out the explanation of his ruling allowing the disputed hit to Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Americans, which made Cobb's 1922 batting average .401, his third year over .400, which tied the major-league record.

"The official score of the game of May 15 (at New York between the Yanks and Detroit) was not authenticated," President Johnson said. Reports that the Baseball Writers' Association of New York was preparing a formal protest against overruling the official scorer also were received at league headquarters. Mr. Johnson is at Excelsior Springs, Mo.

President Joanson's statement explains an arrangement made by the American League statistician for co-operation with the Associated Press in checking box scores from all the American League parks.

GOT A HIT

"This provision was carried out in the game in question and Cobb credited with a hit," the statement said. "If a change in the box score was made it was without notice to the Associated Press and the American League official statistician sensibly accepted the Associated Press account."

Reports from New York that the official scorer had changed his decision were unsubstantiated at the American League headquarters here and it was said that no poll of baseball writers who witnessed the play was taken. The official batting averages issued December 4 showed Cobb credited with the hit, but no announcement concerning the ruling was made by Johnson at the time except that the averages spoke for themselves.

DEMPSEY IS BACK HOME

Heavyweight Champ Gets a Good Laugh Out of Willard's Defi

BY ED O'MALLEY

BY ED O'MALLEY

Jack Dempsey, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, jumped off the Salt Lake overdue limited yesterday afternoon as gallus as a 2-year-old let loose into a meadow land. He had come from Salt Lake City accompanied by his father. Manager Kearns left Jack in Salt Lake City and slipped over to San Francisco on some business, but will arrive in Los Angeles in a day or two. Dempsey will lay off his theatrical work until next Monday when he will appear at Pantages Theater for a week's run—will then go to San Diego for a short engagement—and return here for an indefinite rest. The San Diego engagement will conclude his theatrical contract with Pantages.

As soon as he alighted from a Salt Lake sleeper he was surrounded by a coterie of friends and newspaper men and given a close-up with Bull Montana, the latter doing most of the talking to help out the camera man. Brother Joe and Sister Elise soon joined the party and a sort of a family reunion was indulged in for a spell. Then a vision of loveliness, in the form of Doris Deane, dashed up in a swell auto and greeted Jack most cordially.

Miss Deane is a dashing brunette with Irish blue eyes and a winsome manner that is quite alluring. On the fatal finger of her left hand she sported a glittering bunch of rare stones. The whole party soon took to their autos, Dempsey and his relatives driving directly to his palatial home on Western avenue.

SIMPLY SMILED

When asked why he had apparently ignored Jess Willard's fervid challenges in the last month or so, the champion smiled amusedly and burbled: "Why, I have dodged nobody's challenge. I am ready to meet any one in the world right now or at any time suitable if the right kind of a promoter will offer a good inducement. As for Willard, I would like nothing better than taking him on, but where is the promotor that will stage it?"

We cut in here with, "Jess is awfully in earnest, Jack, and intends to keep on your trail until you give him another chance."

WILLARD EASY

"Another chance," Jack echoed—"It's just as I said before, all I want is to see the promoter that will offer a suitable purse for the bout and then I am ready. Why, (this with a sort of sardonic grin) Willard to my way of thinking would be the easiest of the bunch. He must be crazy the way he is talking that I am trying to avoid him. As I said before, I am ready for them all. It's only a question of the right promoter and the right offer."

Dempsey looks to be in excellent shape. He declared he weighs about 190 pounds and is pretty near in fighting trim. He appears to be heartily sick of the stage business and was not loath to say that he would be glad when the San Diego engagement ended.

He seemed to be very much concerned over Joe Benjamin's scrap with Phil Salvadore at Jack Doyle's pavilion next Tuesday and told Joe, who was among those who greeted him at the station, that he would arrange to get off between acts next Monday night at Pantages and run out to the arena.

Switching from fistcuffs to the Eternal Flame, we turned a serious eye on Jack and softly insinuated, "is it the real goods about Miss Doris Dean? That old gabby dame Rumor is strong on this match Jack, and will not be silenced."

Dempsey laughed consumedly as the question was put, but was there with a right-across rejoinder: "Why, I'll marry any of them if they give me time enough, that's all. The newspapers have had me married to so many beautiful women that I feel at times as if I were developing into a regular Sultan."

Willard Ready and Will Camp on Jack's Trail

"Well I'm here and Dempsey is here, so we will see what the developments will be. I am ready to sign articles today, tomorrow or any time to meet Jack Dempsey in a return bout. I have wanted this bout and have been promised it for over three years but Kearns has never made good his promise so I am going to camp on their trail until I get it," said Jess Willard today.

"I have no fears for this fellow Dempsey, but his actions would lead the public to believe that he has plenty of respect for me. He talks about meeting everyone excepting me. I have a copy of the Chicago Tribune and in it is an interview supposed to be from Jack Kearns. It states that Dempsey's next two opponents will be Harry Wills and Joe Beckett. No mention has been made of Jess Willard."

"Imagine Beckett with Dempsey. It is a wonder he isn't looking for some high school lad to meet at Jersey City. This is the kind of a game they have played all along and I want the public to know it."

"Jack Kearns can't come to town any too soon for me and I want the world to know his reasons for passing me up. There is going to be nothing secret about our meeting. I want to meet Dempsey. Just want him to agree to meet me in May, June or July."

Gene Doyle had a few words to add to the views of Willard.

"I met Barney Oldfield on the street this week and he asked me how Jess was coming along and I informed him o.k. He asked about the prospects of a bout with Dempsey and I told Barney that if Kearns and Dempsey ever stopped running away from Willard long enough to talk terms something definite might come out of the smoke."

GEORGES GIVES HIS SOLUTION

Carpentier Proposes Another Siki Tilt to Settle Much-Mooted Scrap

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Dec. 7.—Georges Carpentier believes that the best place to settle the controversy over his recent bout with Battling Siki is in the ring. Writing to Le Journal the French boxer says:

"Here is what I propose to Siki: Notwithstanding his disqualification and disqualification I might incur, I offer to meet him at any date he likes, in public or private. Should he be ready to put up a stake I bind myself to pay to charity that stake, or purse, if one is offered. I am absolutely certain I would finish Battling Siki this time in less than three rounds."

M. Bernstein, referee of the Siki-Carpentier fight, told L'Auto today that he heard Siki say: "Don't hit at my stomach; you hurt me."

PAID NO HEED

M. Bernstein, however, said he attributed no importance to these words. Reports have been current that M. Bernstein, at a meeting of the referees attached to the boxing federation, declared he heard Siki say something to Carpentier which proved that the match had been framed.

M. Gras, Siki's chief second in the match, heard nothing that would throw light on the charges of a frame-up, L'Auto learns. During the fighting, M. Gras noticed, according to the newspaper, that Siki fought like a novice in the first round. He recovered somewhat in the second and was still better in the third which seemed to indicate an understanding between the boxers.

Interest in the controversy extends far beyond the sporting public and the affair is receiving more attention than the Lausanne conference. L'Auto says that Carpentier, Deschamps and Heilers have been surprisingly inactive, contenting themselves with calling Siki a prevaricator, instead of demanding that the boxing federation join them in making an investigation.

Colleges Hope for Slate of Seven Games

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Dec. 7.—Colleges of the Pacific Coast and Northwest Intercollegiate conferences are hoping to arrange for next year's football season seven-game schedules, allowing for five conference and two preliminary games, according to gossip of representatives here for the conference meeting tomorrow and Saturday.

University of Washington and Washington State College football authorities were said to feel that their schedules this year were too stiff and placed too great a strain on the men. Washington played eight games, seven of them against college teams, while Washington State College played seven games only, but traveled a distance of more than 7000 miles in the course of the season.

University of Idaho, playing eight games, seven of them against colleges, traveled nearly 6000 miles. One more change said to be likely to come from the meeting is the extension of the Oregon-Washington agreement to cover several more years, with the possibility that Washington will meet Coach Huntington's men in Portland next year.

WALTER MAILS TO HEAVE FOR OAKS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Dec. 7.—Walter Mails, a left-handed pitcher of the Cleveland American League club for two seasons, was released by President E. S. Barnard today to the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast League. Mails joined the Cleveland team in 1920 and was the deciding factor in the Indians winning the American League championship that year, when he won seven straight games.

Redlands Court Demons Intend to Get Practice

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Dec. 7.—The University of Redlands basketball squad will play some practice games in San Diego during the Christmas holidays, according to plans made by Manager Lloyd Yount, it being planned to play two or three games there with different teams of the southern city.

Manager Young has also arranged a practice game with the Sons of St. George team in Los Angeles, to be played here either this week or next week. The university took on the San Bernardino High School team for a game and won over the prep school lads without any great difficulty.

Coach Guy Daniels says the outlook is for a more successful basketball team than football team, although he has lost Troyer and Ogden from last year's team.

Lesser Baseball League Calls Halt on Big Fellows

MINORS SCORN PLAN TO INCREASE PLAYER LIMIT

Condemn Majors' Scheme to Fatten on Smaller Leagues; Columbus Team Buys Kenworthy

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

LOUISVILLE (Ky.) Dec. 7.—Reaching a decision to hold their 1923 convention in Chicago, provided Commissioner Landis calls a joint meeting of the major leagues there at the same time, the minor leaguers concluded their annual meeting here tonight without any more startling trades or sales being made.

The decision to hold their convention next year at the same time of the joint session was the result of a suggestion by Commissioner Landis, who informed the minor leaguers of his desire to have all baseball leaders together in the same city at one time. If the major leaguers do not hold a joint session, however, the minors will meet in Nashville, Tenn., for next fall's convention. The constitution of the association provides that the annual meeting shall be held in a city belonging to a minor league, but his was amended so that the meeting might be held in Chicago.

Secretary John H. Farrell and President M. H. Sexton were authorized to select the city for the 1923 convention and they assured Commissioner Landis that his wish that a meeting of the minors be held along with the majors would be respected.

The national association adopted resolutions condemning the plan of the majors to increase the player limit from forty to fifty. The fifty-player limit would permit each big league club to have at least twenty-five men in the minor leagues under option. This, the minor leaguers contended, would practically give the majors control of the player market. The major leagues, under the major-minor agreement, which has five years to run, are allowed to have eight players in the minors under option.

A proposal to increase the salary of Secretary Farrell from $7500 to $10,000 was defeated.

With the departure of the major leaguers today, all talk for further sales at record-breaking prices vanished. The Cleveland Americans, however, concluded the sale of Pitcher Walter Mails to the Oakland (Cal.) club of the Pacific Coast League, while Carlton Molesworth, the new manager of the Columbus American Association club, announced the purchase of William Kenworthy, a second baseman, from the Portland (Or.) club.

Kenworthy was under suspension in the Pacific Coast League until 1924, because of his connection with President Klepper of the Portland club, who yesterday was barred forever from participation in the affairs of the National Association. Kenworthy was suspended by Commissioner Landis last spring from playing in the Pacific Coast League when the commissioner discovered that Klepper sought to sign Kenworthy as manager of the Portland club two days after he had presented a claim for his release from the management of the Seattle club, ownership of which had just been relinquished by Klepper.

President Tearner of the Western and Three-I leagues surprised the Western league clubs' owners when he announced his resignation. Although his term of office was not to expire for at least another year, President Tearney said he was disgusted with factional rows and desired to step out.

The Western leaguers, however, declined to accept the resignation and re-elected him for five years under a contract that binds them to do exactly as the president decrees. Under the terms of the new agreement there shall be no criticism of President Tearney's administration. Committees were appointed to consider the disposition of the Sioux City (Iowa) franchise, which will be removed, and the sale of the Denver franchise to experienced baseball men.

The attendance situation at Sioux City has forced the league to seek a new location. These questions will be settled at the meeting of the Western league, to be held next month.

Arrangements were completed to have the Boston Red Sox open Louisville's new $250,000 park with an exhibition game on April 5. The old Louisville park was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago.

The Chicago Nationals released Infielder Joe Klugman to Wichita Falls, Tex.

Jockey Ralls Rings Up Two More Triumphs

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 7.—Jockey Ralls, leading rider at Tijuana to date, marked up two more victories when he guided Neg to win in the third race today and followed up with Louanna in the fifth.

The length of Louanna's neck decided the fifth and feature race in which were entered a band of fast sprinters. The outsider, Mollie Barnes, set the pace most of the way, but succumbed when challenged by Louanna and Romulus, the latter taking the place.

Favorites performed consistently except in the opening event, in which Emma Williams, much discounted by the public, cantered in first.

TIJUANA, Dec. 7.—First race, five and one-half furlongs—Emma Williams, 107 (Peterich), won; Chief Barkley, 107 (Stevens), second; Alberton, 113 (Chew), third. Time, 1:11 4-5. Second race, five furlongs—Mint Bunch, 113 (Sarlo), won; Prem Flag, 111 (Chew), second; Royal Maid, 113 (C. Bell), third. Time, 1:00 1-5.

Third race, five and one-half furlongs—Neg, 110 (Ralls), won; Pleasanteer, 107 (Lang), second; Goldtex, 104 (Peterich), third. Time, 1:10 4-5.

Fourth race, five and one-half furlongs—Louanna, 114 (R. Bell), won; North Shore, 105 (Sullivan), second; Pueblo, 113 (Chew), third. Time, 1:10.

BAN JOHNSON REFUSES TO MEET WITH LANDIS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Officials of the New York club of the American League have tried without success, they asserted today to induce B. B. (Ban) Johnson, league president, to comply with Commissioner Landis's request for a joint meeting in New York next Thursday of the American and National leagues.

The only concession Johnson would make, they declared, was an offer to advance until Tuesday, December 12, the meeting of the American League, which he had ordered held at Chicago next Wednesday.

ARTISANS HAVE HUGE CASABA TURNOUT

Coach Sid Foster may have been fooled when he did not get the city league championship in football, but he is out with blood in his eyes for the basketball pennant. Coach Motts Blair is the moving spirit in the casaba coaching game, but Sid is looking things over just to have a finger in the pie.

More than seventy-five men turned out for the varsity squad on the opening night of the season and as many more have reported for practice for the lightweight and second string. It is asserted that a large number of youngsters are out for the 133 pound team.

BAY STATE PREPS AFTER GRID GAME

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BOSTON (Mass.) Dec. 7. Charles A. Applebee, Jr., president of the Massachusetts Interscholastic Federation has been empowered by the leading high schools of the State to negotiate with the schools of the Pacific Coast for a football game to be played in the West at some time during this month. According to the plans of the federation, the Bay State school which plays the Western game this season, will play a game against the same Pacific Coast school at a corresponding date next season, the latter game to be staged here.

Any school in the State of California is open to the challenge and a hope has been expressed by the authorities of the eastern association that a school in Southern California would be picked.

Borde Grabs First Place at Brentwood

The scores of the Thanksgiving Day Tournament having been turned in and computed, it is revealed that H. J. Borde won the Brentwood Country Club affair with a score of 84. The low net score was a tie between Thomas McCall and H. Tipton Stack, both having a score of 75. This match was a tough one, and the two men raced around the course neck and neck, but were unable to get a lead on each other. In class B, W. H. Bainbridge won the low gross score with an 88, with A. A. Sugg grabbing the low net honors with a neat 71.

This tournament proved a great success, as almost a hundred entrants teed off on the big day. The course was in perfect shape and held up remarkably well under the heavy usage of the tournament. Because of this, Mr McCall, chairman of the greens committee, announced that the members could bring guests, as he is satisfied that the most severe usage will not damage the greens and fairways.

MEMPHIS CLUB GETS TWO NEW HEAVERS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 7.—McDonald Smith, professional golfer and holder of the 1914 metropolitan championship of the Atlantic Coast, obtained a license yesterday to wed Mrs. Louis Harvey, San Francisco society woman.

LAVIGNE TO MIX WITH NEWCOMER

Jack Josephs Will Make His Debut at Hollywood Legion Tonight

Jack Josephs, the sensational Minneapolis welterweight, will make his bow to the local fans tonight when he steps into the ring at the American Legion Hollywood arena to meet George Lavigne, the best 146-pounder in these parts. Josephs is reputed to be a slugger as well as a fancy performer with his dukes. He has been under the tutelage of Mike Gibbons for some time and has developed a world of speed and science. In Lavigne he meets a lad who has held his own with some of the best boxers in the country, a ringster who is well qualified to give a good account of himself tonight.

Larry Murphy, the Hollywood newsie who gained fame because of his marvelous ring prowess, has been matched with Pete Herman, a 122-pounder who has battled his way to the top of the heap. These little sluggers will clash in the semi-wind-up and should make it a real battle from gong to gong.

Jimmy Dunning, the popular 116-pounder who won a close decision over Johnny Williams last time out, has been rematched with the latter. It was a hair-line decision that Dunning won and so certain was Williams that he can reverse the verdict that Matchmaker Frank Crowley consented to let them go to it again.

Sailor Harry Smith and Red Uhlan, a pair of 155-pound "bruisers" will also appear on tonight's card. Jack Spar has drawn a tough companion in Sailor Martinez, a lightweight. Sailor Buell, the 134-pound U.S.S. Connecticut boxer and Willie O'Brien will square off. Harry Carey and Jimmy Wells, 122 pounders, will furnish the curtain raiser. George Blake referees.

likely play for the championship of the State this year.

San Mateo's stock was boosted a great deal when it decisively defeated Salinas last Saturday. San Mateo is coached by "Brick" Mitchell, former Oregon end and star. Mitchell has put San Mateo on the football map in this part of the State. Considered a weak team at the beginning of the season, San Mateo has won its way to the semifinals in the C.I.F. Although going into the game the under dog on Saturday, San Mateo will give Berkeley the hardest game she has had this season from any high school. San Mateo has a heavy line and some big, fast backs. Mitchell has shown them some good football which showed against Salinas on last Saturday.

Willows is the probable winner over Sacramento on Saturday. There are seven men on the Willows team who will be playing their last game against Sacramento. Willows has always been a contender for honors in this part of the State and its game with Sacramento on Saturday is the big game of the season in that part of the State.

Sacramento won the right to play Willows by its defeat of Modesto on last Saturday. It played a good brand of football against Modesto and from all indications the boys from the Capital City will make things very interesting for Willows when they hook up Saturday.

Two championships along with the right to play for the championship of the northern section will be decided Saturday. The winner of the Berkeley-San Mateo game will be the champion of the northern coast section and the winner of the Willows-Sacramento game will be the champions of the north central section.

Berkeley and Willows are the teams most likely to play for the championship of the northern section. Berkeley is anxious to meet Bakersfield again so the tie of last year can be settled either one way or the other.

GRID ELEVENS IN TWO TILTS

cepted passes one by Ewsiner and the other by Galindo, and neither goal was kicked. Quarterback Galindo is the individual star for the Southerners.

The battle for lightweight honors at Patterson Field is also attracting a lot of interest and should draw a fair crowd. Both the Huntington Park and Pasadena players are primed for the go and will take the field with blood in their eye. Last year the same elevens met for the title and the Park squad won out after a torrid game. Later Huntington Park won the State championship.

Coach Baker and his Bulldog cohorts are determined to win tomorrow and wipe out the stain of the defeat administered them by the Parkers last year.

COBB TO BE GIVEN MUCH-MOOTED HIT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Dec. 7.—The disputed hit of Ty Cobb in a game at New York last May was finally declared in Cobb's favor today by President Ban Johnson of the American League. Dispatches from New York that the Baseball Writers' Association there was preparing a protest and requests from New York for a formal ruling brought an announcement from the American League executive's office that "Cobb will be credited with a hit."

WOMAN BECOMES HOLE-IN-ONE MEMBER

Mrs. John Byers, while playing on the Brentwood Country Club course yesterday, made the eighth hole in a single shot. This hole is a 146-yard shot and is rated as a three par hole on the score cards. Mrs. Byers is a well-known golfer in Southern California, and by her recent feat will be well known throughout the country as very few women have ever made a hole in one.

Bull-Dog Drummond

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

Le Comte de Guy, international gentleman-smuggler, confers with three of the world's representative financiers and proposes to multiply their millions through an ingenious plan he has invented provided these men will supply him with the necessary working capital. They come to a tentative agreement wherein it is necessary for the Count to secure the financial support of one Hiram C. Potts, an American shipping power, before the completion of a contract. Whereupon le Comte de Guy summons the aides, Carl Peterson, and removes to England. Some time later in London Capt. Hugh Drummond, demobilized army officer, becoming bored with his life as a civilian, seeks some thrilling occupation through the agency of the newspaper adroit. Responds to his meeting with Phyllis Benton, the father she explains, is in some manner withheld by her, being drawn into a game of gambling with two others, Lakington and Pearson by name, supposedly against his will, but through lack of proof she can do nothing to clear the mystery that surrounds them. Shortly after Drummond learns these two men he realizes that the girl has not over-rated their capacity for crime. Later he visits Phyllis at her home in Gaslighting and is informed that The Elms, just next door, houses the enemy, decides to investigate. In a side room of the place he sees Professor Leek, an old-known man who appears to be in a dazed and helpless condition. He senses foul play and through a ruse removes the man, takes him to his apartments and discovers the drugged victim to Hiram C. Potts, American millionaire. Next day Peterson, makes a bold attempt to recover his prisoner but Drummond, anticipating such a move, had spirited the gray-whiskered Potts away to his summer house at Goring where three of his friends were taking up quarters. It is not long until Peterson's organization has located the fugitive and on a certain evening the four young men are treated to a dose of adalene gas by the enemy and the following morning Potts is missing.

It was a few hours later that a motor car drew up outside that celebrated chemist in Piccadilly, whose pick-me-ups are known from Singapore to Alaska. From it there descended four young men, who ranged themselves in a row before the counter and spoke no word. Speech was unnecessary. Four foaming drinks were consumed, four acid-drops were eaten, and then, still in silence, the four young men got back into the car and drove away. It was a solemn rite, and on arrival at the Junior Sports Club the four performers sank into four large chairs, and pondered gently on the villainies of the morning after. Especially when there hadn't been a night before. An unprofitable meditation evidently, for suddenly, as if actuated by a single thought, the four young men rose from their four large chairs and again entered the motor car.

The celebrated chemist whose pick-me-ups are known from Singapore to Alaska gazed at them severely.

"A very considerable bend, gentlemen," he remarked.

"Quite wrong," answered the whitest and most haggard of the row. "We are all confirmed Pussyfoots, and have been consuming nonalcoholic beer."

Once more to the scrunch of acid-drops the four young men entered the car outside; once more, after a brief and silent drive, four large chairs in the smoking-room of the Junior Sports Club received an occupant. And it was so, even until luncheon time. . . .

"Are we better?" said Hugh, getting to his feet, and regarding the other three with a discerning eye.

"No," murmured Toby, "but I am beginning to hope that I may live. Four Martinis, and then we will gnaw a cutlet."

II

"Has it struck you fellows," remarked Hugh, at the conclusion of lunch, "that seated around this table are four officers who fought with some distinction and much discomfort in the recent historic struggle?"

"How beautifully you put it, old flick!" said Darrell.

"Has it further struck you fellows," continued Hugh, "that last night we were done down, trampled on, had for mugs by a crowd of dirty blackguards composed largely of the dregs of the universe?"

"A veritable Solomon," said Algy, gazing at him admiringly through his eyeglass. "I told you this morning I detested your friends."

"Has it still further struck you," went on Hugh, a trifle grimly, "that we aren't standing for it. At any rate, I'm not. It's my palaver this, you fellows, and if you like . . . Well, there's no call on you to remain in the game. I mean—er—"

"Yes, we're waiting to hear what the devil you do mean," said Toby, uncompromisingly.

"Well—er," stammered Hugh, "there's a big element of risk—er—don't you know, and there's no earthly reason why you fellows should get roped in and all that. I mean—er—I'm sort of pledged to see the thing through, don't you know, and—" He relapsed into silence, and stared at the tablecloth, uncomfortably aware of three pairs of eyes fixed on him.

"Well—er—" mimicked Algy, "there's a big element of risk—er—don't you know, and I mean—er—we're sort of pledged to bung you through the window, old bean, if you talk such consolidated drivel."

Hugh grinned sheepishly.

"Well, I had to put it to you fellows. Not that I ever thought for a moment you wouldn't see the thing through—but last evening is enough to show you that we're up against a tough crowd. A damned tough crowd," he added thoughtfully. "That being so," he went on briskly, after a moment or two, "I propose that we should tackle the blighters tonight."

"Tonight!" echoed Darrell.

"Where?"

"At the Elms, of course. That's where the wretched Potts is for a certainty."

"And how do you propose that we should set about it?" demanded Sinclair.

Drummond drained his port and grinned gently.

"By stealth, dear old beans—by stealth. You—and I thought we might rake in Ted Jerningham, and perhaps Jerry Seymour, to join the happy throng—will make a demonstration in force, with the idea of drawing off the enemy, thereby leaving the coast clear for me to explore the house for the unfortunate Potts."

"Sounds very nice in theory," said Darrell dubiously, "but . . ."

"And what do you mean by a demonstration?" said Longworth. "You don't propose we should sing carols outside the drawing-room window, do you?"

"My dear people," Hugh murmured protestingly, "surely you know me well enough by now to realize that I can't possibly have another idea for at least ten minutes. That is just the general scheme; doubtless the mere vulgar details will occur to us in time. Besides, it's some one else's turn now." He looked round the table hopefully.

"We might dress up or something," remarked Toby Sinclair, after a lengthy silence.

"What in the name of heaven is the use of that?" said Darrell witheringly. "It's not private theatricals, nor a beauty competition."

"Cease wrangling, you two," said Hugh suddenly, a few moments later. "I've got a perfect cerebral hurricane raging. An accident. A car. . . . What is the connecting link. . . . Why, drink. Write it down, Algy, or we might forget. Now, can you beat that?"

"We might have some chance," said Darrell kindly, "if we had the slightest idea what you were talking about."

"I should have thought it was perfectly obvious," returned Hugh coldly. "You know, Peter, your worry is that you're too quick on the uptake. Your brain is too sharp."

"How do you spell connecting?" demanded Algy, looking up from his labors. "And, anyway, the damn pencil won't write."

"Pay attention, all of you," said Hugh. "Tonight, some time about 10 of the clock, Algy's motor will proceed along the Godalming-Guilford Road. It will contain you three—also Ted and Jerry Seymour, if we can get 'em. On approaching the gate of the Elms, you will render the night hideous with your vocal efforts. Stray passers-by will think that you are all tight. Then will come the dramatic moment, when, with a heavy crash, you ram the gate."

"How awfully jolly!" spluttered Algy. "I beg to move that your car be used for the event."

"Can't be done, old son," laughed Hugh. "Mine's faster than yours, and I'll be wanting it myself. Now—to proceed. Horrified at this wanton damage to property, you will leave the car and proceed in mass formation up the drive."

"Still giving tongue?" queried Darrell.

"Still giving tongue. Either Ted or Jerry or both of 'em will approach the house and inform the owner in heartbroken accents that they have damaged his gatepost. You three will remain in the garden—you might be recognized. Then it will be up to you. You'll have several men all round you. Keep 'em occupied—somehow. They won't hurt you; they'll only be concerned with seeing that you don't go where you're not wanted. You see, as far as the world is concerned, it's just an ordinary country residence. The last thing they want to do is to draw any suspicion on themselves—and, on the face of it, you are merely five convivial wanderers who have looked on the wine when it was red. I think," he added thoughtfully, "that ten minutes will be enough for me. . . ."

"What will you be doing?" said Toby.

"I shall be looking for Potts. Don't worry about me. I may find him; I may not. But when you have given me ten minutes—you clear off. I'll look after myself. Now is that clear?"

"Perfectly," said Darrell, after a short silence. "But I don't know that I like it, Hugh. It seems to me, old son, that you're running an unnecessary lot of risk."

"Got any alternative?" demanded Drummond.

"If we're all going down," said Darrell, "why not stick together and rush the house in a gang?"

"No go, old bean," said Hugh decisively. "Too many of 'em to hope to pull it off. No, low cunning is the only thing that's got an earthly of succeeding."

"There is one other possible suggestion," remarked Toby slowly. "What about the police? From what you say, Hugh, there's enough in that house to jug the whole bunch."

"Toby!" gasped Hugh. "I thought better of you. You seriously suggest that we should call in the police! And then return to a life of toping and ease! Besides," he continued, removing his eyes from the abashed author of this hideous suggestion, "there's a very good reason for keeping the police out of it. You'd land the girl's father in the cart, along with the rest of them. And it makes it so devilish awkward if one's father-in-law is in prison!"

"When are we going to see this fairy?" demanded Algy.

"You, personally, never. You're far too immoral. I might let the others look at her from a distance in a year or two. With a grin he rose, and then strolled toward the door. "Now go and rope in Ted and Jerry, and for the love of heaven don't ram the wrong gate."

"What are you going to do yourself?" demanded Peter suspiciously.

"I'm going to look at her from close to. Go away, all of you, and don't listen outside the telephone box."

III

Hugh stopped his car at Guildford station and, lighting a cigarette, strolled restlessly up and down. He looked at his watch a dozen times in two minutes; he threw away his smoke before it was half finished. In short, he manifested every symptom usually displayed by the male of the species when awaiting the arrival of the opposite sex. Over the telephone he had arranged that she should come by train from Godaiming to confer with him on a matter of great importance; she had said she would, but what was it? He, having no suitable answer ready, had made a loud buzzing noise indicative of a telephone exchange in pain, and then rung off. And now he was waiting in that peculiar condition of mind, which reveals itself outwardly in hands that are rather too warm, and feet that are rather too cold.

"When is this bally train likely to arrive?" He accosted a phlegmatic official, who regarded him coldly, and doubted the likelihood of its being more than a quarter of an hour early.

At length it was signalled, and Hugh got back into his car. Feverishly he scanned the faces of the passengers as they came out into the street, until, with a sudden quick jump of his heart, he saw her, cool and fresh, coming toward him with a faint smile on her lips.

"What is this very important matter you want to talk to me about?" she demanded, as he adjusted the rug around her.

"I'll tell you when we get out on the Hog's Back," he said, slipping in his clutch. "It's absolutely vital."

He stole a glance at her, but she was looking straight in front of her, and her face seemed expressionless.

"You must stand a long way off when you do," she said demurely. "At least, if it's the same thing as you told me over the phone."

Hugh grinned sheepishly.

"The exchange went wrong," he remarked at length. "Astonishing how rotten the telephones are in town these days."

"Quite remarkable," she returned. "I thought you weren't feeling very well or something. Of course, if it was the exchange. . . ."

"They sort of bung and blow, don't you know," he explained helpfully.

"That must be most fearfully jolly for them," she agreed. And there was silence for the next two miles. . . .

BUMPER TALKS

It Gets My Goat

Or one of them, at least. Seems as though every time I put my hat on to go any place someone yells out, "Hey, Bill, How about a Bumper Talk for tomorrow's Express?" Then I have to sit down and rack my brain for an idea. It shouldn't be that way. Every motorist should know that STEWART AUTOGUARDS will afford 100% protection to his car. That sort of information should be sold along with the bus—but it isn't. So I guess I'll have to keep plugging away.

"GROTTO CIRCUS" TONIGHT

Torchlight Parade Will Open Pre-Holiday Fiesta Under Canvas at Praeger Park

Tonight the "Gotto Circus," a pre-holiday fiesta under canvas, will open for a nine-day run at Praeger Park. The circus is staged by the Jinnistan Grotto, Mystic Order Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm, to raise money for the charitable and building fund of the organization.

The grand opening will be preceded by a torchlight procession, the first Los Angeles has known in many years, with Capt. George K. Home of the Hollywood police as grand marshal. Several stage and screen actors, headed by Tom Mix and his troop of cowboys, will be in line. Mayor Cryer, Chief of Police Oaks and Fire Chief Scott, members of the Grotto, in addition to numerous members of the judiciary and many official notables, will march and ride as well.

The parade will start at 7 p.m. at Fourth and Los Angeles streets, and will traverse Fourth street to Broadway, and from there to Washington and Grand, the circus grounds.

Attractions include the Goodman fashion revue, staged by Kathryne Campbell, with twenty models in latest creations for street, evening and sport wear; Ye Olde English Water Show, put on by W. H. Rice; Shirley Lewis revue of 1923, an all-girl show, Bobby Dunn, motion-picture comedian, heading a battery of clowns; Edythe Sterling, equestrienne, with "Buff" Brady, roping master and their famous high-school horses; Harry Hahn, baritone; the Argentine acrobatic troupe, two jazz orchestras to furnish music for free dancing; a mammoth menagerie, and other features.

Three automobiles are to be given away to patrons of the show.

by the public for the branding of my face on Oct. 22, 1922, this is to inform you that the branding was a frame-up against the University of Southern California, exclusively by and among the students of the University of California, Southern Branch.

"Immediately after this event happened I informed Mr. Beckman executive secretary to Dr. E. C. Moore, director, that I was confident that the University of Southern California had nothing to do with it whatever.

"I am making this statement freely and voluntarily, and in fairness to your university, and for correcting with the public, as far as within me lies, the injustice done to an innocent party.

"Sincerely yours,
[Signed] "WILLIAM SYKES."

The second statement by Mr. Sykes, made in the office of Dr. Moore, follows:

SYKES EXPLAINS

"To Who It May Concern:

"On Friday, December 1, I was requested to meet Mr. Bowen in his office, accompanied by a detective and Bob Fellows.

"I signed the statement which was designed to release the University of Southern California from the suspicion of the instigators until it could be proved that it was a frame-up among the students of the University of California, Southern Branch.

"I have no grounds to say that it was a frame-up or that it was done by students of the University of California, Southern Branch.

"The information that I have given was to help locate the men responsible for the affair and not given for publicity. I knew nothing about any publicity coming nor was I interviewed on any matters for publicity. I feel that the statements that have been published are distorted.

"I am making this statement freely and voluntarily in fairness to both universities.

"WILLIAM SYKES."

Dr. Moore's letter follows:

DR. MOORE'S LETTER

"December 7, 1922.

"President Rufus B. von KleinSmid,
The University of Southern California, Los Angeles, Cal.

"My Dear Sir: It is a thing for regret that premature publicity has been given so important a matter as the unfinished investigation of responsibility for the crime of branding our student, William Sykes, especially since that publicity has named persons who are presumably innocent. I feel that you must share with me a feeling of chagrin and disappointment that presumably innocent persons should be thus publicly branded and pilloried.

WANTS JUSTICE

"I make haste to repeat to you and to the University of Southern California our declaration, already thrice given, that if the investigation, which we, joined with the representatives of the University of Southern California on October 24 in asking the police department of Los Angeles to make, shall, when completed, disclose that students of the University of California were guilty we shall deal with them as they deserve. However, we feel that in justice to all concerned this investigation should have been completed, the culprits found and their guilt definitely proven before such lurid and harmful statements were made as were given to the press on Sunday by an officer of the University of Southern California.

HAD "NO GROUNDS"

"Quite independent of the police investigation, the University of California has not ceased to collect evidence of that crime and shall go on until if possible it finds its perpetrators and, should our search discover that some of our own students were responsible for it, we shall be no less prompt than you would be in clearing the University of Southern California of responsibility for it. What we want are the facts and only the facts. We have not as yet been furnished them. Our Mr. Sykes, of his own volition, offers his sworn statement that he has "no grounds to say that it was a frame-up or that it was done by students of the University of California, Southern Branch." Mr. Sykes asserts that he did not prepare the statement which was published, but that Mr. Bowen did. I may add in passing that he says that he protested against the use of the words "frame-up" in the letter, but, regardless of that, no such flat, and unqualified assertion and charge as Mr. Bowen makes can be justified unless the persons guilty are known.

GENTLEMEN'S AGREEMENT

"If Mr. Sykes or the detectives who worked on the case, or the authorities of the University of Southern California, know who did the branding on October 22, they should at once swear out a warrant for his apprehension. They owe it to the entire student body of the University of California to withdraw imputation from all of them who are innocent, and, besides, such knowledge cannot legally be withheld.

"Last spring a gentleman's agreement was entered into by the student bodies of the College of Southern California and the University of California, Southern Branch, signed that agreement. By it they undertook to 'do everything in their power to further and promote this spirit of intercollegiate friendship and co-operation and to discontinue any form of rivalry leading to the destruction or effacement of college property or anything that might lead to ill feeling or a breach of friendly relations between the colleges.' Our students, with one exception—and that a small act of levity, not malice—have observed both the letter and the spirit of that agreement. At 2 o'clock on the night of October 19 it was violated by an organized band of some 500 students from the University of Southern California, who invaded our grounds and fell upon our students. What they did was the next day described in the press of the United States as a "student riot," greatly to the hurt of the good will upon which colleges must everywhere exist.

ASKS ASSURANCE

"The University of California, which suffered that grave wrong, asked the University of Southern California to do only one thing to make atonement for that wrong; namely, to give assurance that for the future its students will not repeat it. That assurance has been given by yourself, on behalf of the University of Southern California, and was in process of being accepted by the University of California when the untimely and, as we must think, unwarranted utterances of Sunday last were made.

"It is to be regretted that the same spirit of mutual consideration and regard for the welfare of our common work did not continue until all our unfortunate and ever-to-be-regretted institutional differences were healed. When the facts are known let us publish them. If they are known to you now, or to your colleagues, may we not have them and the supporting evidence for them? But, until they are established and definitely presented to us who are so deeply concerned for them, we protest against the publishing and broadcasting of unwarranted and hasty conclusions and prejudiced findings. I know you will agree with me that college honor ought to dictate orderly procedure and consideration, to the end that innocent persons be not injured or embarrassed. Very sincerely yours,

ERNEST C. MOORE,
Director of Southern Branch of the University of California."

MOTORMAN HELD IN MANSLAUGHTER CASE

Frank Julian was held to answer by Judge Dowd yesterday under $1000 bail on charges of manslaughter. Julian is accused of having caused the death of Harry Powell, a fireman, on November 19, last.

Julian was formerly a motorman in the employ of the Los Angeles Railway Company. He is asserted to have driven his car at a reckless rate of speed past a fire truck near which the victim was standing. The fireman was crushed to death when caught between the street car and the fire truck.

SECRET IS OUT

What was meant to be kept as a deep, dark secret was revealed yesterday when fellow-workers in the City Auditor's office showered congratulations on Herbert A. Cervantes, who yesterday took as his bride Miss Marie Harson, Justice Channing Follette tying the nuptial knot. The young couple are living at 400 East Thirtieth street.

CHAMBER TO ENTERTAIN LAWMAKERS

Will be Host Friday and Saturday to New State Legislators

PAIR OF SOCKS CONVICT MAN

A mere matter of one pair of men's hose has launched Waldo Kappes on the road to prison where he will probably remain for a considerable period.

Kappes was found guilty of burglary in Judge Shenk's court yesterday. On September 26 last Kappes stole $25 in cash and several pairs of socks from the home of R. K. Willson, 1312 Innes Place, Venice. Mr. Willson caught a glimpse of the burglar as he was departing.

About a week later Mr. Willson saw a man walking down a street in Venice who looked familiar. He took one look at the man's socks and called a policeman. The socks had been stolen from the Willson home.

Kappes will be sentenced this morning.

Union Oil Buys Tank Steamers of Ship Board

A. O. Pass, superintendent-engineer of the Union Oil Company of California, announced yesterday the purchase from the United States Shipping Board of the Utacarbon and Cathwood, two modern steel tankers now at Mobile, Ala. The vessels are of 10,000 tons displacement, each having a 75,000-barrel capacity.

Thousands of Southern California women have learned by test that HOLSUM is the right bread for their tables. They use 75 thousand pounds of HOLSUM every day.

The Winner!

HOLSUM, made in Los Angeles, won the Harry M. Freer Trophy for being the best loaf of bread submitted in open competition with products of America's foremost bakers.

This is the second time that HOLSUM, in a championship test, has been proven leader among the nation's breads.

For years HOLSUM has set the standard for Southern California's fine bread. The HOLSUM Bakery was—

FIRST TO receive a Health Department rating of 98% out of a possible one hundred per cent for cleanliness and sanitation. That score, made in '16, remains today the high water mark among Los Angeles bakeries.

FIRST TO require of its baking department employees a doctor's certificate of health. This has been a law in the HOLSUM Bakery since 1915. It became a California State Law in August, 1921.

FIRST TO inaugurate shower baths for employees. Every baker at the HOLSUM plant starts his day with a shower and freshly laundered linen.

FIRST TO use a bread wrapping machine, so that human hands do not touch the loaf from the time it enters the oven to the moment you yourself break the seal.

FIRST TO install a "weather-making" machine—the marvelous humidifying apparatus which washes and regulates the temperature of every bit of air in the HOLSUM Bakery.

FIRST TO invite the public to inspect its entire plant.

FIRST TO inaugurate a Profit-Sharing system for its workers, making every one of them an interested party in the business of making your bread.

WOMEN'S WORK, WOMEN'S CLUBS.

BY MYRA NYE

Dolls and bazaars! They are thicker just now than shoppers on Broadway or holly berries on the hills. There are exchange emporiums, guild halls and fairs, toll booths and bureaus, bourses and Tattersalls. Small, indeed, is the woman's club or organization that cannot boast at least one booth where shaving paper is for sale.

So far, excelling all is Ye Shoppe Antique at the William Gibbs McAdoo residence in Berkeley Square, which was continued yesterday so successful has it been. Mrs. Hancock Banning, president of the Assistance League, is in charge.

Today in the Ebell Clubhouse is the bazaar of the Big Sisters' League beginning at 2 p.m., and at the Elite is the benefit party of the Friday Morning Club beginning immediately after the morning program of three one-act plays produced by Neely Dipkson. Mrs. O. P. Clark is chairman of arrangements for the party, which will be the largest social function of the year for this club.

Ye Olde Shoppe became the shop modern Wednesday night when bargains reigned as raindrops fell. A $250 oriental rug sold for $50; a parchment lamp shade, hand-made in fashion and adornment, valued conservatively at $60, sold for $32; Minton service plates, a dozen of them, valued at $175, sold for $115; silk negligees sold for less than the value of the material, and the gorgeous flowers at the booths were given away.

Patsy Ruth Miller, who auctioneered, competed with a tennis champion from San Francisco imported for the event, and competition was certainly alive if not the life of the trades made. They separated the guests from their money most legitimately. Other separations were made, it is rumored, in great numbers. One matron was separated from a lit-up expression on her countenance which was in evidence the first opening night of the shop, but had disappeared entirely by Wednesday evening.

"Mary Pickford, the doll, became the property of Mrs. McAdoo, and by Christmas time will again be transferred, not to little Mary McAdoo, who does not care for dolls, but to Louis, who does. "Carrie Jacobs Bond" now belongs to Mrs. Chester Hoag, and "Charlie Chaplain" in miniature is still seeking a owner. This sad state is readily explained when it is known that Pola Negri was not there when "Charlie" was for sale.

Republican Study Club

The women of the East and in Washington are not seriously interested in the National Woman's party, in spite of many rumors coming to the Coast to the contrary.

This is the opinion of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who met informally with a group of Republican Study Club women in her apartments at the Alexandria Wednesday evening just before leaving together with Secretary Hoover for Washington.

Mrs. Hoover was pleasantly surprised at the activities of women in Los Angeles, and their great interest in civic and political affairs which she said was an outstanding feature of the city's life. She herself is the national president of the Girls' Scout organization, and is planning to organize here in the near future.

She reviewed the recent election manifesting an intimate knowledge of affairs in many of the States, particularly where women ran for office. It was her opinion that Jeannette Rankin as a Congresswoman was only the very beginning of the entering wedge of women in Congress. Miss Robertson was decidedly a "character," for whom her associates had the utmost respect, said Mrs. Hoover, never doubting her honesty and sincerity of purpose.

"Did the men make fun of her?" one of Mrs. Hoover's guests asked, and Mrs. Hoover's instant reply, "Oh, not at all. I never heard even of an attempt," left no doubt that legislators resisted the very decided bait of a "bachelor maid" in Congress, who did not believe in woman suffrage nor in women in public affairs at all.

Today the regular meeting of the club is omitted because of the reception given on Tuesday to Secretary Hoover. The postponed meeting will be held next Friday, when there will be a debate on the subject, "Party Government versus Nonpartisanship for Women." Those participating in the debate will be announced later. The committee of program for this meeting includes Mrs. Frank A. Kelley and Mrs. Ida Koverman.

Los Angeles Woman Appointed

Mrs. Florence Dobinson received word yesterday of her appointment as a member of the board of lecturers of the National Shakespeare Federation by Mrs. James Madison Bass of New York, for fifteen years president of the organization.

Mrs. Dobinson is the first member of the board to be chosen from California. The purpose of the organization is to present the "living Shakespeare" to the people to make him beloved by the people rather than a scholastic being whose works are merely studied. To place in the public schools lovers of Shakespeare rather than teachers, merely, it is believed will benefit English literature for generations to come. With this end in view, an intensive campaign for the proper revival of Shakespeare is planned. Mrs. Dobinson's appointment is a part of this movement.

Noted Lecturer to Speak

Announcement has been made that Mrs. Jeanette W. Emrich, noted lecturer and overseas welfare worker, will address a gathering of Los Angeles county women this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the ladies' parlor of Hotel Clark. No formal invitation is being issued and all women interested in hearing a report of American relief operations in the Near East are invited.

The meeting is being sponsored by women members of the recently enlarged Near East Relief committee, including Mrs. Hancock Banning, Mrs. Josiah Evans, Cowles and Mrs. Milbank Johnson.

Long Beach Lodge Announces Officers for Year

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 7.—Lloyd W. Vail, Long Beach business man, has been elected Worshipful Master of Palos Verdes Lodge No. 398, F. and A.M. For the past year he has been acting as Senior Warden of Palos Verdes Lodge. The new Senior Warden is Harry J. Stewart. Charles D. Wallace was named Junior Warden, while the post of Treasurer went to Raymond O. Baldwin. The new Secretary is Ed S. Acres.

The date for the installation of the new officers will be announced in a few days, it was said today by Glen L. Taylor, retiring Master of the lodge.

SOCIETY

Miss Evans is Married

A fashionable attendance filled St. John's Church last night for the wedding of Miss Lucile Evans and Paul Clendenning Ferrell. Pink and lavender chrysanthemums were luxuriously used in decoration and the altar was softly lit with tall candles.

Miss Evans went to the altar unescorted and was lovely in a dress of brocaded chiffon velvet embroidered in crystal beads and made with a long princess train. She wore the conventional wedding veil and carried a shower of orchids, cyclamen and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. John Osgood Wiley (Irma Evans) was matron of honor and wore a stunning frock of pale gold velvet with a head-dress of gold metallic cloth made in grape clusters. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow roses.

Mrs. Theodore Grabe, sister of Mr. Ferrell, and Miss Gladys Wetherby were matron of honor and bridesmaid. They wore velvet frocks trimmed with silver and similarly fashioned silver cloth bandeaux in their hair and carried shower bouquets of pink roses. Miss Wetherby's frock was of jade green and Mrs. Grabe's dress was of old rose.

Mrs. Evans, the bride's mother, wore mole-colored velvet combined with blue and old gold brocade and gold lace, and effective touches were her high blue comb and the fan she carried of blue and gray lace.

The groom was attended by his brother, John Ferrell, and the ushers were John Osgood Wiley, Theodore Grabe, George Moesbacher and Zebulon Terry.

The ceremony was read by the Rev. George P. Davidson, pastor of the church, and because of the sudden illness of Mr. Evans, the bride's father, the reception which was to follow at the Evans home on Oxford avenue was canceled.

The couple will be at home after the first of January at 445 South Oxford avenue.

Gives Bon Voyage Dinner

Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Seymour Burress gave a nice little dinner and theater party last evening for Mr. and Mrs. John T. Treanor of South Kingsley Drive, who are going abroad shortly. Dinner was served at the Burgess home on South St. Andrews Place and later the party attended the Orpheum. The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hardacre, Mr. and Mrs. Norman McBeth, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moultin and Charles Hopper.

The Morbios Leave

Mr. and Mrs. Carlo Morbio returned yesterday to San Francisco after a week's stay here at the Ambassador Hotel. Mrs. Morbio was formerly Miss Patricia Henshaw and is popular in extensive social and artistic woride here. She was busy every minute going to parties and visiting with old-time friends. Among the courtesies arranged for her was a delightful Sunday supper party given by Mrs. H. A. Dewitte of South Normandie avenue.

For Miss Clark

Miss Violet Clark, who is to marry Robert Freeman shortly, was given a lovely luncheon and matinee party yesterday by Miss Mabel Clapsaddle. Luncheon was served in the Mary Louise tea rooms. A glass basket tied with pink tulle and filled with Cecile Brunner roses centered the table. A small group of Miss Clark's close friends were guests and in the afternoon the party attended the Orpheum.

Mitchells Come Home

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Mitchell have returned to their home in Los Angeles, the Mitchell ranch at Cahuenga Pass. Since their return from a long tour of Europe they have passed much of the time in their summer residence at Coronado Beach. Mr. Mitchell is president of the Municipal Art Commission. While abroad he acquired a number of fine canvases for his splendid private collection.

VICTIM OF BEATING AWARDED DAMAGES

As a result of a beating administered in a tire store in Covina, Charles H. Howard, owner of the establishment, was yesterday awarded $5000 damages by a jury in Judge Myer's court. The defendant in the action was Charles E. Fulton. Howard declared that after an altercation over a tire, Fulton struck him. A fight followed in which Howard was injured.

DRUG COMPANIES FORM MERGER

Sun and American Interests Join Forces

Union Gives Concern More Than Thirty Stores

National Distribution of Products Planned

The consolidation of the Sun Drug Company and the American Drug Company was announced yesterday by I. Eisner and A. J. Neve, presidents of the two corporations. Mr. Eisner remains as president of the enlarged organization and Mr. Neve will be vice-president and managing director.

The merger brings the Sun Drug Company's chain of stores to thirty-three, twenty-five of which are located in the heart of the retail district of Los Angeles, the others being in San Francisco, Pasadena, Long Beach, San Diego, Hollywood and Ocean Park.

The manufacturing plants of the American and Sun companies will be concentrated at the Sun laboratory at 1114-16 South Los Angeles street, and Mr. Neve announced that the products will be placed on a national distribution basis with an extensive advertising and selling campaign.

The American Drug Company was established twelve years ago by Mr. Neve and J. N. Kirkland in the Pacific Electric Building at Sixth and Main streets. Later two other stores were started.

The first directors' meeting following the consolidation was held yesterday and was attended by I. Eisner, president; Victor H. Rossetti, vice-president; A. J. Neve, vice-president; H. A. McKenna, secretary; Louis M. Cole, Leo Jacoby and Joseph Kramer.

FLIVVER IN WILD DASH MAULS MAN

Hops Through Window of Store, Assaults Mechanic and Makes Escape

A fractious flivver took the bit in its teeth yesterday, dashed through the window of a grocery store at the corner of East First and Cummings streets, injured a customer in the store, backed out through the window again and then proceeded down the street under control.

Now both the grocery-store owner, the injured customer, and members of the police department are seeking the flivver and its driver.

The man injured is Alder Randall, an auto mechanic, who is visiting here. He was standing at the grocery-store counter waiting for change. The flivver suddenly crashed through the window, running over Randall and inflicting lacerations on his arms and legs.

The proprietor of the store, H. H. Knapke leaped over the counter and dragged Randall from underneath the car. The driver of the machine then backed through the window and drove off down East First street. In the excitement neither the store owner or the injured man thought to take the license number of the machine.

Boyle Heights police said that the flivver had crashed into another car just before it went through the window, apparently unmanageable after the first collision.

MORE VIADUCTS TO SPAN RIVER PLANNED

In his efforts to start a cost survey leading toward the building of viaducts over the Los Angeles River to link more closely the Boyle Heights and other eastern parts of the city with the central part of Los Angeles, Councilman Sanborn yesterday recommended to the Council that estimates be made of the cost of building of a viaduct at Ninth street as well as at Macy and other northerly streets.

"OPERA" BY BIRDLAND'S BLUE BLOOD

Los Angeles' First Canary Show to Exhibit Feathered Aristocracy

BY OLIVE GRAY

We are familiar with Derby Day, when fine-blooded horses are paraded in competition. We are familiar with bench shows, with cat shows and with many other kinds of shows. But how many are familiar with canary shows?

Such an exhibition is to be held Saturday afternoon and evening at the Bateman Floral Shop, 647 South Grand avenue. This is the first exhibition of the kind to be held in Los Angeles and is purely for the purpose of interesting bird lovers in the hobby.

Few realize, perhaps, that a variety of our household pet, the canary, has been developed until it has assumed the proportion of a fancy. This variety is called the Roller canary, so termed from the nature of its passages of song, called "tours"—low-rolling notes.

To the discriminating the roller canary is the last word in bird culture. He is the product of hundreds of years of the most careful selection. In certain parts of Germany, England and America annual shows are held during the months of December and January, when the birds are in the prime of song, and at these shows the aristocracy of featherdom compete for honors.

There are a number of strains of the roller, each notable for certain tours. So jealously did some of the famous breeders guard their strain in an early day, that rather than sell a pair of birds they would destroy the surplus mother stock. Prize-winning birds often possess a registered pedigree that would make the blue bloods of "Who's Who" green with envy.

The life of a canary is from ten to fourteen years. When the birdling is about a week old a tiny closed band is placed upon the leg. This band has a number and other distinguishing marks and these marks are duly recorded in the bird register. From the time the bird leaves the nest he is the object of great care. The first three months he is allowed ample freedom for fight and play. During this time they are only permitted to hear the notes they are later to acquire. At four weeks the first twitterings of song are noticeable. At the end of three months they have acquired their growth and passed through the baby molt. Then they are placed in small training cages, about twelve birds to each trainer.

As they become accustomed to their new quarters they are gradually darkened certain hours each day and under the guidance of a master singer they listen and study their song. This is the critical time of song. Once a bird sings faulty notes, he must be banished from the class. Even from the best of stock the average of first-class birds is estimated to be about 10 per cent. It is this that lends zest to the fancy, and it is this small percentage that makes contests so keen. The contest winners are eagerly sought for tutors or trainers for the young.

Local Officer's Name in Pocket of Slain Bandit

Tracing the rumor that the bandit killed after robbing a Danville bank of $9000 was Calvin West, former member of the Los Angeles police force, the police of Oakland yesterday started an investigation to determine the dead man's identity.

He was identified yesterday as Paul Heiner, paroled Folsom convict, but a card bearing the name "Calvin West" was found in his effects, and the police believe he disappeared from the Army Base Hospital at Palo Alto, where he had obtained employment under that name after he was paroled on Sept. 23, 1921. In 1917 Heiner was sentenced to nine years in prison for an Oakland hold-up.

Heiner was killed by a police shotgun squad after he had robbed a bank in Danville, Contra Costa county.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

I, I, I, I, MYSELF; I
THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME

My doctor, who is writing my memoirs for me brought the following letter to us recently and I am going to give it to you because it will help encourage you to raise your babies as I am being raised and as this mamma's babies were raised:

"Dear Doctor:

"I cannot refrain from expressing my appreciation of your most splendid articles on our baby.

"The reason I say our baby is because I have a baby just like your Sockuma, except my baby is three months old instead of two, and he behaves just as your Sockums does. I nurse him on a three-hour schedule, and up until time, and is handled a very little he was two months old he slept now he sleeps practically all the time, and is handled a very little, just what I think he needs for exercise.

"He takes his last feeding for the day at 7:30 p.m., and sleeps until 5:30 or 6 a.m. If he should wake at 2 a.m., which he rarely ever does, he is given a drink of water and goes right off to sleep again. He has already been trained in the use of a small chamber for his regular bowel movement each day.

"I know that there are lots of mothers, who are training their babies a right, but there are so many more that do not use any system at all, and the poor babies as well as the mothers have to suffer for it. And I know how some mothers will be inclined to say, 'Oh, yes, that is all right for a doctor to write, but when it comes to putting it into practice it is quite another matter.'

"So I am here to say to such mothers that I have raised five in just the manner your articles describe. If they will just use a little firmness on the start, they will be more than repaid in the results of a good, sweet baby, without nerves, and there will be lots more rest and pleasure for the mother.

"I have three children under three years old. Now imagine my predicament if I had to pin diapers on all three of those babies, and rock them all to sleep at nights. While as it is, only one of them wears diapers, and as above stated, he does not soil his.

"And when it comes time to take their naps, or go to bed at nights, I have only to get them ready and tuck them in their cribs and take away the light.

"In the summer time my children are all in bed at 8 o'clock, and in the winter at 7 o'clock, then I have several hours that I can call my own to go out and leave the children with any member of the family, knowing that they will be all right until morning, or I can read, work or rest as it suits me—and no one but a mother with children knows how sweet that rest hour is.

"People remark that my children are very intelligent and attractive. Do I think that is due to an extra amount of inherited intelligence? No, but I do attribute a great deal to the home training they have received from babyhood, especially in the amount of systemized rest.

"MRS. J. T. A. L."

Isn't that a nice letter? We like to get 'em, my doctor and I. You send us one. Au revoir.

Husband Asserts Snatching of Child From Arms Failed to Halt Elopement

Robert Dyer had a personal encounter with his wife, Mrs. Quilla M. Dyer, at a local railway station last Saturday and snatched his 16-months-old child from her arms, he declared yesterday in a divorce suit filed.

After this stormy scene Mrs. Dyer boarded a train for Sacramento with R. B. Ragsdale, and has not returned, the husband charges.

Dyer said in his complaint he was much surprised Saturday morning when his wife appeared dressed for the street and holding her child, and told him she was leaving at once for Sacramento, where she proposed to live with Ragsdale.

Dyer said he protested, tried to pacify her and begged her to stay, with no result. She insisted on leaving the house. Dyer followed, he asserted, and saw her meet Ragsdale at the station.

The husband rushed up and snatched the child, he said, but even that did not stop Mrs. Dyer.

The couple were married July 3, 1917.

Woman Convict Wins Fight for Ring's Custody

A convict won a suit in Superior Court yesterday.

Mrs. Francis Matthews, who is serving a term in San Quentin for grand larceny, was awarded custody of a ring, claimed by Mrs. T. W. Millen, by a jury before Judge W. J. Wood, despite testimony by former Police Chief Everington that it did not answer description given by Mrs. Matthews.

The ring and a pair of platinum-set earrings were taken from Mrs. Matthews at the time of her arrest and were placed in the property clerk's office of the police department. On April 8 the police officer who arrested her was killed in a traffic accident and the next day it was found the earrings had disappeared. Mr. Everington testified they must been taken between April 6 and 9.

Both Mrs. Matthews, who came from San Quentin to testify, and her husband swore the earrings were the gift of a former husband and the ring the gift of the present one.

If the police ever find the earrings, presumably they will be awarded to Mrs. Matthews also.

STATUS OF BUILDING DISPUTED

Is New Hollywood School Structure a Theater? Question at Issue

A controversy as to whether the proposed new $240,000 auditorium building for the Hollywood High School is a theater or a school building has temporarily held up work on the structure, although the architect's plans for the building were adopted by the Board of Education yesterday afternoon.

The building inspection department says it is a theater and must conform to class A fireproof construction throughout. The board says it is a school building and that, except for the stage itself, class C construction will suffice.

The City Council, members of the board stated yesterday, has agreed to compromise the issue and pass a special ordinance allowing the board to have its way in this instance. Until such an ordinance is passed, however, work on the building will be tied up. The plans adopted yesterday, made by Architect Norman F. Marsh, call for an auditorium with a seating capacity of 2500 and a basement suitable for housing the school cafeteria. Only the stage is to be a class A construction, according to Mr. Marsh's plans.

The Building is expected to be completed in time for the opening of the fall term next year.

Only One Case Scheduled for Speeders' Court

The drive against speeders and reckless drivers is apparently having a salutary effect. Only one speed case was scheduled to be tried in Police Court before Judge Chessebro yesterday. It was not tried because the defendant failed to appear.

E. B. Mogle is the defendant. He is accused of having driven his car at a speed of thirty miles an hour at Forty-ninth street and Vermont avenue. Judge Chessebro issued a bench warrant for Mogle's arrest.

Charges He Was Lured Into Alley Then Attacked

Ubalda Nova was arrested yesterday by Deputy Sheriffs Sepulveda and Catlin, and lodged in the County Jail on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder. Ricardo Galarz asserts that two weeks ago Nova called him into an alleyway, saying a girl wanted to talk to him, then attacked him with a knife. Galarz lost his left eye in the struggle.

ART TALK FOR KIDDIES

An illustrated talk on art by Harvey R. Malott and a musical program by Jack and George Pepper, violinists, with an educational film, will be the offering at the children's hour at the Southwest Museum tomorrow. The Sunday afternoon entertainment will include Francis H. Fults, lecturer, and Lyon Gardiner Hart, tenor, accompanied by Miss Coral Atkins.

RUNAWAY CAR IMPERILS LIFE

Deputy Sheriff Stensland Hero in Emergency

Broadway Crowd Thrilled by Rescue of Man

Arcadia Policeman Saved From Tragic Death

Exceptional heroism and presence of mind on the part of Deputy Sheriff Norris Stensland yesterday saved Myer J. Miller, Arcadia motorcycle officer, from death underneath the wheels of a street car which have become unmanageable and was careening wildly down Broadway.

The car, operated by Motorman J. Reynolds and running on the West Eleventh-street line, was packed with passengers. It approached the intersection of Second street and Broadway at high speed in an effort to make up lost time.

As it approached the intersection the traffic signal was set against it. Instead of stopping, however, the street car dashed across Second street gaining speed at every moment. It was estimated that the street car was traveling twenty miles an hour when it lumbered madly over the Second-street tracks.

SIDESWIPES MACHINE

Motorcycle Officers Miller and Tom McGall, both of Arcadia, who are here on a visit, were crossing Second street at Broadway on their motorcycles. Miller was slightly in the lead.

The street car sideswiped McGall, sending him crashing into the curb. It then overtook Miller and crashed into him. He was flung from his motorcycle and pinned underneath it, his foot becoming wedged in the front exit of the car.

Hundreds of men and women on the sidewalks stood in horror, their freightened shouts mingling with those on the street car. Miller seemed certain to be dragged under the wheels of the street car.

RESCUES OFFICER

From the crowd on the sidewalk suddenly darted Deputy Sheriff Stensland. He leaped on the front fender of the car. Stooping down he grasped Miller under his arms and held him in this position until the car came to a halt. Spectators who witnessed the act declared that it was heroic.

The street car, after crossing Second street, continued to gain speed. Several men in the car, believing death was certain, crawled from the windows and leaped from the car to the ground but except for a severe shaking up were unhurt. Thousands on the sidewalks watched the car as it continued its mad flight down Broadway.

Between Third and Fourth street a man whose name could not be learned flung himself after the street car and succeeded in pulling the trolley pole from the wire. The car then stopped.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

Miller was extricated, after being dragged for almost two blocks, and removed to the Receiving Hospital where it was discovered that he was suffering from abrasions on his left leg. Physicians delare that he would have certainly been killed had not Stensland come to his assistance.

Motorman Reynolds stated that the car became unmanageable after the brake rod had broken. He stuck to his post until the car was brought to a halt.

Police officers stated that several persons might have been killed but only for the fact that the signal had been flashed ahead that the car was running wild.

CAVE MAN STUFF WAS STRENUOUS

Mrs. Mary Brand Gets Divorce From "Nose-Punching" Husband

Too much "cave man stuff" in the shape of punches in the nose broke up the married happiness of Mrs. Mary Brand, she testified in getting a divorce from Hyman Brand, a broker, before Judge Summerfield yesterday.

"My nose was bruised most of the time from the blows he gave me," she declared. "Once he punched my nose in a cafe and another time in an automobile. He made it bleed, and I had to go home in a taxicab."

Mrs. Brand said she always thought a husband was supposed to be gallant, but Brand did not meet her ideas in this respect at all.

"I don't want this divorce with the idea of marrying again," Mrs. Brand remarked, "for I shall not marry again—ever."

Mrs. Brand was represented by Attorney Richard Kittrells.

GIRL WORKERS TO CARE FOR ORPHANS

CITY EMPLOYEES ARRANGE SHOW AND ENTERTAINMENT FOR THIS EVENING

Scores of beautifully costumed dolls which are to be presented as Christmas gifts to needy orphan girls by employees of the Department of Public Service are to be exhibited by their "mothers" at an entertainment and dance to be given this evening in the Public Service Building Auditorium, 207 South Broadway.

A feature of the entertainment will be the appearance, among the guests present, of a number of "live dolls" represented by young women workers in the department. Musical acts by Helen Horine and Evan Williams, concert and vaudeville artists, also will be features of the event.

The doll show and entertainment is a part of the preparation being made by the employees to gladden the hearts of more than 100 destitute kiddies this Christmas, when these needy tots will be given a feast in the Public Service Cafeteria and later showered with presents at a Christmas tree entertainment on the afternoon of December 24.

NEW RULING FOR AUTOISTS

Motorists Forbidden Right Hand Turns on Several Streets

Motorists, attention!

Beginning today drivers of vehicles will be prohibited from making right-hand turns at Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets and Broadway. Left-hand turns already are prohibited at these intersections.

The new regulation was requested by Police Capt. McDowell of the traffic squad in the interest of speeding up vehicular and pedestrian traffic. The pedestrian line, the captain said, has been delayed in crossing the streets by vehicles making right-hand turns into the crowds.

The ordinance requested by Capt. McDowell was enacted by the Council and signed yesterday by Acting Mayor Criswell.

Car Sought by Beach Police in Hunt for Clara

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Dec. 7.—In the belief that it may have some connection with the disappearance of Clara Phillips, hammer murderess, Santa Monica police were seeking today an automobile which crashed into the car of Mr. and Mrs. Hagen of this city on Lincoln Boulevard Tuesday afternoon.

The car, which had three women and two men as occupants, backed away after the collision and sped on toward Venice. Capt. Webb of the Santa Monica police declares the license number of the car is that of a relative of a former Venice aviator. This aviator, however, has not flown for some months, having been injured.

RABBI MAGNIN TO SPEAK

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin will speak on "Shadow Land" this evening at Temple B'nai B'rith. Dr. Magnin will also be in charge of the services at the temple tomorrow morning. The musical programs for both services will be under the direction of Henry Schenuit.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP GETS BLOW

Utilities Commission is Not in Favor of New Tax on Gas Company

Municipal ownership advocates received another setback yesterday when the Public Utilities Commission tabled a proposal which would force the Los Angeles Gas Company to obtain a franchise to dispense gas for cooking and heating purposes.

Sheldon Crandall and William Lacey, representing the Chamber of Commerce, told the commission that while the gas company was still operating under the original agreement covering illuminating gas, they had been dispensing gas for cooking and heating for years without any protest. The company, they declared, is engaging in an expansion program involving millions of dollars to care for the increasing population of the city, and to compel them to obtain a franchise at this juncture would militate against the expansion.

Councilman Conaway declared that if the company was forced to get a franchise under the proposal submitted, which sets the franchise fee at 2 per cent of the annual gross earnings, the consumer would have to pay this in increased rates. Two per cent, he stated, would amount to $150,000 a year, for the payment of which the gas company could secure a higher tariff from the State Railroad Commission.

Declares Wife Confessed Her Love Was Cold

When Harry J. Zidell first noticed Jim Fisher coming to his house, he accepted his wife's explanation that he was there to meet another girl, he testified yesterday before Judge Summerfield in his divorce suit. Then he found out she was going to dances with Fisher, and then the neighbors began to talk.

"I asked her point blank if she loved him and she said she did," the husband declared. "I said I would step aside and she went to Fisher for a week, then came begging to be taken back. She agreed there would be no more Fisher in her life."

The reconciliation did not last, Zidell declared, for when he found she was again meeting Fisher clandestinely he left her and sued for divorce. Judge Summerfield granted the decree.

STAR IS INDIAN

MONTE BLUE TO REPRESENT RACE IN PETITION

By Grace Kingsley

If Monte Blue doesn't do his duty by his country, it isn't going to be the fault of the Los Angeles Woman's City Club. The club has just put out Congressional petitions for the enfranchisement of the American Indian.

All of which leads up to the announcement that Mrs. William P. Cunningham, president of the club above named, has chosen Monte Blue, Warner Brothers' star, to represent the motion-picture industry in regard to the circulation of the petitions, and he may even find it necessary to go to Washington to aid in regard to the matter.

The appointment of the star to the responsibility of circulating the petitions on behalf of the Indians brings to light the fact that Monte Blue has Indian blood in his veins, and that his real name is Blue Mountain. The Cherokee tribe claimed Monte's ancestors. When he went into pictures he took the name of Monte Blue.

Blue has prepared copies of the petition and has sent them to the Hollywood studios for signatures. Yesterday he wired a petition to New York for the film people to sign. He expects to get the signature of every picture star and employee both here and in the East to the petition, which shall give the Indian his rights as a citizen. The first to sign were Marie Prevost, Harry Myers, Irene Rich, Helen Ferguson, Claire Windsor and a score of others at the Warner studios.

The club has asked him to address the members next Monday afternoon at their meeting, when Princess Sitka-lasu, another speaker in behalf of the petitions, will be present.

MARY NEWCOMB TO COME TO MAJESTIC

It is just about settled that Mary Newcomb, the brilliant young leading woman who formerly charmed us at the Majestic, will return to that center of dramatic art and culture.

According to word received yesterday, Thomas Wilkes will once more place Miss Newcomb at the head of the Wilkes players in response to popular demand.

Miss Newcomb came in as leading woman at the Majestic about two years ago. She was instantly popular. Since that time she has played numerous roles, but left last summer to appear in San Francisco and other principal coast cities in "Nice People." She was leading woman with the Wilkes players in San Francisco for several weeks.

The young actress is doubtless, due to her talent, beauty and personality, headed for New York's Broadway, but in the meantime the Los Angeles fans are to see her again, if present plans are carried out.

Miss Katherine Wallace, who is to appear in "East Is West," has been engaged for this production only, so far as Los Angeles is concerned, but is either to fulfill leading engagements with the Wilkes stock companies in other cities, or return to New York for a star part on Broadway.

The present leading woman, Nana Bryant, is to go to New York in response to an offer for her to appear on Broadway.

Dixon to Make It

"The Man From Tall Timbers" is the name of a story to be produced by Denver Dixon, according to announcement made yesterday. Mr. Dixon has some reputation as a director and producer. He will make the picture in New Mexico with an excellent cast of players.

Reasons Why Shows Are Tempting

Kathleen Wallace.

In the Play Parade

Kathleen Wallace, new leading woman at the Majestic Theater, who will make her debut in "East is West"; Leila Hyams, daughter of John Hyams, and Leila McIntyre Hyams, who is playing ingenue in their sketch at the Orpheum, and Doris Kenyon appearing opposite Johnny Hines in "Sure-Fire Flint" at the Symphony Theater.

ORPHEUS CLUB IN OPENING CONCERT

Hugo Kirchhofer made his debut as director of the Orpheus Club, the men's choral organization, which opened its season last night at Trinity Auditorium. The program was one of interest and variety, and the director secured effects in shading and interpretation which were pleasing to the large audience which attended. He showed a convincing verve in his directing.

One of the most unusual numbers was the "Thanatopsis," with musical setting by Joseph Mosenthal. The incidental solo was given by V. A. Campbell, and a quintet, made up of Messrs. Smith, Glass, Carter, Brandt and Peterson, took part in the rendition.

A number that received especial applause was "The Banshee" by Bertha McCray. The composer herself was present and was presented with a gift of flowers by the club. The solo in the "Banshee" was effectively sung by Williiam E. Ooley.

A "Bedouin Love Song" by Arthur Foote, "By Babylon's Wave" by Gounod, in which Sibley G. Pease assisted at the organ; "Katy Did," by C. B. Hawley; Lullaby by Mozart-Ryder; "The Sandman" by Daniel Protheroe; "Gray Days" by Noel Johnson, and "The Birth of Morn" by Francesco Leoni were other pleasing choruses.

Flora Myers Engel sang with feeling and vocal pleasingness the aria "Pace, Pace, Mio Dio," from "La Forza del Destino," by Verdi, and "There Was a Star," by Mitchell, "Night and the Curtains Drawn," by Ferrata, and "Rondel of Spring," by Bibb, which received hearty applause.

LIBRARY TO BENEFIT BY POPULAR CONCERT

W. A. Clark, Jr., founder of the Philharmonic orchestra, has announced that the entire sale of single tickets for the fourth popular afternoon concert at Philharmonic Auditorium Sunday will be turned over to the music department of the Public Library. Olga Steeb, celebrated pianist, will also give her services at this concert, appearing as the soloist.

Conductor Rothwell has selected a program especially well suited to the occasion with compositions of Beethoven, Liszt and Wagner, repeating the beautiful overture, "Egmont," played at the second symphony concert; the Liszt Symphonic poem No. 4, "Orpheus," two Wagner preludes, Isolde's Love Death from Tristan and Isolde and Die Meistersinger. Miss Steeb will play the Liszt No. 1 E flat concerto for piano and orchestra.

TWO ORPHEUM SHOWS ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

Despite the fact that New Year's eve comes on Sunday this year, the Orpheum has announced its usual two shows for that time—the only occasion when it does a "three-a-day."

The two performances will be held at 7 and 10 p.m. the 31st inst., and will be full and complete shows. While the box office sale for tickets for these two performances will not open until the 24th inst., mail orders will be received from now on for either show, if the proper performance desired is designated, and bank check or money order is inclosed to cover cost of tickets and war tax. In all such cases, selections of tickets will be posted if stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed with the order.

Tucker Builds House

Harlan Tucker, who is to play the lead in "Blood and Sand," at the Morosco, is running home early from rehearsals these days. The reason is because he and his wife, Marie Walcamp, are building a new home on Los Feliz Boulevard, and Tucker wants to be sure that the billiard room, doghouse and swimming pool are in the right places.

PLAYDOM

DID QUEEN DYE HAIR?

ROMANTIC CHARACTERS ARE STRANGELY CHANGED

By Edwin Schallert

Did queens change the color of their hair in the olden days, or is this tendency in a picture production to be regarded only as a poetic license? We have no means of knowing just at present, for the feature which reveals such astonishing circumstances has not yet been released. Said picture is "Rupert of Hentzau," which is based upon a sequel to "The Prisoner of Zenda," which, in the Rex Ingram version, was recently shown on the silversheet. It happens, however, that "Rupert" is being made by an entirely different company, namely the Selznick organization. Consequently the traditions of the Ingram feature, which was a Metro release are not being followed.

In "The Prisoner of Zenda" Alice Terry played the Princess Flavia. She wore the blonde wig which she has used for every heroine she has portrayed. And now—

As Queen Flavia, Elaine Hammerstein scorns the blondined wig and wears her own dark tresses. The Queen will consequently appear as a brunette where as a Princess she was a blonde.

Still another change. In "The Prisoner of Zenda," the Countess Helga, played by Barbara La Marr, was a decided brunette. In "Rupert," the latter is taken by Claire Windsor, who is a blonde. So the Countess, even as the Queen, has changed the color of her hair.

Logic, on the other hand, has been preserved in the instance of Rudolf Rassendyll, even at the sacrifice of the comfort and pride of a leading actor. To play the role Bert Lytell underwent the process of peroxiding his own dark hair, so that temporarily he is a blond.

Bert made the sacrifice to art, but they say that he is staying home every night in the week and refuses to see his friends, on account of the distaste he feels for his present blondness. What he did do is regarded as far more satisfactory than wearing a wig.

CHILD CONTRALTO ON "DISCOVERY" PROGRAM

Prominent among the artists who will appear on the program at Grauman's Sunday morning "Discovery" concert is little Hafen Appel, 13 years old, who has displayed remarkable talent both as a vocalist and in readings. She has a deep, full contralto voice, with a sympathetic quality.

Lucille Gibbs, dramatic soprano who is appearing as Maid Marian in the picturesque "Robin Hood" prologue, will render an operatic aria; Dorothy Lutz in costume dances; L. Indriani, trumpet solo; L. Castellucci and M. De Annuncio, trumpet and trombone duet; string quartet, composed of Anton Bradac, Albert Weiler, J. Bloor and M. G. Elsoff; Henry Murtagh's organ solos, and Grauman's symphony orchestra, under Marcelli's baton, will complete the concert program.

Peggy's Cold Bulletin

At last the matter is settled as to which actress, Mae Murray or Gloria Swanson, wears the fewest clothes in pictures. Anyhow, Baby Peggy says it is, and she ought to know; she has been impersonating them lately in a picture.

The prize goes to Mae Murray. The reason Peggy knows is because she caught an awful cold the other day when dressed in a Mae Murray gossamer outfit. The tot was confined to her home for a few days but is out once more. She is going to impersonate Mary Pickford today, so she isn't worried about catching cold.

Mystery Surrounds Purported Romance

Katherine MacDonald

ENGAGEMENT IS DENIED

Katherine MacDonald Refutes Story She's to Wed and Quit Film Work

No, indeed.

But, yes.

Katherine MacDonald, sometimes called the "American Beauty," denied last night that she was engaged to marry Jack Morrel, wealthy New Yorker, and that she was even thinking of quitting work at the Louis B. Mayer Studio.

But authentic information leaked out of the Mayer Studio that Miss MacDonald will make only one more picture after her present one and would terminate her picture work about Feb. 1, 1923.

A reporter called at Miss MacDonald's home, 127 North Manhattan place, to find out about it.

"Gimme the package, boy," said Miss MacDonald's blonde sister Miriam, sticking a hand out of the door.

"I thought you were a messenger boy," she said. "Miss MacDonald is in bed with a sore throat and can't see any one."

"But she will answer a message?" asked the reporter. "I'll see," sniff the sister and disappeared with it. She returned:

"Miss MacDonald says she is not going to marry, has not thought about it and reiterates her denial of several weeks ago."

"Does she know Mr. Morrel?"

"Really, I can't disturb her again, but you can depend on what I say. She is not going to get married nor leave the pictures."

That would seem to settle it, the reporter thought. But then he got the report from the studio and wondered why Miss MacDonald doesn't know she is going to quit February 1, even if she doesn't get married.

Miss MacDonald was formerly the wife of Malcomb A. Strauss, a New York artist and divorced him in April, 1919. She has been starred mainly in society dramas. First National attractions.

ABATEMENT CASES WAIT ON RUTTER

No Action is Expected Until Legal Adviser's Visit to Los Angeles

In spite of reports of abatement proceedings against violators of the prohibition law, there will be no action taken by the local prohibition enforcement officials until after the visit of W. J. Gloria, legal adviser to State Prohibition Director Rutter, now set for the 14th inst. The matter is in the hands of U. S. Dist.-Atty. Burke.

It is believed that with the arrival of Mr. Gloria there will be a tightening of the ropes in regard to the enforcement of the national prohibition law, and that proceedings in an abatement will follow as a part of the new program.

To "abate a nuisance," as applied to the enforcement of the liquor laws, means that the places are ordered closed by the court. They are permanently put out of business.

About two years ago the law was invoked in the case of the Vernon Country Club, and the place conducted by C. Fred Harlow, on the boulevard to Venice. The order for the closing of both places was issued by Judge Trippet.

Prohibition Enforcement Agent H. H. Dulley is collecting evidence to be submitted to Attorney Gloria when he comes to Los Angeles, and it is believed the outcome will be that a petition involving abatement proceedings in at least four local cases will be filed.

Legion Wants Police to Stop Gadski Concert

Members of the American Legion are expected to appear in large numbers at the City Hall at 10 a.m. today at the special meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners to consider the request of the Legion that the city prohibit the appearance of Mme. Johanna Gadski, who is scheduled to sing at Philharmonic Auditorium on next Monday evening.

The Legion men are basing their application for the prevention of the concert on the ground that the public safety will be endangered if the concert is permitted, as the Legion men said there will be demonstrations of disapproval and possibly a riot by individual ex-service men and their friends.

BURCH IS TO FACE COMMISSION TODAY

Arthur Burch will face the Lunacy Commission for a hearing as to his sanity tomorrow at 9 a.m. His attorneys, Schenck and Cortrella, yesterday secured a continuance until that time.

The indictment charging Burch with the murder of J. Belton Kennedy was dismissed last Monday.

WINDHAM WANTED AS CITY HEAD

Long Beach Associations Favor Postmaster in Post of City Manager

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Dec. 7.—A formal resolution will be placed before the City Council Saturday morning requesting that Postmaster Windham be named as City Manager to succeed Charles H. Heron, recently ousted at a recall election. The resolution was adopted here today by the Property Owners' Protective Association, an organization just formed.

Delegates from the City Manager Club, the West Anaheim Improvement Association and the Central Improvement Association, attended the meeting and voted in favor of the resolution. Several other names of prominent Long Beach citizens which have been mentioned during the past two weeks as possible material for the City Managership, were voted upon at the association meeting. These included F. H. Dunn, Councilman; H. S. Callahan, former Councilman; C. S. Henderson, former president of the Chamber of Commerce; Ben W. Mulendore, former Chief of Police, and Scott Alexander, hotel owner.

The resolution favoring Windham sets forth that it is the belief of those at the meeting that Windham is "the best qualified property owner of Long Beach to fill the office of City Manager, and that he is the man who can come nearest to restoring harmony, securing the confidence of the people, and give Long Beach a strictly business administration."

Film Exchange Man's Funeral This Afternoon

Funeral services for Robert P. Amador, sales representative of the Los Angeles exchange of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, who died at San Francisco Wednesday, will be held at 2 p.m. today at St. Joseph's Church, Twelfth and Los Angeles streets.

Mr. Amador was 27 years old. He leaves his mother, three brothers and a sister, all residing in this city. Mr. Amador died of acute appendicitis. He was en route to the Bay City to attend a convention of the western division of the Paramount forces when taken ill. An operation was performed at San Francisco in an effort to save his life, but this proved futile.

Will Hays On Way Her... Industry to E...

[EXCLUSIVE]

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—Will H... Hays up a model industrial e... more efficient methods, which, h... slaughters of the place and ultim... career above reproach.

Thomas G. Patten, recently pu... master in New York, has also go... to Hays. Mr. Hays as a representa... life of the motion-picture produc... any association, of which Mr. Hays ... executive chairman. Mr. Hays ... will stay there for several weeks ... that Mr. Patten will remain.

HAYS'S STATEMENT

In a statement issued today, Mr. Hays said:

"We are going to make certain ... that everything that is possible to ... be done shall be done by the fi... industry to make the activities ... the motion-picture business in the ... industry demonstrate an industrial ... character with the very best possible ... relationships within its own ranks ... between the producers themselves, ... between the producers and exhi... bitors and between the com... bined industry and the public with ... the fullest use of all the approved ... and recognized best methods in in... dustrial community life with the ... utmost best possible spirit, in ... all of which recreation facilities ... community centers, dormitories, ... cafeterias, are incidents.

"Also, I hope will be one of the ... chief in the development of the ... confidence and co-operation ... within the industry itself, in all ... its branches and between the in... dustry and the public. There are ... consequent resultants ... from the development of the mind... along these lines which will ... be reflected in many ways, of ... course, including the quality of ... the product.

"The largest industry in Los An... geles county is motion pictures ... which last year reached nearly ... $100,000,000, with a weekly pay ... roll of $2,000,000. This makes ... the motion-picture in... dustry of the very first importance ... to the community there, and places upon ... the industry a definite responsi... bility in the commercial and com... munity life of that section.

"There are thousands of em... ployees, the business is closely ... knit, and it would seem to be ... proper for the industry to main... tain a definite community whereby ... the employees, as an industrial establish... ment of an industrial establish... ment of it, be at all possible to ... have employees in any business."

BOARD MEMBERS

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 8.—Three ... members of the State Board of ... Control, H. J. Mallory of San ... Diego, H. B. Meader of Oak... land and R. T. Orr of Pasadena, ... were appointed today by Gov... ernor Richardson for a term of four years.
